Neighbors on guard, foil holdup

Suspect warned: 'everybody's watching'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — "They all come into my store. These people are really good," Martha Harrington says of her East Side neighbors who foiled a robbery attempt at the small market she operates.

Police said William Schaefer, 28, of Hallandale, Fla., was loitering near the store for several hours Thursday and ignored a small boy's warning that "everybody in the neighborhood's watching you."

Mark, a 5-year-old who frequents the penny-candy cou er at Martha's Food Mart, "just walked up and told this guy everybody was watching," Mrs. Harrington said Saturday, but Schaefer "stayed around anyway."

Ken Novak, who lives across the street from Mrs. Harrington's store, had been taking pictures of the stranger all afternoon with a telephoto lens. And Paul Paikowski, another neighbor, had a loaded shotgun ready.

Novak and Paikowski conferred with Mrs. Harrington about the stranger, then left her store and watched from across the street with a 17-year-old neighborhood youth.

Police said Schaefer walked into the grocery, vaulted the counter, put his hands over Mrs. Harrington's eyes and then scooped money from the cash register. Mrs. Harrington, a widow for 24 years who says only that she's old enough to collect Social Security, screamed and her neighbors went into action.

When Schaefer ran out of the store, the 17-year-old boy chased him into a backyard and tackled him. Schaefer pulled a knife and lunged at the boy, but Paikowski then fired his shotgun into the ground and told Schaefer to freeze or he would kill him, Novak said.

Schaefer dropped the knife, the money was recovered, and police were called. Schaefer was charged with robbery and endangering safety.

"We didn't want to get into the role of playing policemen," Novak said. "But we did what we had to do."

Mrs. Harrington said later: "It's a good neighborhood. I've been here long enough to know everyone like a book. This is just a little neighborhood store, but I'm proud of my store and I'm proud of my neighborhood."

37 motorists injured

30 cars, trucks pile up in fog

BAKERSFIELD (AP) — Thirty-seven persons were injured when an estimated 30 vehicles piled up on a rainy, foggy mountaintop freeway stretch Saturday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The injured, left in a trail of wrecks nearly a mile long, were taken to four hospitals, the CHP said. The most serious injury was a broken leg, officers said. There were no fatalities, despite early reports of two deaths, they added.

Interstate 5 was open Saturday evening, and the CHP said 20 vehicles had been towed away from the scene of the nightmare accident, which started with the collision of two trucks.

With visibility nearly zero, a semi-trailer truck making a lane change was struck from behind by another truck rig that jackknifed, blocking the southbound lanes.

Then — one after another — cars and trucks plowed into the wreckage. One truck rig had four cars jammed underneath it.

The injured made their way or were carried to a commercial campground adjacent to the crash site.

"It was unreal; people kept disappearing and reappearing through the fog, but nobody was crying or screaming," said an onlooker. "A woman with blood streaming down her face was helping another woman get her belongings out of her car."

The campsite was set up as a temporary hospital, from which ambulances took the injured— four and five at a time—to Bakersfield hospitals. Rescue helicopters were also summoned but the ambulances got the to the injured before they arrived.

The cars slammed together on a level stretch of Interstate 5 that crosses the Tehachapi Mountains on the way from Bakersfield to Los Angeles. The vehicles had just climbed the steep Grapevine, a formerly treacherous and winding grade that has been straightened by freeway construction.

Bob Alder, who operates the KOA campground, said he heard the first collision about 8 a.m.

"When I counted the 12th one," he said, "I called on my citizens band radio to warn trucks coming up the Grapevine.

A witness said cars were spun in every direction; trucks were jacknifed back on themselves and one small foreign car, caught between two others, was bent upward at both ends in a "U."

Demos set jobs as '76 goal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination set full employment as one of the nation's top goals in 1976 and advocated controls on oil companies Saturday.

Former U.S. Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma got the most applause in back-to-back appearances with Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania and former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford.

There were more similarities than differences among the four candidates who appeared in separate 90-minute question-and-answer sessions with a standing-room-only crowd of 1,500 at the western Democratic Presidential Conference.

The conference was part of a series of regional meetings sponsored by Americans for Democratic Action and other groups generally aligned with the liberal wing of the Democratic party.

Udall, whose audience response nearly matched Harris' despite Udall's relatively low-key style, proposed a federal exploration program for oil to "take out of the hands of private industry this whole exploration phase."

Harris said he would "commit this country to full employment" with programs to add another 12 million jobs within 18 months.

"You're going to have to have a deficit to get people back to work," he added, saying that didn't alarm him as much as unemployment.

Shapp called unemployment and the economy the major issues facing the nation in 1976, and he advocated a tough federal stance against major oil companies.

Sanford also advocated a full employment policy, which he said the federal government could achieve by setting different goals.

FTC asks antitrust action

The Federal Trade Commission was reported to have recommended antitrust action against the giant automaker, whose sales last year totaled nearly $32 billion.

FTC Chairman Lewis A. Engman declined comment on the report, saying only that "we have a number of investigations going on. Some are the responsibility of the commission and some of the Justice Department."

Bruce Wilson, deputy assistant attorney general, said of the report: "Any industry which is structured like the auto industry is the subject of constant observation."

The Justice Department reportedly was close to filing an antitrust suit against GM in 1968 but was overridden by the White House, NBC News said Saturday.

More than half the cars built and sold in the United States are made by GM.

The FTC staff "says that kind of dominance is tantamount to monopoly," said NBC, which reported it had learned that both the economics and the competition bureaus of the FTC have recommended antitrust action against GM.

That report was confirmed by a source in the federal government who did not wish to be identified.

"Justice has been working on this for a long time," said Frank Faraone, a GM spokesman in Washington. "I wouldn't know where the FTC fits in."

A spokesman for the Justice Department said the FTC refers its recommendations to the department, which has 40 days to decide whether to file suit. At the end of that period, the matter is returned to the FTC, which can file suit on its own.

Pollutants hike risks of cancer, other ills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Low, repeated doses of such commonplace pollutants as fumes in the air and chemicals in drinking water are increasing risks of cancer, heart disease and genetic mutations, according to a Library of Congress report.

While a single exposure to the pollutants is not harmful, repeated doses can build up toxic substances in an individual, increasing the chance of developing the illnesses or damaging genes, the report states.

It says that new respiratory diseases, related to pollution, "have assumed a sinigificant importance."

The report, entitled "Effects of Chronic Exposure to Low-Level Pollutants in the Environment," also discloses:

—The ability to detect chemically induced health dangers is so limited that only a portion of the damage can be recognized;

—The costs to society of diseases linked to environmental pollution while difficult to pin down, are staggering, and,

—Expensive and arduous testing methods are not sensitive enough to detect the polluting agents.

Man falls to death during plane struggle

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — A despondent teen-ager chartered a small plane Saturday, pulled a gun on the pilot and ordered him to nose-dive the plane, authorities said. The youth was killed when the pilot pushed him out of the diving plane.

The pilot, Richard Leibundguth, said the young man told him he had been having family problems and was thinking of suicide.

Mississippi County sheriff's deputies said the body of Jack R. Johnson, 19, of Evansville, Ind., was found in a field 25 miles southeast of Cape Girardeau.

Leibundguth, who pulled the plane out of the dive and landed safely, said his passenger fired one shot at him but missed.

The plane was at 8,500 feet when the two men began struggling with each other. As the plane reached 3,500, the right door popped open.

The pilot then turned the plane sharply on its side with Johnson facing down and kicked at him until he fell out of the plane. During the struggle, Johnson fired a shot at the pilot.

Leibundguth said he first thought the shot hit him, but it only grazed his seat belt, bruising his thigh.

Police pick up 50 students

More than 50 school-aged youths were picked up by police Friday in Pomona as part of the Operation Increased Attendance program.

Larry Rubin, director of the Pomona Juvenile Diversion Project, said it was the most Pomona students picked up in one day so far this year.

The youths, said Rubin, were either returned to their schools or taken to a "neutral location" where they are counseled about their truancy before being returned to their classes.

Authorities predict the program will help reduce juvenile crime during school hours.

Ontarian stabbed 16 times

A 59-year-old Ontario man Saturday night was in satisfactory condition at Ontario Community Hospital after being stabbed 16 times with a 12-inch butcher knife following an agrument at his home.

Police booked Della Louise Jackson, (alias Ewell), 26, of 522 S. Lemon Ave., at the West End Sheriff's Substation jail on charges of suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and assault with intent to commit murder.

According to statements Weaver made to police, he and the Jackson woman had been living together at his home the past three months.

Weaver said he walked away from the woman, went into the living room and sat down on the sofa. He then got up and walked into the laundry room, at that point, he said, he was attacked.

Weaver underwent surgery at Ontario Community Hospital Friday night. Doctors said there were 16 stab wounds to his back, stomach, arms and upper chest. Officers described the weapon as a 12-inch butcher knife with a serrated edge.

According to Weaver's statement, the attack occurred between 6:10 p.m. and 6:20 p.m.

The police report said someone first called B & B Ambulance to report a sick man at the Campus Avenue address.

Ambulance attendants arrived to find Weaver bleeding on the living room floor. They called the Ontario Fire Department rescue squad and proceded to place Weaver on a medical gurney.

Police officers, called by the firemen, arrived as Weaver was being placed inside the ambulance. Their report said Weaver was covered with blood.

Weaver made a statement to police, which was taped, in the hospital emergency room.

Conrail freight system takes effect today

Congress had until midnight Saturday to reject the controversial Consolidated Rail Corp., known as Conrail, in which seven bankrupt railroads, including the huge Penn Central system, are absorbed.

Although a resolution of disapproval was filed against the reorganization last week by Rep. James Hastings, R-N.Y., it was not acted on before Congress adjourned for the weekend.

The system, devised by the U.S. Railway Association (USRA), was supported by the Ford administration. Transportation Department officials have estimated that it will cost about $2 billion, but Congress has not appropriated any funds for it.

It includes the planned abandonment of nearly 6,000 miles of branch lines in the area affected.

Property transfers to Conrail will not take place until early 1976 and federal money to implement the reorganization probably will have been voted by then.

House Minority Whip Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., said Friday that Congress was abrogating its responsibility in allowing the plan to take effect without debate.

"We are about to let a multi-billion-dollar operation go into effect without debate, and without action on the floor and without a specific declaration by a majority of the Congress that it is something we want," Michel said.

Officials of USRA have estimated that Conrail will have operating losses of $332 million in its first year. But they predict that, by 1985, it will have freight assets of almost $7 billion, including $5.2 billion in road, facilities and transportation equipment.

The bankrupt railroads from which the quasi-public corporation is formed will have estimated operating losses in 1975 totaling $500 million.

On Friday, USRA approved the sale of portions of three bankrupt railroads to the solvent Chessie System at a cutrate price.

The Chessie purchase was approved at a net liquidation value of approximately $54.5 million — $8 million less than USRA had asked for the lines last July.

Involved in that purchase are major portions of the Erie Lackawanna, Reading and Penn Central railroads. The Penn Central lines affected are centered at Charleston, W.Va.

The Conrail system will include the other portions of those three railroads, plus the Lehigh Valley, the Lehigh and Hudson River, the Central of New Jersey and the Ann Arbor.

Experience as POW aided Dutchman held by terrorists

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — Dutch businessman Tiede Herrema, minus only a tooth after being held prisoner by Irish terrorists for 36 days, returned to a family reunion Saturday. He said he cried once during his captivity but that his experience as a POW in Germany during World War II "helped me to face this awful situation."

Herrema, 53, and his wife, Elizabeth, who had flown to Ireland Friday night to meet her husband shortly after his release, were welcomed at Rotterdam airport by their sons, Jelle, 26, Sjoerd, 25, and Harm, 14, and a throng of some 1,000 well-wishers.

Looking surprisingly fit and smiling, Herrema told reporters at an airport news conference that he was "very glad to be back on native soil again," adding that he had "just one request to make."

Herrema, manager of the Dutch-owned Ferenka steel plant in Limerick where he was kidnaped Oct. 3, said his endurance had surprised him.

"It turned out I was mentally and physically stronger than I had thought myself, especially during the last 18 days," he said.

This was when Herrema's two captors, 28-year-old Eddie Gallagher and 19-year-old Marian Coyle, were besieged by police on the second floor of a two-story house in Monasterevin, 40 miles west of Dublin.

"Conditions were terrible," Herrema said, referring to the small, littered bedroom where he was kept.

"Only once, though, I felt I was near a breakdown and cried for some 10 minutes. But most of the time I was able to convince myself I should stay as mentally uninvolved as possible and could keep up my spirits that way."

Before leaving Ireland, Herrema told a news conference, "I had 24 hours a day to think. At different times I tried to escape or made plans to escape, but it was fairly difficult because they guarded me very well."

AGADIR, Morocco (AP) — Unarmed Moroccan marchers were reported massed Saturday to enter the Spanish Sahara at a third point as King Hassan II and a Spanish cabinet minister reopened talks on a possible compromise over the disputed territory.

The Moroccan newspaper L'Opinion quoted a field correspondent as saying a large group was preparing to open the new front just 30 miles west of the Algerian border — joining the 120,000 marchers facing a Spanish minefield and legionaires near the Atlantic coast and an unconfirmed number at another front roughly midway between the coast and the Algerian frontier.

Antonio Carro Martinez, Spain's minister of the premier's office, flew unexpectedly into Agadir, Morocco's temporary capital, after a discussion of the crisis by the Spanish cabinet on Friday.

King Hassan received Carro in his Agadir palace. Among others attending the session were Moroccan Premier Ahmed Osman an Foreign Minister Ahmed Laraki.

Before the meeting between Hassan and Carro began, Moroccan Information Minister Ahmed Taibi Benhim told newsmen, "You can expect a decisive turn of events in the next 24 hours." He did not elaborate, but the statement was widely regarded as confirmation of reports that a compromise was in the making.

Those at the first opening began crossing the border Thursday south of Tarfaya but stopped when they came to what Spain calls its "dissuasion line" of mines, barbed wire and legionnaires about six miles across the frontier.

Crony who broke with Hitler dead at age 88

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — Ernst "Putzi" Hanfstaengl, Adolf Hitler's Harvard-educated crony who broke with the Nazis and spent World War II as a consultant in the United States, died at the age of 88 and has been quietly buried, his family said Saturday.

The once flamboyant Hanfstaengl, whose piano playing soothed Hitler in times of stress, died Thursday, a family spokesman said. The announcement was delayed until after the quiet burial ceremony that Hanfstaengl had requested, he added.

After leaving the Third Reich in 1937, Hanfstaengl lived in Switzerland and England and during World War II came to the United States where he analyzed Nazi broadcasts for the U.S. government.

He returned to Germany in 1946.

An early Hitler supporter, Hanfstaengl became foreign press chief of the Nazi party in 1932. Five years later he fled what he claimed was a plot to kill him. Other Nazis, including Munitions Minister Albert Speer, later claimed there had been no plot and that Hanfstaengl had just been the victim of a vicious practical joke that backfired.

Hanfstaengl, a member of the Harvard class of 1909, was impressed by Hitler after hearing him at an early rally but did not formally join the Nazi party until 1931.

After the unsuccessful 1923 beerhall putsch, Hitler escaped to Hanfstaengl's home in Uffing, where he was arrested. In his memoirs, Hanfstaengl said Hitler had wanted to shoot himself rather than be arrested, but Hanfstaengl's wife disarmed the future Nazi dictator with a judo grip her husband had taught her.

According to Hanfstaengl, he fell out of favor with Hitler in 1934, the year of the bloody Nazi purges. But he nominally remained at his party post until February 1937.

Man robbed in restaurant parking lot

A young, clean-shaven man robbed a 61-year-old Anaheim man of a small amount of cash Saturday in a restaurant parking lot in Pomona, police said.

Officers reported Stephen Kosct was approached by a robber wielding a .22 caliber revolver outside Denny's Restaurant at 1504 Gillette Street, at 3:40 a.m.

Kosct had started to drive away from the restaurant, but the robber drove up, blocking his way. The man alighted from his car and demanded money from the victim, police stated. Pointing the revolver at Kosct's face, he forced the man to hand over his wallet.

The suspect, who then sped away, was described as about 6 feet, 150 pounds and 25 years old, wearing a fishing hat and blue levi jacket. His car reportedly was a green 1965 Chevrolet or Oldsmobile sedan.

Chino eyes election to settle issue of year-round school

The Chino school board will again consider whether to call an election on the year-round school controversy at Monday night's meeting.

Board members will gather Monday at 7 p.m. instead of the usual Tuesday meeting because of the Veteran's Day holiday.

Trustees postponed a decision Oct. 14 on whether to place the year-round issue before voters on a March 2 ballot. They voted, however, to publish a notice of intent to operate a mandatory continuous school program for some students.

The board made it clear the notice would be "null and void" if an election was not scheduled for March 2.

The YRS issue has been a hot one for several years, and board members have been haggling lately over whether to call an election and settle the controversy. They favored an election at one July meeting, but tabled action following a public hearing in which most residents opposed it.

New York City: some like it, and some don't

Editor's Note: New York, N.Y. Love it or hate it, it's hard to be neutral, no matter where you live. Here is a look at what the financially troubled city means to a random sampling of people around the country.

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

To Gary Christian of Seattle, New York City is traffic jams and prostitutes. "It's what the rest of the world is liable to become if we don't watch out."

To William Wenzler of Milwaukee, New York City is a diversity of people and sights. "It is a fascinating, vibrant, exciting place to visit and, I would suspect, to live."

Christian, a chemistry professor, and Wenzler, an architect, typify the wide variety of opinions that people in the rest of the country have about New York.

The Associated Press asked a random sampling of people in about a dozen cities how they felt about New York, whether they had visited or lived there, what sort of experiences they had and whether they would want to live there.

Those who had been to New York had mixed experiences. They remembered the theaters and Wall Street, the museums and the ballet. But they also remembered the dirt, the hurried pace and the fear of walking the streets after dark.

Few people said they wanted to live in New York. It was too big, too expensive, too unfriendly.

But almost all of them said they felt New York City had made a contribution to the rest of the country — in culture, in education, in medicine, in business and in acting as a unique melting pot that is the gateway to America.

People's emotions often were colored by their personal experiences.

Christian's most recent visit to New York was several years ago. He said he'd never return. "I was caught in a terrific traffic jam and my bus from the airport was delayed. From Times Square I took a cab to the hotel and it took me one hour to go two blocks. One of the first things I noticed was prostitutes on the corner and it was a fairly classy hotel."

Wenzler, in contrast, has other memories of his visits to New York. "I would spend a lot of time walking, including East Harlem. I've taken the subway up there, I've walked the streets, I've been gone into (old fashioned) apartments to see what they were like ... I asked people on the street if I could could see them and they invited me in."

The difference in viewpoints is reflected in some of the many public opinion polls on federal aid for New York City, although pollsters say the timing of the surveys and the way the questions are asked have a lot to do with the outcome.

Dr. Irving Crespi, a vice president with the Gallup Organization, noted that different surveys showed widely varying results — pro and con financial aid. But, he added, when you take them all together "it is very clear that the widespread assumption that the nation hates New York City just isn't correct."

Some people do seem to hate New York, however.

Fred Kinsey, 47, unmarried, a free lance artist who lives in Little Rock, Ark., said: "Take one giant bulldozer and push it into the East River. New York is so corrupt, it's unreal. It's a giant organism that's eating itself up."

Kinsey said he lived in New York "for about three months one time, back in the 40s. That was enough for ever. No way I would live in New York again unless I had enough money to insulate myself from New York."

Eugene Shepherd of Kansas City is a machinist, in his 50s, married. "How do I feel about New York? How do you feel about your left arm. It's there, it's part of the United States."

Shepherd wouldn't want to live in New York, because of its size. "I'm a Midwesterner ... I'm thinking about leaving this town because it's getting too big."

Douglas Jensen, a 25-year-old, married employe of a building contractor in Denver, said he would consider living in New York "given the proper incentives."

Jensen said he had mixed reactions about the city although he had only traveled through the city and eaten there without staying overnight. What was his experience? "Mediocre food."

Another Denver resident, Ruth Mohr, 43, married and a secretary, has more pleasant memories of her 1967 visit to New York. "We did a lot of sightseeing, went to the museums, saw plays. We had a great vacation out of it. We walked all over, took buses, subways, came back at one in the morning. Had no trouble whatsoever."

Tom Thompson, 29, of Concord, N.H., said he prefers country life, but believes New York makes an important contribution. "I think we need a nerve center of urban life, where the country can accomplish everything that can be accomplished in an urban environment," said Thompson, who is divorced, works in a bank and visits New York frequently.

"The art museums are some of the best in the world, plus the theaters, the Metropolitan Opera, plus the New York Philharmonic and other orchestras. It's the cultural center of the U.S."

Kevin O'Connor, a 26-year-old bachelor who has been a Milwaukee alderman since 1974, grew up in New Jersey, not far from New York. "Sure there are problems," he said. "But that is city living. That's what rural people and Midwesterners have trouble adjusting to...

"New York is the greatest in every field — medical research, education, finance, culture. It's tied to our history from the very beginning."

Mrs. Ralph Woodland, 71, a Menoken, N.D., farm wife was one of the few people who didn't seem to care much about the city, one way or other. "I never gave it a second thought," she said, adding that she had never visited New York and would live there "only under dire circumstances."

Another North Dakota resident, Ronald Bertsch, 33, a student loan officer at the state university in Fargo, disagreed. Bertsch, who is married, said he thought New York would be too expensive for a family man, but indicated he'd like to try the city if he were single.

"The city intriques me," said Bertsch, who visited New York twice while with the military. "It is an education for everybody. It offers so much it's hard to put your finger on anything specific. It is a symbol of freedom with the Statue of Liberty and a wide cross-section of ethnic groups found nowhere else."

Martha King, 27, a life-long resident of the Chicago area who works at Children's Memorial Hospital and is single, said New York "is undoubtedly the most stimulating city in our country ... It's a beautiful city visually — the architecture, all the brownstones, the Cloisters, the Palisades, the parks ..."

Neil Garfield, 28, married, a law student, grew up in New York, then moved to Davie, Fla., a year ago. "I have no intention of going back. I think it's a mess, the whole city. The management is terrible. The quality of life is poor, the type of person the quality of life develops is also at a poor level."

Does New York make a contribution? "I think it used to. I think it no longer does. I think in culture, finance, industry politics, everything you can imagine, New York at one time was the very center of the country ... I think at this point, New York may be drawing more than it is giving."

Steve Sazama, 30, a Milwaukee native who manages a tavern, visited New York City twice to attend weddings. The most recent trip was in June. Both times, the bachelor stayed with friends on suburban Long Island.

"It cost $3 for a half-hour of parking — if you could find a spot. In June, I had to ask six or seven workers (at Grand Central Station) to find one who spoke English. It was appalling. When we were driving into New York City, we saw a stripped and burned car on the expressway. When we were leaving five days later, the car was still there."

Linda Nazer, 28, married, a former social worker who lives in Concord, N.H., said that on her first visit to the city "I was very impressed with the tall buildings, so many cars and all the bright lights. Later, I thought it was dirty and too busy."

Mrs. Nazer said the people of New York make a contribution to the nation, but added: "The buildings themselves could be somewhere else and the contributions could be made too. The city itself makes no contribution, (but) it certainly is handy to Kennedy Airport."

Winners in the other divisions were Chris Harvey, Sunland, junior; Janel Larson, Orange, intermediate; Roni Brower, Newberry Park, professional; Anthony Wheeler, Barstow, funny car; and Theresa Holtsclaw, Ontario, most original. The cars were propelled off a ramp on Euclid Avenue and onto a two-block race course.

Even if science could predict a quake, then what

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — To some federal scientists, an earthquake forecast is like the first sighting of the shark in "Jaws" — there's no need to panic.

Within a year, U.S. scientists are expected to be able to predict a future earthquake with some accuracy: the larger the quake, the earlier the forecast.

But Dr. Robert Hamilton, chief of earthquake studies for the U.S. Geological Survey, said he thinks mass evacuation wouldn't be desirable if a major quake was predicted in California.

"A vision of a mass of people streaming out of an earthquake threatened city will probably never come to pass" in the United States, Hamilton told a conference on earthquake prediction.

Like the local mayor in "Jaws," some of Hamilton's reasons are economic — a panic could ruin a city financially.

But he also said most California homes could withstand an earthquake, and there are other ways of saving lives, like a stepped up building safety program following an earthquake prediction.

Hamilton recently visited mainland China, where tens of thousands of residents were evacuated from their homes Feb. 4 just 5½ hours before a major earthquake. Chinese scientists have been studying earthquake forecasting for nearly a decade.

Hamilton said U.S. scientists may be making earthquake predictions within a year, and might be able to predict a major quake 10 years in advance, further pinpointing the time as the quake approached. Other predictions would come weeks or days ahead of time.

But the government's course of action after hearing a prediction is less clear-cut, Hamilton said.

"One can imagine, among other things, that prediction of a shock near a major city could lead to a drop in tourism, nonrenewal of earthquake insurance policies, fleeing of the area by the panic stricken, and convergence on the area by thrill-seekers," he said.

"Failure of the earthquake to occur could result in recriminations, lawsuits and loss of confidence in the scientists who made the prediction."

In addition, Dr. Ralph Turner of the University of California at Los Angeles said a longrange earthquake prediction could lead to unemployment, falling property values and reduced community tax revenue.

In any case, Hamilton said, mass evacuation may not be necessary.

"In California, where prediction may come first, most residences are of wooden frame construction, which stands up well in earthquakes," he said.

"This means that most people would be relatively safe in their homes during a tremor. Certain hazardous buildings should be evacuated, but these could be specifically identified."

In areas where a major quake was predicted years in the future, other scientists recommended a thorough inspection and rebuilding program.

Over economic summit

State and Treasury departments differ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford travels to an economic summit conference in Paris on Friday as the Treasury Department and State Department disagree about whether it is worthwhile.

French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing proposed the meeting several months ago, and Ford finally agreed to attend after Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger overrode Treasury Department objections that nothing could be gained by it.

Besides France and the United States, heads of government from Germany, Great Britain, Japan and Italy will attend. The United States wanted to include Canada, but others especially France, objected.

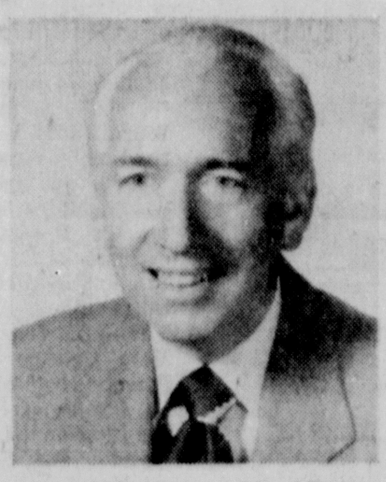
The three-day summit will begin Saturday at the Chateau Rambouillet, a castle about 45 miles outside Paris. Ford will be accompanied by Kissinger and Secretary of the Treasury William E. Simon.

Former Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz will attend a preliminary meeting this week in London where the agenda for the summit will be drawn up.

One administration official argued, "There's nothing to summit about. All they can do is sit around and pledge to keep the world out of depression, which they would do anyway."

State Department officials agree with the Treasury that little of substance probably will be accomplished at the meeting, but they think it is important for the United States to attend.

"The stakes are very large for us in generating closer cooperative ties between the United States, Europe and Japan," said another official who did not want to be identified.



ROGER SWEARINGEN— professor of international relations at USC and author of books on the Soviet Union, Japan and China, will be speaker at the Executives' Dinner Club of Pomona Valley dinner Thursday at 6:45 p.m. at the Diamond Bar Country Club. The cost is $5 each and reservations must be made by Monday noon by phoning Mrs. Norman Unroe at 622-2861.

Council is expected to approve agreement on Silver prosecution

Pomona City Council Monday night is expected to approve an agreement with Pomona attorney Raymond Youngquist for the prosecution of attorney Stephen Silver on a charge of disrupting the council meeting of Aug. 18.

The proposed agreement will cost the city $5,000 plus $2,500 when the case is brought to trial.

Silver, chief counsel for the Pomona Police Association during its summer-long pay fight with the city, was placed under citizen's arrest by Mayor Ray Lepire on Aug. 18 when he refused to cease speaking in protest of a council action relating to the pay negotiations.

The District Attorney's office refused to prosecute Silver, but the council last week by a 4-1 vote directed City Attorney Patrick Sampson to prosecute Silver under powers granted by the City Charter.

The council is now being asked to retain Youngquist because Sampson, who was present at the Aug. 18 meeting, may have to appear as a witness at the trial. None of the other lawyers in the City Attorney's office have any criminal practice experience.

Councilman Adrian Wright last week voted against prosecuting Silver, stating that it would serve no purpose.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting will include a presentation from representatives of the Southern California Rapid Transit District about proposed city bus line changes to take effect Jan. 1, and council consideration of a proposal to open the western portion of the Pomona Mall to one-way traffic from Garey to Park Avenues.

The council will also consider the designation of certain city employes as management and confidential employes.

The action will designate those employes in positions not to be considered members of the miscellaneous employes' union, the Service Employes International Union Local 660 AFL-CIO.

The union is soon to be officially recognized by the city as the bargaining unit for over 300 city employes.

Official recognition of the union is expected once the current negotiations with employes are concluded.

According to City Administrator Jerrold Gonce, the city and employes have tentatively agreed to a 5 per cent wage increase and an additional holiday, but discussions are still continuing over the date of the holiday.

Don't enjoy, enjoy—may mean cancer

SAN FRANCISCO — "Everything you enjoy gives you cancer. Smoking, drinking, sex," an English cancer surgeon said puffing on a cigarette.

"You should be born, sit in a vacuum and wait until you die," Dr. Stanley Way of Gateshead, England said when asked his advice on how to avoid cancer. "This should give us a greater impetus to find a cure."

Way said Friday during a cancer symposium here that he believes an over-active sex life can cause cancer of the cervix in women.

Dr. Elliott Strong told the same symposium that there is a correlation between heavy smoking and heavy drinking and cancer of the head and neck.

"We have no statistical proof, but it is uncommon indeed to see a patient with such cancer who has not combined to excess the use of tobacco and alcohol," Strong said.

Love, devotion needed for mentally ill

Assemblyman Lanterman dedicates center

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

A California assemblyman dedicated the San Gabriel Valley Regional Center for the Developmentally Handicapped in Pomona Friday by warning that such facilities "don't run themselves."

Assemblyman Frank Lanterman of Pasadena was the keynote speaker at the dedication of the center located at Casa Colina Hospital and operated for the state on a contact basis. He was also honored with a cake on his 74th birthday.

In his remarks, Lanterman said, "Lots of people are not especially concerned about the welfare of the mentally ill so it takes others with time, energy, intelligence and persistence to sustain such a center as this."

The dedication, marking the completion of the seventh and last regional center in Los Angeles County and the 20th and final one legislated by the Lanterman Developmental Disabilities Act of 1973, was attended by officials and administrators from health agencies throughout the state.

The assemblyman was honored in a talk by Rep. Clair Burgener, R-42nd Dist., who detailed Lanterman's quarter of a century supporting programs for the mentally ill in California.

"We still have waiting lists at some regional centers and there are still too few enlightened citizens, community planners and industrialists, but think what it was like for the mentally ill 25 years ago," said Burgener.

"My first trip to a mental hospital in 1951 left me shaken," said Lanterman. "I then got myself on the subcommittee of the ways and means committee which dealt with securing funds for the mentally ill."

"I've been in there pitching ever since, but now, as I approach 75, I'm ready to turn the reins over to someone else."

"The key to the support of such centers as the one here in Pomona is love and devotion. You must get the community involved," the legislator told the 200 people assembled outside the building.

"Governor Brown is a bright, articulate young man, but he knows nothing about the needs of the mentally retarded," said Lanterman.

He exhorted the audience to "take pen in hand and write the governor to let him know you expect his support."

"The protection of what has been achieved doesn't come by wishful thinking but only by gut-level working," added Lanterman.

Also participating in the dedication ceremony were Dr. Richard Koch, chief of community health services for the state Department of Health; Dale E. Eazell, executive vice president of Casa Colina Hospital; and Maggie O'Donnell, representing Rep. James Lloyd, D-35th Dist.

Mrs. James Rasmussen is director of the regional center which opened in May in a newly renovated building located north of Casa Colina Hospital.

The center serves developmentally disabled persons and their families in the eastern section of Los Angeles County by offering diagnostic and counseling services for the individual and the family. Over 1,000 clients are assisted each month with funds totaling $1.7 million from governmental agencies.

United Crusade chairmen optimistic

While the 1976 United Crusade campaign in the Pomona area has reached just .32 per cent of its quota, committee chairmen are optimistic that the goal will be met before the Dec. 17 deadline.

As of last week, the local campaign had collected $83,000 of its $266,781 goal, according to Charles McDaniel, chairman for the East Zone, Region II, United Crusade of Los Angeles County.

"We feel the drive is going reasonably well in spite of the economic pinch felt in much of our area," said McDaniel. "We have some firms who have increased their donations even with smaller numbers of employes."

He pointed to the San Dimas city employes who have completed their fund drive with a total pledge of almost $2,300. This is an increase over last year's donation from a smaller city staff.

Bob Poff, chairman of public employes division for the zone, reported that Claremont city employes have already raised $2,025 with 50 per cent of the employes pledging to date.

The public schools in Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas and Walnut Valley have completed their drive with a pledge of $40,888. This is also an increase over last year, according to David Brown, chairman of the schools division.

Nick Sandhoe, chairman for the retirement homes division, reported that his committee has reached $18,806 of its quota of $28,139.

Major donors, according to Sandhoe, are Claremont Manor, $8,836; Mt. San Antonio Gardens, $4,980; and the 300 residents of Pilgrim Place, Claremont, $4,990.

"In view of the current economic state in the valley, it is all the more important that citizens support the United Crusade to the extent of their ability," McDaniel said.

"The numerous agencies supported through the United Crusade are being asked to stretch their own resources to the limit to meet increasing demands by the youth, the elderly and the ill in our community."

Among the agencies supported by the current fund drive are Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Boys Clubs of America, Catholic Big Brothers and other youth agencies.

The need of senior citizens and families are assisted through the Salvation Army, USO, Volunteers of America, the Jewish Home for the Aged and the Mexican-American Opportunity Foundation.

A few of the other agencies helping residents of valley are the Red Cross, Visiting Nurse Association, Family Service Association, Ontario-Pomona Association for Retarded Citizens, Children's Baptist Home of Southern California and Children's Hospital.

The 1976 campaign, which seeks to raise $29.1 million, is involving more than 50,000 volunteers in the county.

The East Zone of Region II is comprised of La Verne, San Dimas, Diamond Bar, Walnut, Claremont and Pomona.

Poll: most like Ford, but doubt abilities

NEW YORK (AP) — A sizeable majority of Americans think President Ford is an allround "nice guy" but most also doubt his abilities, according to a Harris Poll.

"Taken as a whole, the President's reputation suffers by what the public views as his closeness to big business, his lack of experience in foreign affairs and his obtuseness about the key issues," the pollster said Thursday.

A 74 to 13 per majority views Ford as a man of high integrity and a 78 to 8 per cent majority has no doubt that he is "a nice guy," Harris said.

However, a 58 to 24 per cent majority feels that Ford is not very experienced in foreign affairs. He got a 62 to 27 negative rating on his ability to keep federal spending in line.

A 58 to 31 majority believes that Ford is wrong to "take chances with assassination by mingling among crowds in the streets."

By 43 to 42 per cent, those polled rejected the notion that the President "does not seem to be very smart" about the issues facing the country.

In Ford's favor, a 64 to 20 per cent majority support his firm stand against Congress on spending. By 59 to 26 per cent, they credit him with running an open administration; and by 40 to 29 per cent they believe he has appointed "good people" to administration positions.

Discounts for senior citizens

Some 200 cards have been distributed to senior citizens for discount admission to Citrus College events.

The "Senior Friends of Citrus" gold card program will provide senior citizens price breaks on tickets to plays, concerts, art shows, athletic events and musicals sponsored by the college.

Some cards have been distributed through senior citzen clubs. Any person 60 years and older who resides in the Citrus District may apply for a card at the college's auditorium box office, student center or public information office.

"We hope to first organize this new service within our own area and then evaluate its effect and eliminate any problem areas before inviting other friends of Citrus to join the organization," said Ivan Misner, a senator in the school's student government and chairman of the senior citizens committee.

The Citrus committee is divided among six other student government officials. They are: Azusa, Phyllis Reaber; Claremont, Marion Peters; Duarte, Tim Ayers; Glendora, Sherry Hadcock and Laurie Rosiello; and Monrovia, Mark Wright.

Internships phased out?

CHICAGO (AP) — Today after a medical student gets his MD degree, he often goes directly into residency instead of being an intern, then a resident.

However, says Joseph Ceithaml, dean of students at the University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine, it's a matter of semantics.

"The first post-doctoral clinical appointment year is just that — an apprenticeship in postgraduate medicine, by any name."

This year there are two house staff positions open in the United States for every U.S. medical graduate.

Ceithaml says that the Pritzker School this year offers only one internship program — in internal medicine. He said that the emphasis at the school is on turning out specialists and research physicians. However, the tendency is generally away from the traditional rotating internships in which the new doctor rotates through various hospital medical services, doing a little obstetrics, a little surgery, a little pediatrics, etc.

OBESITY is our concern but we need your support.

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE NCO

The National Council on Obesity, Inc. was formed in 1975. Its basic purpose is the education of the public on matters pertaining to the nature of obesity and compulsive overeating and to realistic measures of therapy and prevention. It was felt that before constructive steps in achieving realistic and lasting measures of therapy and prevention could be taken, prevalent public attitudes on obesity and compulsive overeating would have to change, would have to approach a much closer agreement with the findings of modern medical and social science. A program of education will therefore be instituted calling for the distribution of literature, for the intensive training of selected individuals, for public lectures, and for the establishment of community centers. The centers will serve to educate the public in new ways and will become the means for new understanding through participation in the total program, as well as being resources for consultation with the obese and compulsive overeater and the family of the obese and compulsive overeater.

NCO MEMBERSHIP

The Council's programs will be financed primarily by the voluntary contributions of the public. A major source of funds will come from membership dues of those who become NCO members. There are several classes of membership. All classes receive the following privileges:

1. Voting rights in the membership assembly.
2. Able to serve on NCO committees.
3. Opportunity to make suggestions for NCO programs and operations via the membership assembly.
4. Ratification of Directors.

1. GENERAL MEMBERSHIP: $10 per year brings you the above plus a personal membership card.
2. SUBSCRIBING MEMBERSHIP: $25 per year brings you the above plus a personal membership card, a wall certificate, and a subscription to the "NCO Quarterly Newsletter."
3. INDUSTRIAL MEMBERSHIP: $25 minimum per year brings you the same services and privileges as for a Subscribing Membership.
4. LIFE MEMBERSHIP: $500 brings you the same services and privileges as a Subscribing Membership for life.

La proposicion, que necesitaba mas de las dos terceras partes de la votacion para ser aprobada, recibio 69.3 por ciento de votos a fovor. Cuerpo de voluntarios en Pomona combate crimen

Un cuerpo de voluntarios para combatir el crimen en la comunidad esta listo durante las 24 horas del dia. Las oficinas estaran localizados en el edificio del Progress Bulletin.

Larry States, comandante local de Citizens Community Alert patrol (C-CAP) anuncio a 300 voluntarios en una reunion la semana pasada, que el P-B habia donado un local de oficinas en su edificio del 300 S. Thomas St.

El personal de C-CAP tiene en proyecto empezar a mudarse esta semana para iniciar sus operaciones y empezar a recibir llamdas de los capitanes de bloques de posibles crimenes y recibir informes de los voluntarios.

Larry States y Ganzia Washington Jr., comandante estatal de C-CAP, rechazaron los rumores en la reunion de que C-CAP era un grupo de "vililantes" blancos. Un miembro de la Asociacion Nacional para el Progreso de la Gente de Color y otro, representando a la comunidad mexico-americana, indagaron acereca de los requisitos requeridos para integrar C-CAP y logros y propositos de la organizacion.

Washington marco la pauta negando implicaciones raciales. Washington, de color el mismo, dijo que C-CAP se fundo en 1965 durante los motines de Watts como un grupo para combatir la delincuencia local y que desde entronces el grupo ha crecido nacionalmente.

States contesto que la invitacion se habia producido a traves del PROGRESS BULLETIN a todos los vecinos de Pomona "y "todos" incluye a todos", dijo.

"Los Angeles fue la sola gran ciudad que no tuvo tales incidentes, y fue asi porque los miembros de C-CAP patrullaron sus calles", Washington dijo explicando como el grupo calmo la comunidad tensa.

Washington dijo que aunque States, comandante de Pomona, es blanco, el primer comandante electo local en 1967 y que sirvio hasta 1973 era de color.

Dijo que recientemente miembros de su grupo ayudaron a la policia en su persecucion de un camion cargado con las propiedades personales robadas en una casa del area de Watts.

"Cuando la policia detuvo al negro sospechoso, lo volvio a la casa donde el dueno acababa de regresar y descubrir el robo, el detenido dijo a su victima que eran hermanos de almas y que no lo acusara. El dueno de la casa estuvo de acuerdo.

"El problema con algunos negros es que algunas veces no pueden senalar la diferencia entre fraternidad, o que el otro actua como un rufian", dijo Washington entre grandes aplausos de todos los sectores multiples de la audiencia.

Mas de 500 personas se han ofrecido voluntariamente para actuar como capitanes de bloque y reclutar personal para desarrollar el plan que elimine de raiz el crimen en Pomona

Los miembros de C-CAP se ofrecieron voluntariamente para coordinar este programa como consecuencia de un editorial de P-B publicado en la primera plana del periodico el mes pasado, urgiendo a los ciudadanos a decir "Presente" en la batalla contra el crimen en la calle.

La Casa Chicana cerrada

El mismo martes por la manana, la policia desarrollo una serie de incursiones en varias residencias del sur de Ontario, arrestando 10 personas sospechosas de vender narcoticos cereca de la Casa Chicana durante los pasados tres meses.

Postal collapse predicted

By N. C. POLOS

THE COMING COLAPSE OF THE POST OFFICE, by Robert J. Myers. Prentice-Hall. $6.95.

This little book is a delight to the harassed citizen who would like to have his worst fears confirmed. It is easy reading and Myers, who is the publisher of "The New Republic," has more than adequately documented the terrible tragedy of the postal service.

We knew, for example, that when under the new package mail-routing system that packages sent from the town of Modena, Utah, to Panaca, Nev., 20 miles away, would travel almost 2,309 miles, that we were in trouble — and that we would have to watch our zippearance.

This book is bound to stir up some controversy but Myers, former chairman of the Magazine Publishers' Association of Postal Sub-committee, knows his stamps and weights; and his analysis of the background, development, future and potential dangers of the Postal Service serve to arm the citizen for the battle to reform.

Myers gives the lie to the favored concept that the U.S. Postal Service (begun on July 1, 1971), and run by a new "business" management would wipe out the Post Office's $1.5 billion deficit.

The author reviews the recent history of legislative attempts to reform the Postal Service. Congressional hearings have accomplished very little. Over 70 bills were introduced in the House in 1973 to get back congressional authority over the Postal Service; none of these measures became law. In the meantime, Myers observes, our Postal Service continues to give poorer service than that of 18th Century London, which made deliveries eight times a day!

Myers describes what he calls "a national scandal" that could turn into a national disaster while supporting this case with solid facts and figures that tell "the story as clearly as the letter that takes two days to go crosstown."

At the end of 12 short chapters the author makes some very valuable and practical suggestions for the overhaul of this system, but basically he insists that we must re-examine the very concept "on which the creation of this gigantic, essentially non-accountable, behemoth was based."

The book is star-studded with postal horrors. Who can resist observations such as: "The one liner proposed to adorn the Christmas stamp — 'O Lord, Deliver Me.' "

I also enjoyed the following: "While the fighting in Vietnam was going on full fury . . . people were saying: 'Let's turn the war over to the Postal Corporation: they may not end it, but they'll sure slow it down!' "

Maybe Congress could not come to grips with the postal problem because their constituents' letters were lost in the mails. At any rate read Myers' book and see if you agree with his trilogy — The Penn Central — Rolls Royce — the U.S. Postal Service!

California coastline described

By VONNE ROBERTSON
P B Staff Writer

TIDELINE, by Ernest Braun, Viking Press, $16.50.

The changing ocean tides as they meet the land and sky offer an everchanging panorama which fascinates both the serious student of ecology and the casual wanderer along the beach.

While Braun calls his book, "Tideline," the story of one day's change of ocean tides, actually presents Braun's personal responses to the rhythms and characteristics of the tideline over a period of many years.

The 80 pages of superb color photographs explore the battered cliffs, the pebbles and grains of sand along the beach, sharing their beauty with the birds, plants and tidepool creatures.

In the course of the book, Braun reflects on the problems arising from "man's arrogant mastery of earth's environment." He speculates on how the conflict between the needs of man and of nature might be resolved.

Californians especially can relate to this account of the tides as they constantly reshape the state's long coastline. The photographs carve into the reader's mind scenes familiar to the beach walker and those which are new to the reader.

Braun is a man with a deep respect for his environment and a photographer who has the ability to transfer this romance to print.

The book would make an ideal holiday gift. An exhibition of photographs related to Tideline opened at the Oakland (California) Museum recently.

Domino principle well plotted novel

By SIDNEY CONE

THE DOMINO PRINCIPLE by Adam Kennedy Viking Press $6.95.

(Sidney L. Cone is a staff member of the Pomona Public Library)

Adam Kennedy, author of "The Killing Season," "Maggie D," and other novels, has produced a well-written, tightly-plotted novel of suspense.

Set in such lively places as Chicago, Costa Rica, and Los Angeles, the novel follows the adventures of excellent marksman and prison escapee Ray Tucker as he becomes ever more deeply involved in a conspiracy of enormous proportions.

The number of characters and the reasons for their being brought together at a certain prison in Indiana will keep the reader's attention until the end and will leave him with a number of questions for which clear answers are not given.

If the novel has a weak point, it is the assumption that military service is a necessary requirement for an assassin to become an expert with a rifle, injection needles, or syringes.

Also, any hit man or assassin who is so completely under the power of the money men as is the main character in "The Domino Principle" should have known or guessed the consequences of actions involving an important political figure or a high-ranking member of organized crime.

Manuscript nets record $455,000

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — The Hebrew University of Jerusalem bought an ancient Jewish manuscript recently for a world record price of $455,000, a spokesman for Sotheby's art auctioneers said.

The Maimonides commentary, written in Cairo in the 12th century, was sold at double the pre-auction estimated price.

On March 8, 1962, a two-year agreement signed in Washington provided for widened cultural exchanges between the Soviet Union and the U.S.

Book presents Chavez profile

By TOM WALDMAN

CESAR CHAVEZ: The Rhetoric of Nonviolence by Winthrop Yinger. Exposition Press, $6.50.

One by one they all seemed to fade away. The protest movements of the 1960s gradually gave way to a kind of middle-American tranquility which seems to characterize the present decade. Even such a dedicated revolutionary as Eldridge Cleaver has in 1975 done a complete about-face and emerged as an advocate of a strong defense in the best Barry Goldwater style. Set against these phenomena, the farm worker movement of Cesar Chavez looks all the more impressive.

Chavez' crusade began in the midst of the protest era, and has lost neither its strength nor its significance to the apathy of contemporary society. If anything the 1970s have intensified the importance of Chavez as a man committed to a struggle which shows no signs of lessening.

Yinger, a New England clergyman, attempts to explain the persistence of the farm labor movement through the rhetoric of Cesar Chavez. The result is a unique study which goes far toward answering many questions

Yinger has selected one particular speech for comprehensive examination. The address of March 10, 1968, at which time Chavez had broken a fast undertaken to dramatize the workers; cause.

Yinger indicates this speech is of the "crossroads" variety, with Chavez outlining the course which the campaign must take. He dissects the speech line by line. One has to feel the book is custom-made for the student reporting on Chavez.

The author's major theme is that the rhetoric is designed to identify the leader of the movement with the movement itself.

It is the relationship between rhetoric and movement that is of first concern to the author and his readers. Yinger's examples of Chavez's speaking style, and conclusions regarding its effects, provide a convincing answer to the appeal of Cesar Chavez.

Book describes dyes and herbs

By DAVID STREETER

DYES & FIBERS by Will Bearfoot and HERBS & TEAS by Dexirina Gouzil Scribners $3.95

(David Streeter is a staff member of the Pomona Library.)

Two volumes in the publisher's Mother Nature Series, these books offer a great deal of information for the seeker of alternative life styles and interesting reading for the chairbound rebel.

"Herbe & Teas" offers the most practical information for the urban dwellers who wish to utilize locally available wild plants to substitute or supplement supermarket or health store herbs and teas.

Many of the plants discussed may easily be found growing in the Pomona Valley area, either in cultivation or wild.

For each plant discussed, the common names are provided, the plant is accurately described, and recipes are given. It is particularly useful to have the recommended amount of herb required for a palatable cup of tea given.

If the reader has ever been intrigued by camomile, sasafrass, or rose hips, this book is defintely your cup of tea.

"Dyes & Fibers," while interesting reading, may discourage home experimentation with natural dye stuffs. Although the recipes are in proper proportions and usuable, the reader will often find it impractical to obtain a pound of Moutain Mahogany root bark or two quarts of Black Eyed Susans in order to dye one quarter pound of wool yarn.

Knowing the difficulties or the processes of natural dying does, however, make the reader more appreciative of the warm earth tones which are obtained from plant materials.

Both books are illustrated by line drawings. It is at this point that these books exhibit their shortcoming. The illustrations lack the spark of life and appear to have been drawn from pressed herbarium specimens. Well-chosen photographs would have greatly enhanced these otherwise interesting and useful books.

Poisonous plants are identified but not as prominently as the novice plant gatherer might desire.

What are those cities like?

'Quality' survey criticized

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

Perched on the bluffs of the Mississippi is the beer-brewing city of La Crosse, Wis., touted as "God's country," and rated in a recent survey as having the best quality of small town life in America.

Curled in the bend of the Rio Grande is the border city of Laredo, Tex., known for its mesquite, mariachi bands and marijuana smuggling. It was rated the worst small city.

Between the Pacific Ocean and the Cascade Ranges lies the misted college city of Eugene, Ore., considered by some to be the track runners' capital of America and rated the best medium-sized city.

On the west coast of Mobile Bay and Pole Cat Bay is Mobile, Ala., a major seaport seriously polluted in the north but boasting fine deep sea fishing to the south. It was rated the worst medium-sized city.

Bridging the Willamette River is Portland, Ore., a civic and culture-minded city where you can catch salmon within minutes of city hall. it was awarded the best quality of life score for a large city.

Jammed on the Hudson River and nodding to the Statue of Liberty is Jersey City, N.J., an industrial seaport and a victim of urban blight. It was rated the worst big city in America.

These quality of life ratings by the Midwest Research Institute of Kansas City, Mo., have generated bitterness and controversy over the findings, methods and use of 1970 statistics in many cases.

In its federally funded study, the institute rated 243 Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas. Some were strictly urban areas; some included a city and surrounding suburbs and rural areas.

It rated the areas in five categories: economics, social well-being, environment, health and education and political viability. To rate each category it evaluated hundreds of factors such as unemployment, crime rates, days of rain, numbers of hiking trails, numbers of television sets, per capita income.

The data was fed into a computer which spat out ratings for three categories: small, less than 200,000; medium, 200,000-500,000; large, over 500,000 population.

But quality of life is elusive stuff of climate and culture and conviviality that can elude the computers. There are drawbacks to the best cities and virtues in the worst.

Statistics aside, what's it like in La Crosse and Laredo, Eugene and Mobile, Portland and Jersey City? Here are six portraits on the quality of life in America.

They call it "God's country" in the TV commercials for Old Style Beer which is brewed in La Crosse. And to many that's just where it is.

The city of 50,000 is bracketed by twin bluffs along the mile-wide Mississippi. Many homes are built along the coulees, the dead end valleys that sometimes run for miles.

"Here, you're surrounded by beauty," says Mayor Patrick Zielke. "You're no more than 10 minutes away from good fishing, hunting or hiking, no matter where you are in the city."

What's more, people are friendly, he says.

"Not only will they say 'hello' to you on the street," says the 43-year-old mayor who is a lifetime resident, "They will stop and help you if you have car trouble."

The environment, plus good schools and parks, regional medical centers and safe streets, has attracted many people. Some say too many.

For the last 15 years, La Crosse has had chronic unemployment problems, often double the national rate.

Lifestyles re-evaluated in recession

The advent of hard times has changed the lifestyles of many American families. Repairs and home improvements once contracted for are increasingly being handled by the homemaker, particularly if no specialized know-how is required.

But even unfamiliar tasks are being tackled by the new self-reliant breed of do-it-yourselfer as a cost-cutting measure.

General Electric, for instance, has just issued a free six-page booklet graphically illustrating, with step-by-step instructions, the plumbing and electrical work necessary to replace a food waste disposer.

It also has simplified design of three of its five models to make them easier and faster to install.

Another aid from GE for the home fixer-upper is a replacement dishwasher installation kit. It has a suggested retail price of $14.95.

2 radios for each American

There are more than 400,000,000 radios in the United States in working order. That's almost two for every man, woman and child in the population. Enough? Apparently not — in each of the last 10 years, Americans have bought 40,000,000 to 50,000,000.

A radio is no longer a single instrument, but a large family of special-purpose devices. There are standard table radios, clock radios to wake you to music, short-wave radios which permit you to listen to broadcasts direct from the world's capitals, FM stereo radios, automobile radios, marine radios with built-in direction finders, weather radios which pick up government forecasts at the push of a button, ship-to-shore eavesdropping radios, and of course, the ubiquitous take-it-along "pocket transistor."

Not included in the 40 to 50 million sold annually are millions of radios combined with other home entertainment products: Radio tuners in audio components and compact systems, radios combined with cassette and cartridge recorders and players, even radios combined with television sets.

Fifty-five years ago, radio started the home entertainment revolution.

Some say the same atmosphere that makes La Crosse a nice place to rear a family is the same that makes it dull for young and single people looking for something to do.

The only two large industries are the brewery and a heating and air conditioning manufacturer.

The city has become a service center for a 50-mile radius. It has a municipal airport, two hospitals, two clinics, three colleges, plenty of parks and three television stations.

Laredo, Tex

Amid palms and bougainvillea in an elegant courtyard, businessmen mingle at a convention while costumed musicians strum a Latin song.

A middle-aged Mexican-American, sockless and unshaven, waits in line at the Texas Unemployment commission for an interview. He has been out of work for six months.

Above, a long-haired U.S. Customs agent in a single-engine plane is flying up and down the Rio Grande, spying on drug smugglers. They wade across the shallow river from Mexico with burlap bags of marijuana strapped to their backs.

Outside of town, on mesquite-dotted ranchland, drilling rigs probe for natural gas. A toothless former agricultural worker says he will never pick another cantaloupe. He has become moderately wealthy from gas exploration.

A midwife soothes a woman in labor. Days before delivery, the woman walked across the international bridge from her home in Mexico to bear her child in Laredo. The child will be born a U.S. citizen.

Laredo, a city of 75,000, is a community of contrasts and a blend of American and Mexican cultures. Across the Rio Grande is the sister city of Nuevo Laredo.

There are 400 Rodriguezes in the telephone book to 16 Joneses and eighty-six per cent of the population is Spanish surnamed.

"I liked it and I'd like to go back," says Jim Hale, a business executive and former resident. "You really have the best of two worlds, Mexican and American. The people are convivial, the food is excellent."

Laredo is a warm, dry and dusty city where 60 per cent of the streets are unpaved.

There are slums. There also are posh suburbs.

Unemployment is relatively high, but it includes migrant workers who spend warm winters in Laredo after harvest.

Two years ago, the federal government shut the Air Force base, leaving civilan workers jobless. But private businesses are leasing space.

And since the statistics were compiled for the quality of life study, a natural gas boom is beginning and the economy of Laredo is expected to improve.

Laredo also is the most active inland port in the country, and Mayor J. C. Martin says "our economy is now perhaps the most vibrant in the state."

Eugene, Ore.

The first thing people seem to notice about Eugene, rated the No. 1 medium city, is the rain, over 42 inches a year. Jokes about the weather abound: "It rains so much, people don't tan — they rust."

After the Quality of Life study, the Eugene Register-Guard telephoned the Midwest Research Institute and asked:

"Did you know that the current unemployment rate is 12.6 per cent? Did you know about eye-burning snow

CB radio becoming the rage

Citizen band radios, more commonly referred to as CB, are rapidly becoming the newest craze in consumer electronic products.

Once used mainly for commercial and small business communications purposes, CB has become a means of communications for families as well as the individual hobbyists. The Consumer demand for CB units is growing so fast that many manufacturers can barely keep up with the increased demand.

CB radios provide a highly flexible portable communications network which lets the user talk from home or car to other home base stations or mobile units in cars, trucks, or boats. Many users feel their CB units are as indispensable as the telephone.

The current boom in CB began with a surge of buying by truck drivers during the trucker's strike in 1974. Their use of CB attracted national attention. It was accelerated when the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) reduced the CB operating free from $20 to $4 last March.

Since then, the popularity of automobile and base two-way communication products has spread into the general consumer marketplace.

In some areas, volunteer teams of citizens and business CB users provide round-the-clock monitoring service to assist motorists in trouble. Usually, they monitor Channel 9, the emergency channel.

Most CB equipment is compact and rugged and can be installed almost anywhere — boat, car, tractor and snowmobile. Base-station units for the home or office provide added range with specialized antennas that are available for use in their frequency range.

An FCC license is required for CB operation. Operators must be 18 years or older. The FCC will then assign a license number and send printed material with a few basic rules and regulations for operation.

Utility seeks rate increase

SAN DIEGO (AP)—San Diego Gas & Electric Co. has asked the state Public Utilites Commission for another $67.9 million increase in electric and gas rate increases.

Company officials said that the money was needed to strengthen SDG&E's financial position sufficiently to enable the sale of bonds for expansion of its power plants.

The $67.9 million figure was trimmed from an earlier request for $119 million in rate hikes, a spokesman for the utility said.

SDG&E had asked the PUC earlier this year for a $35 million rate increase over four months to help finance the bonds. But the commission granted only $27.2 million of the request.

Superintendent Lapp's job on the line in Chino

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Chino school board president Augustine Tapia has declared that if a crucial split vote develops on whether to retain Supt. Royce Lapp, he would vote to oust the superintendent.

Tapia's statement means Lapp may well lose his job at Monday night's meeting.

"If the board does not compromise, my vote would be negative," Tapia said, referring to the issue of renewal of Lapp's contract.

Board members, apparently split 2-2 with Tapia likely to cast the deciding vote on the five-man board, are expected to settle the issue at Monday's 7 p.m. meeting. They will be considering an Oct. 14 motion by trustee Roy Ward "not to renew the superintendent's contract."

Ward claimed to have the three votes necessary to force Lapp out of the job. Lapp's contract expires next June 30, but unless the board moves one way or the other by Dec. 31, it would be renewed by law automatically.

Tapia, publicly disclosing his feelings about Lapp for the first time, said for the good of the district, a 3-2 final vote should be avoided. "A 3-2 vote is not healthy and would divide the district, adding more controversy," he stated.

But since a 3-2 split indicates a lack of support for the superintendent, and "weakens the position," Tapia indicated he would vote against Lapp. "I'd be for stabilizing the position by bringing in a new guy that the total board could work with."

Tapia indicated Lapp is "well qualified" and has established a "good record" as an administrator. "But times have changed and we have a new board with different philosophies."

He clearly stated there is no personal effort to "put down the superintendent. The issue is educational philosophy."

Tapia adds, however, that he will be offering a compromise at Monday's meeting to avoid a split. Ward and trustee Lyle Briggs, both new members elected last April, have said they will vote against Lapp. Members Al McCombs and Pete VanderPoel, while not saying it, are believed to be supporting the superintendent.

Tapia's compromise, he indicated, would be to offer Lapp a one-year contract rather than renew his contract for another four years. "Going on a year-to-year basis would allow the two new board members more time to decide on the superintendent. Also, Lapp could see if he can work with a split board."

The board president added that he preferred to work out a compromise, rather than "letting the superintendent go."

Ward has been on vacation for several weeks, but he earlier stated the year-round school issue had been a factor in his move to oust Lapp. Briggs and Ward were elected on an anti-year-round platform, espoused by Citizens for Improved Education (CIE).

CIE spokesmen have been extremely critical of Lapp, who first promoted the year-round program and has staunchly defended it. One CIE source now points to a recent survey by Associated Chino Teachers (ACT), which denounced the district and Lapp.

A key result of the survey, the source revealed, is that 85 per cent of the 110 teachers responding (out of 50 district teachers) felt the superintendent's "credibility" was "poor." Seventy per cent indicated teacher morale was also poor.

VanderPoel, the only current member who was on the board when Lapp was hired in June, 1969, has traded angry words with CIE in the past.

According to VanderPoel and other critics of CIE, the anti-YRS group may be pulling the strings to get Lapp fired.

Briggs, meanwhile, has predicted Lapp would resign but now hedges a bit. "I would feel it would be to his advantage to resign, but a lot will depend on what happens Monday."

He acknowledged that if there emerged three votes to renew Lapp's contract, it might be renewed for one year.

Briggs claimed Tapia first brought up the idea of not renewing the contract, before Ward made his motion Oct. 14. Tapia admitted he had discussed the issue with Briggs and Ward, and assured them if the board split, his vote would be against Lapp.

Trustees had been discussing the contract in closed executive sessions since about July, said Briggs.

Lapp has declined to comment on efforts to oust him. "It would be unprofessional for me to make a comment on a personnel matter," he said.

Area communities totally reject new water system

The proposed $35 million bond issue for a new water distribution system was defeated by all nine communities in the valley, according to tabulations released by the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District.

Worst defeat was in Claremont where it was turned down by 72.6 per cent of the voters. Diamond Bar came closest to approval with 48.2 per cent of the electors favoring the measure.

Directors of the PVMWD agreed last week that they would ask the voters for a second chance because they felt the valley "truly needs the water, the sooner the better."

Stan Kawa, director of the water district, estimated that each day of delay was costing the district about $10,000, and that if the vote was taken again in March the same project would cost $1.13 million more. He said by June inflation would drive that figure up by $2.4 million.

"Even though the price keeps going up," he added, "the total cost still remains not much more than a pack of cigarettes a month for the average person."

He said the inflationary rise was much higher than the total cost of the election.

Kawa estimated that the cost included about $60,000 for the election itself and another $40,000 for promotion, printing, travel, the cost of preliminary plans and the cost of an outside public relations firm.

He said the money would be defrayed from a $2 million reserve account which the district has been accumulating for the past 10 years. According to Kawa, much of that money will be used for preliminary studies, engineering costs and unanticipated expenses.

The district board will meet with representatives of the member agencies Nov. 25 at the Castaway Restaurant where the failure of the bond issue will be reviewed and plans for a new election will be formed.

Kawa said it was his feeling that although the plans may be somewhat modified, a new election will be called for either next March or next June.

PATRIOTIC OBSERVANCE

From left, Tim Lambert, Mark Lambert, Ronnie Stancyk and Don Weber will serve as the color bearers during the Veterans Day program Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. in the Pomona Education Center. The program of patriotic music and flag dedication is sponsored by the Pomona Avenue of Flags Committee. It will feature about 30 service organizations.

San Dimas senior citizens still need furniture items

The San Dimas Senior Citizen Center still needs furniture to offer an effective program for elderly persons within the city.

Pat Gore, senior citizen coordinator for the city, appealed once again to area residents for furniture, appliances and games to furnish the center in the old Santa Fe railroad depot. The center cannot open until these needs are met.

Items needed include pictures, throw pillows, kitchen utensils, pots and pans, occasional chairs, coffee and end tables, lamps, billiards and cribbage table, assorted table games, cards and a television set. Blue chip stamps may also be donated.

Guild meeting

Four colleges' representatives will attend the general meeting of St. Monica's Guild Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Damien High School.

James Grace, Damien counselor, will introduce Juan Laura of UCLA, Mitch La Rue of Loyola University, Dick York of Cal Poly and John Wyen of Citrus College to parents.

Parents will be briefed on facilities available to each student, including entrance examinations, scholarships, curriculum and data pertaining to each college.

Special flag dedication highlights Veterans Day activities

The Pomona Avenue of Flags Committee will hold a special flag dedication and Veterans Day program Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. in the Pomona Education Center.

Lt. Col. William E. Booth of Chino High School's aerospace education department will speak on the topic "Respect." Stan Selby, music professor at Mt. San Antonio College and conductor of the Pomona Concert Band, will serve as master of ceremonies.

The 100 most recently purchased flags will be dedicated. Approximately 30 service organizations will be represented. Sons of American Legion Squadron 30 will serve as color guard. Pomona Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2018 will share its court of honor flags as part of the decorations.

The Avenue of Flags Committee was organized in January 1974 for the purpose of raising funds to purchase flags to be flown on Pomona streets on important holidays. The flags are to perpetuate and encourage the spirit of patriotism.

Pianists for the program of patriotic music Tuesday will be Esther Diggs, Ray Adams and Frank Cummings.

Others participating in the program include Ron Dalton, reveille; Ray Adams, processional; Mrs. Ben T. Kayashima, flag salute; Richard Arhlen, "Star Spangled Banner". Don Donnelly, welcome; Councilman Ben Ochoa, flag dedication; Clem Neibel, recognition of guest groups; Mel Chambers, Scotty Cassells and Ernie Horne, trumpet trio; Rollin Calkin, songs of World Wars I and II; the Rev. Peter Moran, benediction; Sons of American Legion, Squadron 30, retiring the colors.

City halls in Claremont, La Verne, Ontario, Pomona and Upland will close Tuesday in observance of the traditional Veterans Day. Claremont City Council will move its Tuesday meeting to 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Trash and refuse collections will continue on schedule in Claremont, La Verne and Pomona. Commercial refuse in Upland will be collected as usual because most businesses will be open. Residential units in Upland and Ontario can expect a one-day delay in the schedule, with both Tuesday and Wednesday's trash collected Wednesday.

All Los Angeles and San Bernardino county offices will be closed, including the courts. Only police and fire emergency services will be available.

Although City halls in Chino, Montclair, San Dimas and Walnut will be open, the libraries in these cities and in Claremont, La Verne, Ontario, Pomona and Upland will be closed as branches of county government.

The monthly meeting of the Ontario library board, originally scheduled for Tuesday, has been changed to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Children in Bonita, Chaffey, Chino, Claremont, Ontario-Montclair and Pomona school districts may stay home Tuesday. Chino youngsters will also have Monday as a holiday.

Upland elementary and junior high school students will report to class as usual.

College students at Mt. San Antonio, Chaffey and Cal Poly will be free from classrooms Tuesday, but those attending La Verne and the Claremont Colleges must continue their regular schedule.

All post offices throughout the valley will be open. The Internal Service office at 461 E. Holt Ave., Pomona and the Social Security Administration office at 445 E. Holt Ave., Pomona will both be open for business.

Valley residents may enjoy shopping at area stores and conduct business at banks and savings and loans associations which will continue regular hours.

Traffic tickets topic of McVittie's travels

Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., will visit various states this week to discuss with legislators ways of producing a new system of handling minor traffic tickets outside the courtroom.

The Upland legislator was recently appointed to a nine-member adjudication advisory committee which will recommend by April 1 ways to unclog the California courts by allowing certain traffic offenses to be processed by the California Department of Motor Vehicles.

"What we're after is an end to the waste of taxpayers' dollars to resolve minor infractions now handled in a formal municipal or justice court setting," he explained.

"I believe there is a much more cost-efficient way to clear up traffic tickets such as overparking or jaywalking."

Each of these areas has initiated a new way of clearing up the traffic court caseload, he said. McVittie cited New York as an example where a four-year program successfully handles over one million traffic infraction cases annually through administrative hearings.

Making the tour with McVittie will be the Department of Motor Vehicles project director and a representative of the California Judicial Council.

Optimists sponsor Youth Appreciation Week

This week has been proclaimed Youth Appreciation Week in Pomona, sponsored by three local Optimist Clubs.

The observance is being held in conjunction with the national observance sponsored by the more than 3,200 Optimist clubs throughout the country.

Pomona clubs participating in the observance are the Pomona Noon Club, Pomona Breakfast Club and the Cal Poly Club.

A proclamation noting the observance was approved this week by the Pomona City Council.

Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire will attend a luncheon on Monday, hosted by the Pomona Noon Optimist Club at the Pomona Elks Lodge, honoring the student body presidents from seven local high schools, including the three Pomona high schools.

During the course of the week, youth will be honored for various services to the community, including heroism, church work, volunteer work with mentally retarded children and at hospitals, outstanding school achievement and other services benefiting the community.

Intelligence is best defense

Take the recent House action on military spending.

It's not that representatives cut $7 billion from what President Ford asked. There's at least $7 billion waste in Pentagon operations and procurement, and in excess personnel.

It's rather that the cuts were in the wrong places — heavily in research and development, intelligence and maintenance.

In part, this was because congressmen wanted to preserve spending where it would help their constituencies, and slashed where it would not. In part, it was because they wanted to slap at operations which have been castigated of late, often correctly, for inefficient, inept or illegal activities.

Now there is no question there has been bumbling in intelligence, severe misjudgments in development and inefficiency in maintenance.

But if the United States is going to hold down its military spending, and not build to the levels toward which the Russians apparently are aiming, the only way this country can insure its safety is to move ahead strongly in both research and intelligence.

Research is required specifically to offset the coming Soviet lead in big weapons with fewer-but-superior, smaller weapons.

Historically, each generation of advanced weapons has cost more than its predecessors. We are now reaching a stage in technology where it is possible — with some careful thinking, not always evident in the Pentagon — to develop a well-rounded force of more effective weapons, strategic and tactical, which in both offense and defense can be less expensive than weapons now in our inventory.

Sufficient attention to relatively cheap advanced research would make it possible to longer delay buying new weapons. With this additional development, they can be built and put into place more quickly if an adversary comes through with unexpected breakthroughs. Planned delays, coupled with increased research, make possible better weapons for the same outlay.

The need for better intelligence, if we are to hold defense costs down, should be obvious.

The size and nature of our defense depends on the size and nature of the Russian effort, and its effectiveness. The more precisely we know what they are planning, what they have in stock, and how capable their weapons are, the more efficiently and economically we can build and maintain our own forces, and the fewer dollars we need to spend to secure adequate protection.

We have, in the past, wasted billions on unneeded programs because of bad estimates on what the Russians were planning. We may be doing the same today.

The House of Representatives also made vigorous cuts in maintenance. Yet almost everyone in business has learned the hard way that regular preventive maintenance is the only way to insure longer life for equipment and is the one certain route to major savings.

Even today, in the Defense Department, preventive maintenance — meaning before an airplane, truck or other piece of equipment breaks down — is lax. The House cuts, if sustained by the Senate, will make things worse, and cost us more in the end.

Because the Representatives have not been willing to analyze and attack the precise causes of waste and overspending by Defense they have adopted the meat axe approach — and have slashed at those areas where their mistakes will not show until years have passed and their votes forgotten.

Just in jest

Our Bicentennial celebration planning goes all out in its efforts to recreate America's grand and glorious past. And now it would appear that California's Governor Brown is also doing his bit to enhance our appreciation of this great occasion. What else, other than the historical fact that in 1800 the White House had an outdoor privy, could have prompted him to suggest revising our building codes in order to permit the erection of outhouses and log cabins in rural California?

And with that as a start, I feel certain the governors of other states will be prompted to take similar measures. In Montana, for instance, there will undoubtedly be a gubernatorial edict ordering the Montana Forest Service to cease and desist building its newest plaything — solar powered electrically flushed outhouses.

Furthermore, it will definitely be an affront to the historical significance of that 1800 Whitehouse outdoor privy if, for the Bicentennial duration, some governor doesn't put a stop to the manufacturing of miniature flush toilet ashtrays. — After all, just for once can't we all agree that what was good enough for our rugged forefathers is good enough for us?

We have good guys

Dear Editor:

First, I would like to compliment you on the editorial. It should have been done long ago. I have been a resident of Pomona for twenty three years.

When I came here from Los Angeles, I thought Pomona was a beautiful city. I remember when we won awards in Washington, D.C. for being a small town with such cleanliness and beauty. Now, people throw car seats and old mattresses and all sorts of trash on any vacant lot.

I had gotten to the point where I was sick and tired of picking up other people's trash, I wrote a letter to the mayor about it. When I hear that helicopter going over my area all hours of the night, I'm so happy to know I am being protected. People today do not believe in signs. We have signs posted on all of our gates (no trespassing, private property). That doesn't mean one thing to them. They annoy tenants going in and out of our property. They don't pay the taxes every year. We do.

I also lost a tenant because some eight or ten year old kid was throwing rocks at his car. When he asked that he stop, he was confronted by a male adult who threatened to blow off his head. You can't even walk our streets anymore. I shake every time I have to go anywhere.

It is also sickening when the street cleaner cannot wash the gutter because there are too many cars parked on the street. I clean my gutter and wash it down to no avail.

Now about our policemen. I have had dealings with them and of this date, I have never had an impolite officer come to my door. They have all been perfect gentlemen. Until such time that one does not perform his duties as an officer whom I can respect, then I believe we have good guys. Sometimes I believe their hands are tied. The first step to be taken is for the courts to punish minor offenses so they will not grow into major ones.

There are some very nice young people left in Pomona, but there are a lot who have no respect for other American citizens' rights or property. There is too much loitering around markets. Every citizen has a right to go shopping, but to just hang around I do not see. If the children would be taught to respect others, I'm sure they would grow up with that same feeling.

There is much more I could say, but, I believe I've said enough for everyone to know how I feel. Please ask our city fathers to bring Pomona back to what it was some years ago. I can't blame some of the people for moving. I know it is not only Pomona but Pomona is what I care about. — J.J.

Comics hard to read

Dear Editor:

My name is Christine Bryant. I am 11 years old. I live at 589 Speer Ct., Pomona. I have been reading the comics for five years and I have always needed help.

My brother is going to be eight years old Tuesday. He can't read the paper because they have such hard words like presume, enchiladas, centipedes, geronimo and so on. That is just the first page.

I'm getting tired of reading the comics to him. Please do something about it. — Christine Bryant

P.S. The comics are supposed to be for the kids.

Praise for Neibel

Dear Editor:

If I live as long as our great conference founder, Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt did, (98 years) I will never expect to experience a more successful annual meeting than our 1975 one at Kellogg West Educational Center at Pomona. General chairman Clemett Neibel promised us at the San Fernando meeting that the Pomona Valley Historical Society was planning a great program, and he kept his promise.

It would be unfair to single out any one event as the best because all were interesting and happy. Clemett Neibel deserves the highest praise for the way he kept every detail under control and for his happy, friendly personality that made all the events pleasant experiences.

For me, of course, the highlight was the annual installation banquet on Saturday night. The social hour with the marvelous Mariachi Band, hosted by the Pomona Valley Historical Society and friends, was a delight. The excellent talk by Dr. Andrew Rolle was stimulating even though you may not have always agreed with him. — R. Coke Wood, President, Conference of California Historical Societies

A worldwide problem

Dear Editor:

Crime is a worldwide problem. Pomona has had more than its share in recent months. It can be solved and it is fantastic to see a local newspaper finally cry out and bring the people together in a common cause for the good of the community. Finding the proper channels, as individuals, to be heard, is nearly impossible.

I believe our police are doing as good a job as can be expected considering they know the majority of offenders they bring in will be back on the streets the following day, offending again! These people must be made to pay for their crimes! Our courts, our judges are failing grossly in this area of justice.

Another aspect, our so-called local banks and financers who are supposed to be re-investing our savings back into the community, ha! I would like to know how many new loans have been issued this year by our local institutions on homes in Pomona. I as an individual with no title or power don't know how I could gather such information.

How about a new challenge? That may not be directly related to crime, but it is most definitely related to the decline of our good city. Good people cannot even obtain commercial financing to buy a home in Pomona, while other agencies are able to practically give a home to others who cannot appreciate what they have not earned and proceed to destroy and defile a once lovely neighborhood.

I have been a Pomona resident of 10 years and have seen it all around me. We must do something fast. — Phyllis T. Mogensen, Pomona

Criminal never pays

Dear Editor:

I agree with you that "Spotlight on Crime" should continue to be printed. I also agree that names and pictures of the criminals should also be printed. Who's to say? Maybe we may be shopping or walking next to a criminal and not even know him or her until it's too late.

We moved from Pomona 12 years ago for that very reason. Peeping toms, theft, etc. were all too frequent. Lived in Pomona since 1945, but felt we had to get away. The criminal never seems to pay for his actions.

But individuals and taxpayers always bear the brunt of their crimes. I say get stiffer penalties and maybe they will be more reluctant to suffer the consequences. We've been letting the judges and courts pamper criminals until it's way out of hand.

School vandalism, arson, crimes of robbery and murder and rape would run less rampant if the people who commit these crimes were severely punished. Please, let's not let the criminal go free. — E.M., a senior citizen Start afresh?

Dear Editor:

I am very much interested in Pomona being restored. I have been an homeowner in Pomona for about thirty years. I find it hard to believe this is the same Pomona.

I am filled with abhorrence at the crime and at the lack of caring that seems to have taken over.

I do feel our city government needs quite a bit of restoration also, especially in the planning commission, from Fifth St., Second, Holt, Indian Hill, Towne, etc. These streets are a disgrace, they are Watts in appearances; cheap hamburger stands or whatever. Why not a planning like our neighbors in Claremont have with a purpose in mind.

The homes being sold by H.U.D. are dirty, unkept, boarded up, or sold to people who tear them down even more.

Why not start afresh? Tear down the vacant buildings and houses that are eyesores, stop the ghetto-like appearance of Pomona and its environment. Maybe we will find the real Pomona, the goddess of trees and fruit. — Mrs. R.B.

A statewide mandate

Dear Editor:

Count me as one of those who is sick of the crime in this city.

I won't send my daughter to the public schools. The First Baptist school is my choice.

My wife and I feel uncomfortable any time we leave the relative safety of our house or car. Even though it would be a tremendous economic hardship, we have seriously considered moving and we would leave Pomona to the murderers, rapists, knife wielders, etc.

Several years ago there was a referendum which asked the people of California to restore the death penalty. Whether you agree or disagree with the specific subject of death, you should realize that the people gave a mandate to the legislative and judicial bureaucrats to do something about crime and the criminals.

Garage looted

Dear Editor:

On Tuesday, Feb. 25, 1975, my wife went to the hospital to have a baby. On Wednesday, while I was visiting my wife, someone broke the lock on my garage and took all of my Craftsman hand power tools: a router, circular saw, sander, a band saw plus a Shopmate saber saw, my set of Craftsman mechanic's tools and my red Kennedy tool box with woodworking tools inside. My wife's orange woman's (Vista) ten speed, complete with baby seat, and my own orange man's ten speed were also taken. The total value of this rip off was between $500 and $600. Also a baby carseat.

I'm sure you will agree with me that when all of us are fighting a pretty big battle against inflation and unemployment, this is a time to pull together and not whip inflation by ripping off. When I was on unemployment in 1974, those tools helped make ends meet for our family.

I figure there is a good chance that someone saw my garage being burglarized, as it probably happened in daylight. If you have any information that can help us get back our possessions, please contact us as soon as possible. The only reward we can offer is the good it will do your own heart to help someone else. — Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cullen

Spotlight on conviction

Dear Editor:

Not only do I think it is time for an all out war against crime, but I'd like to see spotlighted in the paper the capture and conviction of the criminal and let the public know what his sentence was.

I never did see in the paper if the man was sentenced for the murder of the old lady who lived at 745½ N. Huntington. — M.E.D.

Paul Harvey
Democracy won't work

President Ford, going around the country saying all the right things, still barely holds his own in the popularity ratings. That has to reflect one of three things: Either he lacks the magic appeal we call "charisma." Or else we, the people, are just sick and tired of politicians.

Or could it be that we, like Pavlovian animals, really respond enthusiastically only to the people who promise us more and more something-for-nothing?

Democracy won't work. This is not intended to disparage our country. Ours is not a "democracy," and it was never intended to be. In a democracy everybody votes on everything. That's mob rule. So you will not find the word "democracy" in our Constitution, nor in our Declaration of Independence, nor in any of our several state constitutions. Not once.

Ours is a representative republic. In a republic we elect men to make decisions in our behalf. It was presumed we would elect our best men. Recently, unfortunately, we have tended to elect men our own size. And then we expect them to be something more than we are.

Americans were sobered recently to see a four-year study by the U.S. Office of Education which should put to rest forever the nonsense about "all men being equal."

It was determined that one in five adult Americans is functionally illiterate. That means when it comes to reading, writing and 'rithmetic — such things as counting money, making change, understanding taxes and insurance and drivers' licenses — 20% of adult Americans just can't cope.

In the findings, males and females were about equally unequal.

But 16% of white persons, 44% of blacks and 56% of our Latin Americans are functionally incompetent. That's 23 million Americans who cannot even read and understand the help-wanted ads!

That should explain a couple of things. And most of these presumably are still able to make an "X" on a ballot. And that could explain a lot of things. Democracy won't work.

Indeed, the average individual is incapable of governing himself — much less participating in the governing of others. Nor does "more education" necessarily guarantee better government.

Prof. Ivor Mills of the University of Cambridge is among those who believe we may already be demanding too much of the human brain, creating a brain strain resulting in depression which, in turn, breeds escapism — in any direction, from loud music to lawbreaking.

It was the hope of our nation's architects — themselves exceptional individuals — that our national destiny would be entrusted only to our most uncommon men.

We must seek and find and encourage and respect and elect those men again.

To beat inflation

An easy way to salt ice

By Norman H. Stark

Everyone knows about tossing some rock salt on patches of ice. Effective? Yes. But this easy mixture does an even better job.

Take four cups of the rock salt you've bought at the grocery store and add 4 cups of plain old epsom salts plus 8 cups of ammonium sulfate (used as fertilizer and available anywhere garden supplies are sold). Sprinkle on ice-coated walks and drives.

The cost of making your own ice melting formula is approximately 5 cents per ounce. To determine your savings, divide the cost of your store-bought brand by the number of ounces it contains. Then compare the per-ounce cost — you'll be surprised at how much you can save for so little effort.

Note: Material costs are based on the prices at retail outlets of national drug, grocery and hardware chains. These costs will vary, depending on the geographic area. If you wish to make up a larger quantity — and save even more — buy your materials at a chemical supply company.

Today's birthdays: Former Vice President Spiro Agnew is 57 years old. Former Ambassador to France Sargent Shriver is 60.

Thought for today: If you don't learn to laugh at trouble, you won't have anything to laugh at when you're old. — Ed Howe, American writer, 1853-1937.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) One friendly with you socially will not show you the same generous considerations if you do business together today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your goals can be achieved today if you can keep partners and associates out of your path. Act first, then tell others about it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Co-workers will get a trifle miffed with you today if you shirk responsibilities or pick the easy job for yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be cautious and prudent in any commercial dealings you have today. Taking a risk at this time could prove very costly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Normally, when you make an important decision you'll stick by it. Today, you could easily be pressured into changing your mind.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're not likely to do things for others today unless there's something special in it for you. This could create friction with a friend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You still don't have a firm handle on the management of your resources. You'll show a loss where you could have shown a gain.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll get a bit annoyed today when you discover how unappreciative others are of what you went out of your way to do for them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll have the luck you're hoping for with plans today if you lay your cards on the table rather than try to play coy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't take funds earmarked for the family budget and use them for something else today. They'll be needed most where they are.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) One you'll be dealing with today won't be as optimistic about the outcome of an event as you are. You'll revise your plans.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This will be a profitable day businesswise if you don't let matters get overcomplicated. Keep negotiations simple.

Ann Landers

Don't betray dead brother

Dear Ann Landers: I must talk to someone about this and you seem like a very close friend, even though we are strangers.

Last year my brother died in Omaha. Dad and I went to Tom's apartment and arranged for the funeral. While going through his personal belongings I came across a book of poetry, "Sonnets From the Portuguese." It was inscribed to Tom in a very romantic, tender fashion. I also found a love letter in the book, written from the same man to my brother. Their relationship was unmistakable.

I hid the letter and book from my parents because I wasn't sure they would understand. For months I have been torn between telling them and not telling them. I feel Tom wouldn't have wanted them to know of his homosexuality because it could cause them sorrow. Yet, this is the way he was and perhaps they should be told. Sometimes I feel dishonest when we are discussing Tom and I keep this part of him from them. Perhaps if they knew the truth it might make them more sympathetic toward other homosexuals. Please, Ann, advise me. — He Aint' Heavy, He's My Brother

Dear Sister: Keep you lips sealed. The information would do nothing but create unhappiness. Moreover, you would be betraying your brother in his grave. Had he wanted his parents to know, he would have told them himself.

Dear Ann Laners: We have had so many family fights that I'm ready to settle for your judgment. The problem is mainly between my husband and me.

Edgar runs the house with a heavy hand. I realize I have given in to him in matters where I should have hung on to some authority. I turned over all the finances completely to avoid trouble. For example, I have always let him do the grocery shopping even though his choices were not what I would have selected.

Now things are getting out of hand. Periodically Edgar goes on "cleaning binges." He throws out things I wanted to keep. His standard excuse is, "Who needs all this junk?" Some of it belonged to my mother and I wanted to keep it for sentimental reasons.

Now he has enouraged our 16-year-old daughter to "show her independence" as he calls it. Suddenly she doesn't like anything I cook she she is cooking her own suppers.

The kitchen is a mess because someone is always fixing something special. (Edgar has been doing this for years.)

I hate fighting all the time so I keep my mouth shut and put up with it. But I know I'm being treated like a doormat and I hate it. There are times when I feel I am neither wanted nor needed around here and I'd be better off if I cleared out and went to live with my mother. What do you think? — Excess Baggage

Dear Ex B.: It sounds as if your problems are so deep-seated and of such long standing that you can do little to alter things. One thing is certain. You aren't going to change your husband, nor are you going to wrest from him any of the wifely jobs he has usurped.

I suggest counseling so you can learn how to live with the situation. I doubt that you'd have a better life if you moved in with your mother. What's more important, your 16-year-old needs you, whether you realize it or not.

Erma Bombeck

Tears come easy nowadays

In cleaning out my refrigerator yesterday, I discovered my yeast expired Aug. 23, 1974.

As my eyes welled with tears, my husband noted, "You cry at the drop of a hat anymore."

"Do you think I'm crying for myself?" I sniffed. "I'm crying for all the little unborn rolls, the unfulfilled promise of fresh bread, and all the French doughnuts that might have been. It's all my fault. I should have used it."

"You were crying the other night," he said.

"I had reason to cry. The time ran out of my eight-hour cold capsule and my 24-hour girdle died prematurely at 18 hours. I knew I was putting a strain on it, but I didn't care. I was only thinking of myself."

"You ought to get out of the house more," he observed.

"Don't be condescending. You don't know what it is to have a five-day deodorant pad go terminal."

"You really are worked up about these things."

"Don't you understand? Everything I touch I destroy!"

"Who said that?"

"Bette Davis in 'Dark Victory,'" I sobbed.

"You have to learn to look on the bright side," he comforted.

"What bright side? Last week I washed my face every night with a soap that was suppoed to make me beautiful in seven days."

"What happened?"

"You had to ask. I'm no good, I tell you. If you had any sense, you would walk right through that door and never come back. That rubber plant in the hallway died."

"So?"

"It was plastic. My 18-hour bra has a death wish."

"So, that's it. Tomorrow, why don't you drive into town for lunch?"

I began to cry again. "On what? My driver's license expires at midnight."

Dr. Lamb

Wine's benefit questioned

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Enclosed is an article that appeared in our paper. I wondered at the time whether a good American doctor would agree with it.

DEAR READER — I read the French doctor's comments in the article you sent me. I guess you will have to overlook a Frenchman's enthusiasm for his wines, but his remarks are subject to comparison with known facts — even though they might not be so romantic or pleasing to the wine lover.

Wine is not a good source of potassium as he claims. By comparison a similar amount of orange juice contains more than twice as much potassium. All natural fruits are loaded with potassium, and you can get your potassium there without abusing your body with alcohol.

Abuse is the right word, too. If you want to know just how harmful alcohol can be, even the daily habit of a few drinks, send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 1-4, Alcohol, Whiskey, Gin, Vodka, Ru, Wine, Beer. Just write to me for it in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. You will find out that alcohol will damage the brain, the heart and the liver, and that it is hardly a healthy addition to your life style as my French colleague sugests.

He is also wrong in suggesting that wine is a good source of vitamins. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture analysis, alcoholic beverages are almost lacking in vitamins, unless you add fruit or fruit juice to your concoction.

About the only good use I have ever found documented for alcohol is its sedative effects or tranquilizing effects when that is indicated. It essentially a drug habit. It serves as a social lubricant. The need for such lubricant says a lot about our society. The widespread human need is to be made to feel comfortable and at ease, and that problem is perhaps a bigger subject than the alcohol habit.

Perhaps the native Frenchman isn't so secure socially if he needs wine to lubricate his way through life. But, if it weren't for his wine he might never have developed his reputation as a romantic.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am wondering what causes the deep ridges that appear on the fingernails. My doctor puts me on vitamins, but it only made matters worse. I am also on a low blood sugar diet and eat lots of protein but to no avail. What should I do?

DEAR READER — There are many causes for ridges in fingernails. It can even be related to a fungus infection.

My advice is to increase your calcium intake if you are not getting a quart of milk a day on that diet. Many of those high protein diets and low carbohydrate diets are deficient in calcium. The milk is sometimes eliminated, wrongly, because milk contains carboyhdrate. You might also be sure you are getting enough iron. Then leave off the nail polish if you use it.

If these simple home efforts don't work go see a dermatologist (skin specialist), and let him get a better look at your problem

About this-that

Measurements of the moon's atmosphere indicate that air pressure there is less than one one-hundred-billionth of that on earth.

With cold ranging even more than on Antarctica, temperatures on the planet Mars fluctuate between 65 degrees F., down to minus 100 degrees.

Ditches instead of insecticides are used to fight mosquitoes in some salt marshes. Canals link mosquito-breeding places with tidal creeks so that fish can swim in and eat the larvae.

In one second the sun radiates more energy than man has used since the beginning of civilization.

The impala antelope reacts to danger with soaring jumps that carry it 10 feet high and three times that distance.

The Professor looked over the dummy for a few moments, spread his hand and remarked, "I'm glad I cheated a point and opened a 20-point two notrump. If either diamonds or clubs break three-two I have thirteen top tricks. If neither suit breaks, I can make my grand slam on a squeeze which I can develop against any and all distributions."

The Professor won the club in his own hand, led a second club to dummy, noted that clubs had not broken and proceeded to cash dummy's king of diamonds and his own queen, to note that East held a diamond stopper.

He cashed dummy's last club honor and his own last diamond honor and his three high hearts, while discarding the last club and last diamond from dummy.

Everyone was down to four cards. West had to keep the high club, East the high diamond. Neither one could guard spades, so all the spades were good.

You readers can get considerable fun out of seeing how the hand makes if West stops both minor suits, and if East holds the club stopper instead of West.

Ask the Jacobys

A reader from Maine wants to know if it is unethical to think a long time and then bid or pass.

The answer is that slow bids and slow passes should be avoided as much as possible because they put a burden on your partner.

He is supposed to make his next call without paying attention to the fact that you had a problem. If he does take advantage of your hesitation he is being unethical.

Marmaduke

L.M. Boyd

Origin of 'courting'

You know how an amorous bachelor is said to "court" the object of his affection? Client asks why that's so called. If you wanted something from a king in the 1400s on, you had to hang around his courtyard until he took the notion to check out your action. If you hung around long enough, you were said to pay "court" to His Highness. Our Language man says sardonic conversationalists eventually spun off the expression to apply to young fellows who hung around their selected girls.

WITCHES

Q. "How many so-called witches were burned at the stake in Salem, Mass.?"

A. None. Quite a few were hanged thereabouts, though. Specifically, no white woman convicted of witchcraft was burned in this country. But the record shows one black woman was burned alive in 1779 at Kaskaskia, Ill. And a dozen other black slaves were burned alive in 1741 at New York City. The witchhunters in Europe did not so discriminate. They burned a whole bevy of convicted witches without regard to complexion.

DO YOU KNOW where the affluent snow skiers go in June? To Chile. That's when the snow season starts there. Besides the air fare which ran around $500 round trip at last report, a resort room with meals plus lift tickets are going for about $25 a day.

LIGHT SWITCH

Where is the light switch in your bathroom? Inside the door or outside? Various building codes govern this matter differently in numerous municipalities. Some require it to be outside the door. On the theory you're less likely to have wet hands when you touch it there. Others require it inside. On the theory nobody but you should be able to turn it on or off when you're navigating around on slippery feet. A third group of city ordinance makers — bless them, clink! — regard the whereabouts of your bathroom switch as none of their business.

NOTE IT STATED in print that no other land animal is a better swimmer than the elephant. Remarkable, if true. The authority for this claim must not think the polar bear is a land animal. Or is the elephant a better swimmer than the polar bear? If you know for sure, a replay would be appreciated.

Dr. Miller

After nine years, give dog a break

DEAR DR. MILLER: Jed hasn't tried to pull this stuff since he was a puppy. He didn't want to use his doghouse then, either. We insisted. We didn't want a setter-sized dog in the house all the time. For nine years, our doghouse has been good enough for him. But now, he wants in nights, whines, fusses, and carries on at the door. He acts stiff and cold in the mornings. I think it's a put-on to get sympathy and get inside. The kids and even my wife now feel sorry for him and want to let him in. I say fixing up the doghouse is good enough. Why spoil him now? —A.F.

DEAR A.F.: Doesn't your dog deserve to be "spoiled" a bit after nine years? It's quite likely Jed could be developing rheumatism, arthritis, or some similar variety of age-associated ailment. A remodeled doghouse might help, yet body and mind might really need that indoor bedroom now. After nine years, why not let your old friend in?

DEAR DR. MILLER: Isn't ground dried shrimp as good for my fish as chopped up earthworms? I hope so, because chopping up earthworms is a very messy job, and they must hate it, too. — T.J.

DEAR T. J.: Most fish do best on a combination of fresh and dried foods. Ther are countless varieties of each available, enough to eliminate earthworm chopping as an essential chore.

DEAR DR. MILLER: The doctor can find nothing wrong with Portnoy, our parakeet, except he is a little overweight. Still, he's not his old self at all since we moved two weeks ago. He throws his seeds all over the place, he picks his feathers out, he bites us, he does a terrible lot of pacing, and once in a while he has diarrhea when he never did before. The doctor thinks it has something to do with the move, but that's not reasonable because he's in the same old cage and with people who love him. Can you shed any light on this mystery? —R.C.

DEAR R.C.: Very possibly Portnoy's complaint IS directly related to his new and unfamiliar environment. His old cage helped, undoubtedly, but maybe not enough. Presumably by now he would have had time to adapt to these new surroundings and settle into a more normal, happier routine. If he hasn't, then the doctor would want to review Portnoy's problems to see if pyschological factors are still the most important.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Buster, my guinea pig, is turning on to cat crackers. How are they for him? — S. W.

DEAR S. W.: He could cope with an occasional crunch, but cat crackers as a steady diet wouldn't work. They're too high in protein and fat, and the wrong vitamin formulation, no "C," for example. Also, cat crackers would provide inadequate roughage.

What is it like to be president? It's in the library

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Harry Truman expressed what many American presidents often practiced, or tried to practice, when he stuck a sign on his desk reading: "The buck stops here."

Variations of that belief appear in some of the original manuscripts of 33 former presidents on display at the Lyndon B. Johnson Library here. The exhibit is described by library officials as the first to include, under one roof, documents from so many of the nation's presidents.

Without exception the letters, speeches and notes show that each man believed he had been chosen by the people for the most important job in the world.

"All seemed to feel the same way, to have the same experiences," said Mike Gillette, an archivist at the LBJ Library who helped to prepare the exhibit. "Another theme that is obvious throughout is the belief on the part of each occupant (of the White House) that he tried as hard as he could, although maybe he did not accomplish what he wanted to."

Only Chester Arthur and James Buchanan are missing from the list of former presidents from George Washington to Lyndon Johnson. Many documents came from the Library of Congress and others from other presidential libraries and private collections. Richard Nixon has not been included because his papers are not yet available to reseachers.

"The greatest part of the president's job is to make decisions — big ones and small ones, dozens of them almost every day," Truman said in the exhibited text of his last fireside chat before leaving office in 1953. "The papers may circulate around the government for a while but they finally arrive at this desk. And there is no place else for them to go ... He can't pass that buck to anybody. No one else can do the deciding for him. That's his job."

George Washington, as the first president, wrote in a letter to Alexander Hamilton that he had trouble finding time to do everything that should be done.

"It is my wish to act right; if I err, the head not the heart, shall with justice, be chargeable," he said.

"How inadequate any man is to step into the office of the American presidency," said Lyndon B. Johnson in his memoirs. "... It is not a question of wanting to do the right thing. The American people in their wisdom have never yet elected an evil man to lead them. No man ever runs for the presidency on a platform of doing caused by field burning? Did you know the high pollen count is so bad that runner Jim Ryun had to leave for California?"

Eugene's metropolitan area is Lane County, slightly smaller than the state of Connecticut. It stretches from the summit of the Cascade Mountains to the Pacific Ocean and includes an abundance of trails, camp sites and recreational facilities.

The city itself has a population of 213,000 and is the home of the University of Oregon.

A river runs through the city. The streets are wide and tree-lined. A mall was built in the heart of the downtown business district and cars are prohibited.

Eugene is the track capital of the West, the nation or the world, depending on whom you ask. Runners and joggers can be seen any time of the day or night, either running — or bragging about it.

Willamette Valley farmers purify their grass seed fields by burning the stubble. Sometimes the smoke is trapped by temperature inversions and the smog is as bad as the famous pollution of Los Angeles.

"A bargain basement New Orleans" is how one southerner describes Mobile, a major industrial seaport of 200,000.

The upper part of Mobile Bay has been heavily polluted and a nearby paper mill belches smoke into the hot, humid air. But the southern waters are clean and a favorite of the deep sea fishermen, swimmers and bathers who flock to the miles of beaches.

Nearby rural areas are dotted with lakes and streams and are a favorite of hunters and fresh water fishermen. There's good stream fishing an hour's distance from the downtown.

Much of the community life is in the suburbs. The inner city has deteriorated. But it has its charm, its oak-lined avenues, its restoration and rehabilitation projects.

And it has its slums and the largest increase in crime of any of Alabama's larger cities for the first six months of the year.

"If you're middle class, or upper middle class, it's fine," said one man. "For them, there are suburbs, the country club, the yacht club.

Saddlemaker's idea just grew and grew

From custom harness and elegant saddles to delicate suede cocktail dresses, prestige luggage and fine perfume . . . that's a capsule history of the House of Hermes.

It took five generations and a lot of foresight, but it traces the evolution of fine craftsmanship to meet the demands of changing times.

In 1837, a saddlemaker named Thierry Hermes opened a shop in a Paris courtyard and started a long tradition that culminated in a fall couture collection exhibited at the recent Air France Fashion in Flight show.

Harnessing the elite

While Thierry Hermes confined himself to highest quality harnesses for wholesale distribution, his son Emile added saddlery, and started a direct retail outlet for his elite clientele. He also moved the business to its present location at 24 Faubourg St. Honore.

Emile's initiative was rewarded by success and fame. Ornate saddles, harnesses and leather sporting accessories were commissioned by kings and noblemen; toilet accessories and tea caddies by queens and courtesans.

The workmanship was thorough, the materials the finest, the designs without fault — and the prices high! Products have varied with the years, but these four attributes remain.

With the advent of the automobile, the two Hermes grandsons, Adolphe and Emile, decided to diversify and employed some of their workmen to make personal accessories. Their decision heralded the birth of Leather styling.

From old to new

Money belts and writing cases led to modern billfolds; guantlets and stirrups to gloves and boots, the riding crop to the polo mallet. Silver buckles led to fine jewelry, castle ensigns to ladies' scarves.

The development of couture has been gradual, beginning in the 1920's with a few deerskin garments in the "Sportive" manner.

Only in the last decade have there been two yearly collections.

Souvenir folders will be available again this year

By GUSTAV DETJEN, JR.

At the end of each year, the United Nations Postal Administration makes available to collectors souvenir folders of all United Nations stamps issued during that year. The stamps themselves, including the souvenir sheet — one mint single of each denomination — are not affixed inside the folder, although spaces have been provided for this purpose, together with a brief history of each issue. The outside cover for 1975 is in full color on the theme of the 30th anniversary issue and reproduces all of the stamps issued in 1975.

The United Nations/New York stamps and the United Nations/Geneva stamps are available in separate folders. The New York folder for 1975 is priced at $2.15 and the Geneva folder at $3.70, plus return postage (one folder — 30 cents, two to four folders — 50 cents, five to eight folders — $1). Orders should be sent to the United Nations Postal Administration, P. O. Box 5900, Grand Central Station, New York, N. Y. 10017.

ATTACKING INVADER — Virginia, a new member of the Robert Filiatreaux household in Pleasanton, Calif., discovered an intruder in their bedroom. She tried in vain to scare it away and even pounced on it against the full length closet mirror but discovered her foe was as persistent as she. With disgust, Virginia finally retreated and so did her foe.

Quality of Life . . .

"But, like a lot of cities, if you're just a poor working guy, it's a terrible place."

It has the potential of New Orleans, the French and Spanish influences, but it was never developed and is overshadowed by New Orleans.

Portland, Ore.

Portland's metropolitan area of more than 1 million includes three counties and towering Mt. Hood. Portlanders say if you can see the mountain, it's going to rain, and if you can't see it, that it already is.

The Willamette River cuts through the heart of the city, and thousands of salmon are caught each year within minutes of city hall.

Portland is one of the largest small towns left. It combines the benefits of a large city — symphony, opera, art museum, good restaurants — with country living 15 minutes away.

It has a strong civic conscience and neighborhood councils have been given a voice in decisions affecting their areas. It is cleaning up the Willamette River and has blocked construction of an eight-lane freeway.

The downtown area is bounded on the north by Burnside Avenue where derelicts sprawl in the gutter and on the south by a sterile urban renewal project.

There is a huge, undeveloped forest within the city limits and the city is considering whether to permit limited logging.

Jersey City, the "Liberty City," rated the worst big city in America, is a victim of urban blight. It has seemingly endless tenements, boarded-up storefronts and shipping warehouses.

A totally urban area, Jersey City has no suburbs and its metropolitan area includes the old industrial towns of Hoboken and Bayonne.

"Ours is a community of working class people who live in areas with strong neighborhood ties," says Mayor Paul Jordan. "As for the physical aspects of the city, its infrastructure is burned out — as in all old Northeastern cities."

He cites its location on the Hudson "with the cultural and theatrical aspects of New York City at our disposal without the living hassle."

"I live there only because the rent is cheap but for shopping or a night out, I'd never stay here," says one resident.

Hundreds of smokestacks belch out pollution. The steps of city hall are cracked and crumbling, the grounds are ill kept. Despite redevelopment, most of the housing is deteriorating, and officials say the city needs another 10,000 units.

NEW YORK (AP) — Question to Arthur R. Taylor, the young president of the CBS corporate empire: What would you define as "inappropriate for family viewing" on television?

Reply: "I would think the answer to that is: That which is damaging to family audiences or that which the bulk of family audiences would find tasteless and embarrassing."

Thus began an interview with the man who last December touched off a major controversy in television by proposing what now is called the "family viewing" rule of all three networks.

His proposal was adopted last April by the National Association of Broadcasters, following pressure by the Federal Communications Commission chairman, Richard E. Wiley, to find ways of protecting young viewers from excessive sex and violence on TV in the early evening.

The NAB says its code subscribers — which include the networks — shouldn't air entertainment shows "inappropriate" for general family viewing in the first hour of network evening programming and in the immediately preceding hour.

But nowhere is "inappropriate" defined. Nor should it be, says the 40-year-old Taylor, who says there shouldn't be any "list of do's and don'ts.

"I think that's the worst thing one could do in dealing with the creative process. This is a question of taste, a question of judgment..."

Critics of the new "family viewing" rule call it a public relations ploy to ward off congressional heat. The Writers' Guild of America last May said it smacked of "prior censorship..."

In October, the guild stepped up its attack in a telegram to the networks on behalf of itself, the Directors' Guild, the Screen Actors' Guild, various producers, companies and the viewing public.

It called the "family

viewing hour" a "censorship rule" which "has drastically curtailed the free flow of ideas and expression on television and is stifling the creativity of many artists."

It said "we have been forced to the point of a lawsuit (which hasn't yet been filed) because it is our opinion there is no other satisfactory method of ridding the television industry of this censorship rule."

Taylor, who became president of CBS, Inc., in 1972, says he doesn't think the threatened lawsuit has "any merit at all. It'll be summarily dismissed."

Nor does he feel the "family viewing" rule poses any First Amendment or anti-trust questions.

He says networks, like newspapers, have the constitutional right to edit the material they present. And industries have the right to adopt industry codes and "standards of behavior..."

A soft-spoken man who came to CBS from the International Paper Co., he calls the "family viewing" concept an industry exercise in self-regulation. But why now? Why didn't it occur earlier?

"Well, I think it's a matter of a move whose time had come," says Taylor, a magna cum laude at Brown University whose degree was not in business but in Renaissance history.

And, he said, the matter of early-evening sex and violence on TV "has been a problem, been a situation that has been developing."

But what caused his proposal? Was it any specific instance?

"No, it was not any specific instance," he said. "I certainly think, however, that the 'Born Innocent' episode on NBC...was an important trigger."

He meant the controversial 1974 TV movie about a teenaged girl in a juvenile detention home. In one much-criticized scene, the girl was sexually abused with a broom handle wielded by other inmates.

However, he said that wasn't the sole factor in pushing for adoption of the "family viewing" rule. Another factor was what he called "the continual discussion on the Washington scene" about television.

"But I think the most important factor was our belief that to represent our position, the position of this industry with a great deal of tenacity, to represent it with vigor, we had to do what we thought was right..."

He said the network's position "was quite clearly that we ought to have this 'cordon sanitaire' in the early evening hours...that this was an experiment worth making.

"We didn't think it would interfere with the creative process, we don't think it has and yet we think it is mature and responsible on the part of the industry..."

According to the FCC, there are 726 commercial TV stations in the United States. Of this number, the NAB says, 416 now subscribe to the NAB's televison code — including its "family hour" provisions.

The NAB says as of April 1 next year, all 535 stations that now belong to the NAB — the majority of them are network affiliates — wil have to subscribe to its television code.

And these network affiliates get the majority of their prime evening time programming from CBS, NBC and ABC.

What would CBS do if a competing network, in deep ratings trouble, declared the family viewing hour a mistake and reinstated adult comedy or shootem-ups during that hour to boost ratings again?

Taylor: "What we would do...is stick to our own concept...the support for family viewing is coming from so many places, I think that network would be subjected to a great public outcry."

He conceded that the network that went back to the old ways would "probably make a lot of money, but the fact of the matter is that we must speak to a public constituency and we must be concerned about what they're thinking."

Certified mechanics fill car service needs

A national organization formed only three years ago has tested 95,000 automotive mechanics and certified approximately 70,000 of them as competent in one or more technical areas.

The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence, headquartered in Washington, D.C., is the name of the organization, and their tests are developed and administered nationwide by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J.

They pay fee

Mechanics or their employers pay the fees for the tests and the program is strictly voluntary.

Herbert S. Fuhrman, NIASE President, says: "The nation's mechanics deserve huge credit for turning out in such large numbers for these voluntary tests. It certainly expresses a strong desire to prove their competency. We hope that consumers will aks for certified mechanics to work on their cars and will look for mechanics' credentials displayed in service areas."

Shops employing certified mechanics are authorized to display orange and blue signs which read: "We employ mechanics certified by NIASE — let us show you their credentials."

Pinpoint certification

The credentials show specifically in what areas a mechanic or body repairer or painter is certified.

The Institute offers certification in eight automobile areas: Engine repair, Automatic Transmission, Manual Transmission and Rear Axle, Front End, Brakes, Electrical Systems, Heating and Air Conditioning, and Engine Tune-up.

Also offered are six tests for heavy-duty truck and bus mechanics, and two tests in body and paint.

In the automobile series, for example, a mechanic can take all eight tests or a lesser number. If he succeeds in passing all eight and he meets the experience requirement, he is certified as a General Automobile Mechanic. Two years' working experience as a mechanic are required for certification.

Benefits everyone

The Institute claims the voluntary testing and certification program benefits everyone. The consumer is given the choice between a mechanic who has proved his competency and one who has not.

The tests are generally designed for the mechanic who is already employed.

10th anniversary

Guild celebration set

The Foothill Guild of Crippled Children's Society is celebrating the 10th anniversary of its founding at a luncheon Friday noon in the home of its first president, Mrs. Richard M. Hyman, Pomona.

The purpose of the Foothill Guild, which serves the Pomona Valley Center for Crippled Children, is to promote interest in and knowledge of the Crippled Children's Society as well as to provide financial and volunteer assistance to the center at 480 S. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont. The center serves the handicapped of the East San Gabriel and Pomona Valleys.

The guild has sponsored horse shows, a tennis tournament, parties at the Crippled Children's Center and a restaurant opening. Funds from these benefits have been used to build the swimming pool and glass pool enclosure at the Pomona Valley Center. The guild has also purchased gifts for Christmas parties, toys for use in programs at the Center and has assisted with salaries for professional workers. All funds are used at the local center.

Guild members volunteer their services at the reception desk and aid in mail fund campaigns.

Relaxing

There is so much going on that we all must learn to relax. An inexpensive, effective way is to take a few minutes a day to shake your hands as though shaking off water, wriggle your toes. Also, turn your head from side to side and front to back. Amazing how these simple steps help.

Beauty seminar begins Monday

If you have ever had a problem deciding what colors and clothes were the best for you, then you may need some advice from JoAnn Fitzgibbons at the Color, Fashion, Beauty Seminar starting at Buffums' Pomona.

Mrs. Fitzgibbons helps men, women and children spend money wisely by avoiding clothing mistakes.

"You have to fit the pieces of a wardrob together like you fit the pieces of furniture, mixing and matching colors and texture for a pleasant appearance," she says.

Included in the class is a color chart determining the best colors, based on a person's skin tones, eyes and hair. A person is color coded according to the seasons. Suggestions are given for camouflaging figure flaws and details on coordinating shoes, hosiery, gloves, and hats to the overall wardrobe. Her basket of tricks includes samples of glass frames to try on to find shapes for the face.

Personalized make-up and hair styles will be featured for the new holiday season. People may learn their colors and fashion look for life at the classes starting Monday, 10 a.m. to noon or 1 to 3 p.m. Evening sessions are held Fridays 7-9 p.m. Call 623-4321, Buffums', for reservations.

Laughter

A laugh a day keeps the wrinkles away. Grimaces, squinting and biting one's lips help create lines around the eyes and mouth and thus give an appearance of early aging. Try to avoid these habits.

Medical Auxiliary presents awards

Two scholarships for Pomona Valley residents have been awarded by the Women's Auxiliary of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, District 14.

Each of the scholarships provides $200 per year for the recipients, Susan Annette Baird of Pomona, and Susan Ellen Gillian, also of Pomona.

Miss Baird is in the first year of a four-year nursing program at Point Loma College in San Diego. She graduated as salutatorian of her class at Pomona High School in June.

Miss Gillian is a freshman in a three-year program in nursing at Cal State Long Beach. She previously attended Chapman College.

Continuing scholarships are also held by Linda Costa of San Dimas, Candy Stevenson of Pomona, Irene Dooley of Claremont, Rosemary Rangle of Pomona and Lorna Lundberg of Pomona.

In past years the money for the scholarships was raised by holding a "Bacchanalia Night." This year it was decided to forgo the party. Invitations for a mythical "Ghostly Gamble" were sent out requesting contributions. Without the expenses of a party to be deducted, all the money donated will be available for medical, paramedical and nursing scholarships.

The slides, focusing on the Holy Places in the Old City of Jerusalem, were taken on a recent three-week pilgrimage to the Holy Land and Rome of six St. Anthony parishioners, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Maher, Mr. and Mrs. George Whitney and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Koehler.

The slide presentation will be accompanied by a narration on tape by Father Godfrey, O.F.M., who was also a participant in the pilgrimage. Mrs. Maher, who is program chairman for the St. Anthony's Altar and Rosary Society, will make a few comments on the pilgrimage and answer questions about it.

The program will be preceded by a business meeting. Mrs. Judd Smith will announce plans for the Dec. 27 church Christmas dance which will be held at St. Peter and St. Paul Parish Center in Alta Loma.

Victorian dinner slated Thursday

A Victorian evening with Charles Dickens will be enjoyed by members of The Curtain Raisers of The Garrison Theater at 6 p.m., Thursday, at The Athenaeum and Garrison Theater.

Candlelight dinner in the Victorian manner will open the evening at The Athenaeum with Mrs. J. Kirk Ashford greeting guests at the door.

Hot mulled wine will be served during the social hour and the menu will be traditional 19th Century English. A recipe from Dickens' cookbook will be used for the dessert.

After dinner, members will go to The Garrison Theater to see the portrayal of Charles Dickens by the noted dramatist, Emlyn Williams at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Denman Gambill Jr. and Mrs. Jack Stark are in charge of dinner arrangements, while Mrs. Frederick Weis is handling dinner and theater reservations.

The proceeds will benefit the theater.

Politics is problem

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Do you think two people who have totally different political views can ever get along well in marriage? My boyfriend and I have been living together for six weeks with the idea of marrying at the end of the year. We're in love and mutually attracted sexually. We took a lot of the same courses at school so we have similar interests. We both like sports, but politically, we disagree on almost everything. I am far left and he is far right. Our differences are shocking to me and I just can't understand how I could love anyone we thinks as he does.

Whenever we listen to the news or read a newspaper in the same room, we realize how opposite our views of the world are. Sometimes, if we want to make love that night, we avoid any conversation about what's happening in the news because we know if we get started on that, we'll get so mad, it'll take half the night to get over it. — M.D.

Dear M.D.: Usually, a person's political views or his reactions to the evening news tell a great deal about him. What we think about the major issues of the world reflects our values and tells where we place priorities. Some studies even indicate that political views are related to sexual codes. One study suggests that childhood sexual conflicts are related to development of extremist political behavior. behavior.

Arnold Rogow, political scientist at City University of New York said left-wingers are generally more permissive toward sex, while right-wingers are more conservative and anti-permissive. The left-wing personality on an unconscious level has reacted against restraints on sexual behavior and this leads to a revolt against the status quo.

According to psychologist Frank Farley, the political extremes are more committed to taking political action than the in-between moderates because the extremists believe they can control their own destiny. In this sense, you and your boyfriend might have more in common than either of you would have with someone of more moderate political views.

Moderates tend to believe their lives are controlled from outside themselves, while liberals and conservatives tend to have the opposite view.

If a person feels he has succeeded in running his life, he will probably continue along the same way, taking action when he wishes, while the person with little success in controlling his life, will be less motivated to action. The lack of success that may lead to a moderate political view may be a result of aggressive, domineering parents. This would indicate that you and your friend, in some respect, may have had similar backgrounds. It might be revealing to explore together what you have in common, rather than merely dwelling on your opposite political views. Try to analyze how and when you reach the conclusions you now hold.

If, after a more thorough analysis, you find you are still at opposite ends politically, I think it might place severe limitation on a marriage, for it would indicate major differences in your personalities and in the way you would approach almost any problems. While you're trying to discover more about each other, it might be helfpful to ask yourselves if you wouldn't be happier with someone who shared at least some of your views. A good sex relationship is not enough on which to build an enduring marriage.

To answer your first question: Yes, two people with totally different political views can get along in a marriage, but it isn't easy! The danger is that one partner gets lost and simply gives up.

Repercussions of CIA exposure

WASHINGTON — There is another side to the CIA story that hasn't been told. It's a story of demoralization and deterioration inside the clandestine agency. It's the reason William Colby was finally fired as the CIA chief.

We believe that excessive secrecy produced an unwholesome environment, which was changing the CIA into an ugly, frightening creature. "For too long," we recently wrote, "the CIA has operated in a subterranean world of half light, a world of grotesque shapes and shadows."

This was turning the CIA, we suggested, into an unfamiliar, un-American agency, which plotted murders, committed burglaries, conducted buggings, blackmailed diplomats, tailed newsmen and spied on loyal Americans.

Our CIA contacts have given us another picture, which we feel obligated to publish. We felt sunlight was the best antidote for the rot that was infecting the CIA. They claim there has been too much sunlight, which, as one CIA source put it, "has left us naked before our enemies."

Here are some of the repercussions, which we have been able to confirm:

—Top CIA informants and contract employees are switching their allegiances to foreign intelligence services, which they consider more trustworthy.

—The Soviet defectors, whom the CIA has been able to coax over to the American side, no longer trust the agency. This could shut off valuable future sources of information.

—The spectacle of the CIA confessing its sins to Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has left sophisticated allied intelligence officials incredulous. One of them commented: "You don't have a country, you have a church — no pun intended."

—This has reduced the CIA's credibility with allied intelligence agencies. "Oh, they have to deal with us," one source acknowledged, "but the extend of the cooperation is less because of their lessened confidence in us."

—The Middle Eastern intelligence services simply can't understand how the CIA could be induced to turn over to Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y., the most secret material on the Cyprus crisis and related Middle East problems.

—In Portugal, where a communist coup is still a threat, the CIA normally would have given clandestine support to moderate leaders at least commensurate with what the Soviets are doing. Instead, it has been left largely to Britain, France, Italy and West Germany to save Portugal.

—In Italy, communists have taken over at least 17 major jurisdictions during recent elections. In times past, the CIA would have worked with Italian security men to prevent the victories, just as the Soviets poured money into the campaigns to elect the communists.

—In Spain, the Soviets are more active than at any time since the Spanish civil war. They are strengthening the communist remnants throughout the country. In contrast, the CIA has been outmanned, their morale broken.

—In Lebanon, the Soviet-supported Palestine Liberation Organization is gaining power. Once the CIA operated one of its strongest networks in Lebanon. Now its efforts are feeble.

—In Israel, the long ties between the CIA and the crack Israeli intelligence service have been badly strained.

—In France, the veteran No. 2 man in the intelligence services, a staunch friend of the CIA, has been replaced by a political appointee. Our sources blame this upon the decline of the CIA.

—In Australia, the devotedly pro-American intelligence chief has been ousted under similar, dismal circumstances.

—Even in Canada, the old relationship between the CIA and the intelligence arm of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police has become corroded.

"All of them (are beginning to) mistrust us," explained a CIA contact. "They looked to us for leadership. Because they are out on the firing line, they must know that our word is trust-worthy. But who will trust us with their country's secrets now?

"You don't write up contracts in this business. The dealings of one agent with another become a sort of unofficial contract with the U.S. government."

CIA agents look upon themselves as patriots. Even in time of peace, they put their lives on the line for their country. Declared one CIA man with long experience: "No one in this business would work with all that self-sacrifice if he didn't think he was part of the secret arm of our government. Every CIA agent feels that he is an instrumentality of the President, no matter which President is in power."

Most of the veterans blame William Colby, the embattled CIA chief, for failing to stand up for them. He began to appear to them as a cold, calculating man who preferred exposure to loyalty, the sine qua non of all covert activity.

His predecessor, Richard Helms, was a dapper backroom operator, wise in the ways of the Georgetown sophisticates. If the CIA encountered any obstacles, he would explain the CIA's position in the musty, rich reading rooms of the Cosmos Club, Metropolitan Club and other haunts where the establishment figures hang out.

But Colby didn't operate in this clubby way. Instead, he submitted a 50-page summary to President Ford. As one CIA insider sees it, this "led the President to make an uninformed statement about he was not going to 'tolerate' this kind of activity, which seemed to confirm everything the rumors were saying.

"This left a vacuum in the public understanding, and the legislative branch rushed in to fill it. The intelligence committees were set up with no resistance from Colby or anyone else. Colby has rushed up to Capitol Hill and shoveled over documents he should never have given to anyone. We estimate that at some time during this period, he has spent no more than five per cent of his time running the CIA."

Meanwhile, the CIA began hemorrhaging. Top agents and technicians began rushing to retire. The demoralization spread until the word reached the President. He reacted by firing Colby.

SOLUTION

wrong. Every one wants to do what is right. The big challenge he faces, as he looks out on his country and the world from the observation post of the White House, is to know what the right thing is."

In 1900, three years after retirement, Grover Cleveland wrote, "This is especially the people's office. Its incumbent, by reason of the theory of his selection and the nature of his duties, is more directly related to the individual citizen than any other public servant."

Herbert Hoover complained in his memoirs about the crowds of tourists and visitors at the White House.

"From employes who had held over since the Harrison administration I learned that up to the beginning of the World War the president had only about two hours daily of office work. They spent the balance of their time seeing people, in social activities and I suppose in heavy thinking," said Hoover. "I soon found myself wasting a whole hour every day shaking hands with a line of 1,500 to 2,000 people." He added that he soon stopped the handshaking.

Woodrow Wilson in 1913 broke the precedent that had been set by Jefferson of a president not appearing before Congress in person.

Wilson told the assembled congressmen, "I am very glad indeed to have this opportunity to address the two houses directly (and) to (demonstrate) ... that the president of the United States is a person, not a mere department of the government hailing Congress from some isolated island of jealous power ... that he is a human being trying to cooperate with other human beings in a common service."

Ulysses S. Grant won the presidency with a promise of honest government. After four years of an administration marked by corruption and scandal he was tired and discouraged.

In 1872, he wrote to an old friend saying his retirement day "is near at hand and I live it as the happiest of my life, except possibly the day I left West Point." But Grant changed his mind. He was elected for another term, also marked by scandal.

Calvin Coolidge was a believer in economy of words as well as government. The LBJ Library exhibit contains the entire text of his campaign plans for a possible second term.

It reads: "I do not choose to run for President in nineteen twenty-eight."

BRINGING 'EM DOWN

Chaffey College quarterback Jamie Broecker is about to hit the deck as Citrus linebacker Coolidge Goodall (55, partially obscured) and defensive back Tim Lockridge (36) combine to drag down the Panther signal caller. Play occurred Saturday night at Chaffey.

Stanford stuns USC with last-gasp field goal, 13-10

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mike Langford, who is used to kicking pressure field goals, blasted a 37-yard effort with five seconds to play Saturday to move Stanford into a commanding position in the race to the Rose Bowl with a 13-10 upset of ninth-rated Southern California.

It was USC Coach John McKay's second consecutive upset defeat since he announced he was leaving the school to join the pro ranks.

Langford, who also connected from 55 yards out for a personal best in the first quarter, was given great field position after Stanford intercepted a Trojan pass with 59 seconds to play.

"No, this wasn't my greatest thrill," the Cardinal kicker said, "but I guess each time you kick a game-winning field goal it's the best one. I've done it three times."

Actually, Langford's heroics include two victories and a tie. His 50-yarder against California last year with no time remaining beat the Bears 22-20 and earlier this year his 33-yard attempt with nine seconds left gained the Cardinals a 19-19 tie with Michigan.

"I felt relaxed but afterward I felt like crying," said the 6-2, 215-pound senior who some consider the best pro prospect on the Stanford team.

California, a winner over Washington, leads the Pacific-8 Conference with a 5-1 record. UCLA and Stanford are 4-1 and Southern Cal and Washington are 3-2.

Athough California remain favored to go to the Rose Bowl, a four-way tie for the conference title is still a strong possibility and if that happens the team with the best overall record—USC—would go to Pasadena for the fourth consecutive New Year's Day classic.

Southern Cal is now 7-2 for the season. Stanford is 6-3-1 overall.

Langford's dramatic field goal ended a tense struggle in which the Trojans' Ricky Bell ran for 195 yards on 35 carries and quarterback Guy Benjamin of Stanford hit 15 of 29 passes for 161 yards.

The Trojans had a chance at victory late in the fourth period when they reached the Stanford 41. Quarterback Vince Evans of USC attempted to gain one yard for a first down, but was stacked up defensive lineman Geoff Kieburtz and Stanford took over with 4:31 to play.

Seven plays later Stanford had gained only four yards and was forced to punt and Southern Cal got the ball back with 1:48 to play at its own 18.

On the second scrimmage play, Evans' long pass was intercepted by Savann Thompson and returned 17 yards to the Southern Cal 38. There were 59 seconds to play.

On first down Benjamin hit tight end Ted Pappas for 14 yards. Then the quarterback dropped back to pass and was forced to scramble and gained nine yards to the Trojan 15. Twenty-eight seconds remained.

With 13 seconds left Benjamin ran to the middle of the field and fell down to give Langford perfect position for his second successful field goal of the day. The senior kicker had booted a 55-yarder in the first quarter for 3-0 Stanford lead.

Southern Cal took a 7-3 lead 7:16 into the second quarter when Evans passed to Junior Lee on a 68-yard sideline play but Stanford came back on Ron Inge's diving four-yard touchdown carry 5:30 later.

The Trojans trailed 10-7 midway through the third period when Langford attempted to extend the Cardinals' margin with a 47-yard field goal try. The attempt, however, was wide to the left and the Trojans took over at their 20.

Bell broke three tackles and gained 13 yards on the first play and with 5:42 left in the third quarter, Evans gained a key first down at the USC 42.

Bell gained eight and then nine and Evans' pass to Lee gained 17 before Bell gained eight more on two carries.

That put the ball at the Stanford 20 but Southern Cal was unable to move from there, and Glen Walker kicked a 39-yard field goal on the last play of the quarter to tie the game.

Stanford started the game with Mike Cordova at quarterback, and he completed just three of 10 passes.

Owls remain unbeaten

No. 2 ranked Citrus College remained unbeaten Saturday night, waltzing to a 33-7 win over Chaffey as the Panthers made too many mistakes to make a contest of it in a Mission Conference football game at Chaffey Stadium in Alta Loma.

The Panthers came as close as 7-17 with a touchdown drive in the final period but Citrus exploded for 16 points late in the quarter to put the game far out of reach.

Running back Randy Campbell punched the ball into the end zone for Chaffey on a two-yard run capping a 64-yard drive that was highlighted by the passing of quarterback Jamie Broecker.

Broecker completed 14 of 23 for 210 yards, but was intercepted four times — twice in each half. Two of them were picked off by Owl defensive back Will Felix. Linebacker Paul Sanders got one and Gene Esslin added the coup de grace with an interception which he returned 30 yards for Citrus' final touchdown of the evening.

It was a typical offensive showing for the Owls. Running backs Roy Prather and Herbie Holmes punched out more than 200 yards on the ground between them and quarterback Herb Daniel picked up an additional 53 yards. Daniel completed 5 of 12 passing attempts all in the first half for 86 more yards.

Kicking specialist Henri Limahelu, representing the third generation of Limahelus to kick for Citrus teams, booted a 25-yard field goal and connected on four extra points.

The Owls capped their scoring for the evening by blocking a Panther punt. Phil Vega was the last Citrus player to touch the ball as it bounded out of the end zone for a safety.

In a game that was marred by 208 yards in penalties — 130 for Chaffey and 78 for Citrus — the frustrated Panthers ended the game by starting a free-for-all as the final gun sounded. It didn't last long as coaches from both teams and game officials rushed in to separate the pushing and shoving players.

The victory was the eighth in a row for Citrus this season, solidifying its position as the No. 2 junior college football team in the state, No. 1 in the Mission Conference with a 5-0 record.

Chaffey, now 2-6 overall, is well out of the title picture. The Panthers host San Bernardino next Saturday. The Indians picked up their first victory of the season with a 21-7 decision over Riverside.

Cal Poly gives N. Texas a scare

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

But the Mean Green got mean when it counted to rally from a 17-9 deficit in the third quarter to take a 27-17 victory before 18,472 Homecoming fans.

It was a gutty performance for Poly against a major college foe which had upset Tennessee two weeks ago to excite the local fans.

What made it even more remarkable was the conditions the Broncos faced in getting here.

Because of a thick fog at Ontario International Airport Saturday morning, Poly had to wait 4½ hours before being able to take off.

North Texas was kind enough to delay the kickoff 45 minutes, but the Broncs still had to rush from the Dallas Airport to the Stadium without a chance to rest and with boxed chicken snacks as a pre-game meal.

Still, Poly enjoyed the statistical advantage in outgaining the Texans, 264 to 203, but turnovers and gifts prevented an upset.

"We played the best we've played this year," Poly coach Andy Vinci said. "A couple of key mistakes meant the ball game. I think we were tight because we've never played before this big a crowd before."

North Texas St. coach Hayden Fry commented, "Cal Poly played up to its capabilities. They hit hard, they're big and they're tough. We had some fine individual play, but our overall output was terrible. I hate to look that poor in front of such a great crowd."

Down 9-0 after the first quarter, the Broncs bounced back to grab a 17-9 lead with 5:32 left in the third period.

Two plays later, North Texas quarterback Glen Ray completed one of the only two passes he completed all night.

But it was a 56-yarder to Jeff Brown for a touchdown to make it 17-15. Sears Woods ran for the two-point conversion to tie it.

The Mean Green took the lead, 20-17, two minutes later on a 37-yard field goal by Iseed Khoury after Kelley Fry recovered Mark Sanders' fumble on the kickoff return.

North Texas salted the victory away when Woods scored on a three-yard run with 22 seconds remaining in the game to make the final score bigger than the contest indicated.

Poly literally gave the Texans a nine-point lead in the first seven minutes of the game.

On the Broncos' first offensive series, NTS got a safety when Jimmy Odom blocked Kim Crockett's punt — caused by a bad hike — and the ball sailed past the end zone.

The key play in a 79-yard drive was a 76-yard pass completion from Leo Costa to Teddy Myles.

Crumlish kicked a 37-yard field goal early in the third period to give Poly a 10-9 lead. His kick came four plays after Tony Falls blocked his fourth punt of the season.

After Jim Poettgen made his 10th interception of the season, Poly drove 92 yards in 14 plays.

Brent Partridge scored the TD from the one and Crumlish's extra point made it 17-9 to stun the Homecoming crowd. But the home team was able to bounce back.

Tailback Ron Jones led Poly's offense by rushing for 93 yards in 20 carries while Costa was completing seven of 18 passes for 118 yards. Ray of North Texas was able to hit on only two of eight with the biggest stat for the Mean Green being the 45.1 punting average of Don Fechtman, who ranks 10th nationally.

Bruins stay alive with win

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Quarterback John Sciarra sprinted for three touchdowns and UCLA kept its Rose Bowl hopes alive by whipping Oregon 50-17 in a Pacific-8 Conference game Saturday.

Sciarra, a 5-foot-10, 178-pound senior, scored on runs of 10, 22 and seven yards as he rushed for 109 yards in 13 carries.

Halfbacks Wendell Tyler and Eddie Ayers barrelled through giant holes opened by UCLA's powerful offensive line in the game that was played under a steady rain in the second half.

UCLA amassed 479 yards on the ground—the Bruins threw only one pass and it was incomplete—with Tyler picking up 125 yards and Ayers gaining 89 yards. Both carried the ball 19 times.

UCLA shot ahead 20-0 in the first half before Oregon cut the lead to 20-10 when quarterback Jack Henderson hit Greg Bauer with an 11-yard touchdown pass and Stan Woodfill kicked a 32-yard field goal.

The Bruins scored three touchdowns in the third quarter to put the game out of Oregon's reach.

Sciarra's 22-yard scoring run came three minutes into the half. The Bruins scored again five minutes later on a three-yard run by Kenny Lee after Oregon's George Bennett fumbled on his own 37.

Sciarra sprinted 34 yards to set up his third touchdown, a seven-yard keeper.

A UCLA fumble on the Bruins' 38 set up Oregon's final score in the third quarter. Bennett, who was Oregon's top rusher with 65 yards in 12 carries, pushed over from the two.

Oregon's Reggie Grant was tackled in his end zone to give UCLA a 43-17 lead, and reserve back Jim Brown's second scoring run finished the scoring midway through the final quarter.

The Bruins passed only once, an incomplete from Sciarra intended for Norm Andersen. UCLA bullied the Ducks for 479 yards on the ground with Tyler carrying 19 times for 125 yards and Ayers 19 times for 89 yards.

The Ducks couldn't move the ball in the first period. After a 40-yard punt, UCLA took over on Oregon's 41 yard line, and five plays later Sciarra ran 10 yards for the score.

Berry leads Kings to 3-1 victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Berry snapped a 1-1 deadlock and Mike Murphy added an insurance tally in the second period to lead the Los Angeles Kings to a 3-1 National Hockey League victory Saturday night over the New York Rangers.

It was the seventh consecutive victory at home for the Kings and extended the club's unbeaten string to seven in a row.

The Rangers' Phil Esposito, acquired from Boston in a blockbuster trade Thursday, suffered an ankle injury and had to be helped from the ice late in the second period.

He was taken to a nearby hospital for examination and Xrays.

The Kings grabbed a 1-0 lead at 4:57 of the first period on Frank St. Marseille's first goal of the season.

Roth leads Cal past Huskies

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP — Quarterback Joe Roth threw four touchdown passes and accumulated a record-breaking 380 yards Saturday against Washington, moving the 18th-ranked California Bears a step closer to the Rose Bowl.

"We're sure glad to get this one. Washington is one heck of a strong team. They fought us right down to the wire," said Coach Mike White whose team remained ahead in the close Pac-8 race.

Roth's almost perfect performance was marred only by a late interception which gave the Huskies a late scoring opportunity.

"I should never have thrown that ball, absolutely never," said a relieved Roth later. "I'll definitely know better than that next time."

Washington failed to capitalize on the interception, however. On fourth down at the Cal 24-yard line, the Huskies tried a pass, which was broken up, instead of going for a field goal.

"Our kicker's range has been from about the 20. It was a must-win game for us. A tie wouldn't have done us any good," explained Coach Don James.

The Bears also lost three fumbles and were often penalized, including once for having 12 men on the field, to sustain the game's suspense.

Roth's fourth touchdown pass, a three-yard toss to Chuck Muncie, gave Cal a 27-17 lead early in the final period but the Huskies drove 80 yards and scored on a pass from Chris Rowland to Greg Martin with seven minutes left.

Roth hit Wesley Walker in the end zone on an 11-yard first quarter pass and later threw touchdown passes of 23 and 22 yards to Steve Rivera, who had 10 receptions for 183 yards in the game.

The Cal quarterback broke a school one-game yardage record set two years ago by All-American Steve Bartkowski. The Bears' offense totaled 522 yards in the victory which made their conference record 51.

Touring Soviets dump Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Trailing 61-56 Saturday night, the Soviet national basketball team scored seven consecutive points to take a 63-61 lead and went on to defeat the University of Dayton 84-71.

Vladimir Shigili scored 20 points to lead the Soviets to their second victory in four games in their current 14-game tour against American collegiate teams.

Shaw at home in backup role

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Quarterback Dennis Shaw, the National Football League's top rookie in 1970, has not thrown a pass in the last two seasons.

Yet, even if the opportunity arose, Shaw of the St. Louis Cardinals said he'd turn down trading jobs with the quarterback of any other NFL club.

Shaw, the former local grid star at Pomona Catholic High and Mt. San Antonio College, is hardly used to sitting on the bench, but the Claremont resident has no complaints.

"I've been kind of lucky," explained Shaw, 28, a quarterback for the Buffalo Bills until dealt in 1974 to St. Louis and subsequently reunited with his college coach, Don Coryell.

"I enjoyed playing for him in college," said Shaw, who in 1969 under Coryell's tutelage threw a record 39 touchdown passes for San Diego State.

"I was recruited by Don Coryell, so I had my choice then," he recalled. "When I came here I thought it was a good opportunity. I understood why Don chose me for the spot."

The 6-foot-2 Shaw, the backup for the Cards' Jim Hart, saw action in only two games during the 1974 season and did not throw a pass.

This year his pre-season completion rate was a glittering 70 per cent. But he has yet to play during the regular season with St. Louis off to a 5-2 start.

"I do everything but play," Shaw noted. "I have to get myself geared up like anybody that's going to start.

"My part is to get all the feedback from the linemen and the coaches," said Shaw, who is on his feet through every game to relay his observations and those of others to Hart.

"Jimmy has to be on the headphones, and he doesn't have the camaraderie with the players," he said. "I go around and talk to them, and then we put the pieces of the puzzle together.

"Jimmy got shaken up in the Philadelphia game," said Shaw. That was his closest approach to game action. "Jim and I are just like good brothers," he said. "Luckily, our team has risen with his success."

Following his career at San Diego State, Shaw came to Buffalo in 1970 and passed for 2,507 yards, his best pro season.

"In four years there I played for three coaches," he mused, recalling his stay with the Bills. "I was in the right spot at the right time. My credentials coming from college were as a passing quarterback."

Shaw's long range ambitions are fixed on becoming a coach. He says he has adapted to his backup role primarily because the qualities of the soft-spoken and sincere Coryell.

"It's his father image type of thing," Shaw suggested. "You have to be around the man for just a week. I don't think there's a player on the team who ever wants to be traded.

"He (Coryell) loves everybody he coaches," Shaw contended. "Next year there's a chance for two expansion teams. I hope they don't throw my name in the bag, because this is where I want to stay."

Lakers fall to Warriors

OAKLAND (AP) — Rookie Gus Williams scored 11 points in the final seven minutes to lead the Golden State Warriors to a 114-106 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers in a National Basketball Association game Saturday night.

The Lakers, who trailed by 15 points in the first half, tied the game 98-98 on a basket by Kareem Abdul Jabbar with 5:20 to play.

Jamaal Wilkes put the Warriors ahead with a basket, and Williams then scored six consecutive points to make it 106-98 with 3:14 to play.

The Warriors then scored six more points before the Lakers could score again. Rick Barry scored four of those points, and Williams got the other two.

'Hen booters win again

The win gives the Sagehens an 11-0 conference record and sets the stage for Monday's season finale at Claremont-Mudd. The 'Hens will go into the district playoffs seeded third unless Claremont-Mudd wins and wins by more than a one-goal margin.

Aztecs fall to Arizona

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Quarterback Bruce Hill passed for 159 yards and three touchdowns Saturday night to lead 15th-ranked Arizona to a wild 31-24 victory over 12th-ranked San Diego State.

The victory before a Aztec record crowd of 53,611 at San Diego Stadium improved the Wildcats' record to 7-1 while San Diego State suffered its first loss in nine outings this season.

With both teams finding yardage hard to come by on the ground, a total of 62 passes were thrown. Aztec quarterback Craig Penrose completed 25 of 43 for 308 yards and two touchdowns but the Wildcat secondary held twice deep in its own territory in the closing minutes to clinch the victory.

The Aztecs struck first marching 66 yards with the opening kickoff and taking a 7-0 lead on an 11-yard scoring pass from Penrose to Vollon Dixon.

San Diego extended its lead to 17-7 midway in the second period on a school record 53yard field goal by Steve LaPlant and an eight-yard sweep around end by halfback Monty Reedy.

But Arizona struck back quickly as quarterback Hill led the Wildcats to two touchdowns in less than two minutes for a 21-17 advantage at halftime.

Hill, who passed for six yards to split end T. Bell for Arizona's first-quarter score, hit Scott Piper for a 10-yard touchdown with 1:25 remaining in the half.

San Diego regained the lead in the third period at 24-21 when Penrose directed the Aztecs on a 67-yard march capped with his five-yard scoring pass to Dixon.

Hill brought the Wildcats right back again with a 59-yard drive of his own, however, and halfback Derral Davis' five-yard sweep made it 28-24 Wildcats going into the final quarter.

Hockey's big deal hits snag

NEW YORK (AP) — Defenseman Carol Vadnais, traded by the Boston Bruins to the New York Rangers in a major National Hockey League deal Friday, did not immediately join his new club and returned instead to Boston Saturday.

"There are contractual technicalities that he must work out with the Bruins," said Emile Francis, general manager of the Rangers.

Francis said he had talked to Vadnais Friday following announcement of the deal in which the Rangers acquired the defenseman and high-scoring center Phil Esposito in exchange for center Jean Ratelle and defensemen Brad Park and Joe Zanussi.

"He said he had to discuss the matter with his attorney and that his attorney would be talking with the Bruins," Francis said.

Vadnais missed Friday night's 7-5 Rangers loss in California, a game in which Esposito scored two goals and assisted on another for New York. The Rangers played Saturday night in Los Angeles.

An additional complication was the health of Vadnais' wife. She was reportedly ailing and was scheduled to be admitted to a hospital Monday or Tuesday.

Asked if a no-trade clause in the contract might be the problem with Vadnais, Francis said that such clauses would violate the NHL constitution and bylaws.

College grid roundup

Sooner win streak ends

By Associated Press

Oklahama's awesome Sooners found out Saturday that in college football, all good things must come to an end. If they don't believe it, all they have to do is ask Penn State, or Southern California.

The Sooners, ranked No. 2 in The Associated Press poll, turned the ball over to Kansas six times in the second half on three interceptions and three lost fumbles and bowed to the fired-up Jayhawks 23-3. It was Oklahoma's first loss since October 1972 and ended a 37-game unbeaten streak for the Sooners.

Meanwhile, Penn State, ranked No. 8, had a good thing going against North Carolina State, rushing to an early 14-0 lead. But the Wolfpack bounced off the deck and Jay Sherrill's 24-yard field goal gave State a 15-14 decision over the Nittany Lions. And No. 9 Southern Cal bowed to Stanford 13-10 on Mike Langford's field goal in the final seconds.

And, Georgia scored an 80-yard touchdown on a pass from tight end Richard Appleby to wide receiver Gene Washington with less than four minutes remaining to overhaul No. 11 Florida 10-7.

Other top teams avoided upsets that could disturb their standing in the rankings.

No. 1 Ohio State battered Illinois 40-3 with Archie Griffin churning out 127 yards—the 30th consecutive game in which he has gained more than 100 yards along the ground.

Nebraska, ranked No. 3, shut out Kansas State 12-0. Texas A&M, No. 4, battered Southern Methodist 36-3. Sixth-ranked Michigan took Purdue 28-0. Texas, No. 7, got 133 yards and two TDs from Earl Campbell to whip Baylor 37-21.

But all of the other games had to take a back seat to Kansas' shocker over Oklahoma.

The game began to turn when Eddie Lewis blocked a punt by Tinker Owens with 85 seconds left in the first half. Mark Boyer recovered for Kansas and moments later quarterback Nolan Cromwell's six-yard TD run gave Kansas a 7-3 lead at the half.

In the third period, Oklahoma fumbled the ball away on three straight possessions and Kansas turned two of the miscues into scores—Bob Swift's 32-yard field goal and Smith's 21-yard TD on a fourth-and-one play.

Smith added another TD in the fourth quarter on an 18-yard run as the Jayhawks nailed down the victory and held Oklahoma without a TD for the first time in 99 games since 1966.

The victory thrust Stanford into the Rose Bowl race and all but eliminated Coach John McKay's Trojans, who lost their second straight game since McKay's announcement that he would be leaving the school to coach Tampa's new National Football League team next season.

Southern Cal is now 4-2 in the conference and 7-2 for the season. Stanford is 6-3-1 overall but 4-1 in the Pac-8 and could visit Pasadena on New Year's Day with victories over Oregon and California.

After Penn State's early lead, NC State came back on a pair of short touchdown runs by Ted Brown. But Sherrill's extra point was wide on the first one and a two-point conversion try failed on the second.

So the Nittany Lions still led 14-12 until Sherrill connected with the winning field goal. Penn State tried to come back and advanced to the Wolfpack 29 with 13 seconds remaining. But Chris Bahr's 46-yard field goal try was short.

Griffin pushed his career mark to over 5,000 yards for Ohio State and running mate Pete Johnson scored a pair of Buckeye TDs, giving him a Big Ten record 21 for his career. Tom Skladany kicked a pair of field goals including one that trabeled 59 yards, setting still another conference record.

Nebraska's only TD against K-State came on Vince Ferragamo's eight-yard pass to Tony Davis, capping a 16-play, 79-yard drive after the opening kickoff the Cornhuskers later added a pair of field goals by Mike Coyle, one of 24 yards and the other 22.

Freshman Tony Franklin, who kicks barefoot, connected for field goals of 50, 35 and 27 yards as Texas A&M wiped out SMU. Skip Walker caught an 84-yard TD pass from David Shipman and linebacker Ed Simonini contributed another Aggie score, racing 48 yards with a recovered fumble.

Gordon Bell ran for two TDs and Jim Smith caught five passes for 184 yards including an 83-yard scoring pitch from Rick Leach as Michigan blanked Purdue.

Texas' Campbell brothers destroyed Baylor. Tom Campbell recovered two fumbles setting up Longhorn TDs, the first one scored by his brother, Earl, who pushed his totals to the year to 1,037 yards and 12 TDs.

Jerome Havens ran for 148 yards and a pair of touchdowns as 12th ranked Notre Dame whipped Georgia Tech 24-3. Three TDs by Jamie Franklin helped No. 16 Maryland beat Cincinnati 21-19. Sherman Smith's four touchdowns led No. 17 Miami of Ohio to a 44-21 romp over winless Western Michigan and No. 18 California defeated Washington 27-24 to strengthen its Rose Bowl hopes.

Houston coach is no 'bummer'

HOUSTON (AP) — When Oail Andrew "Bum" Phillips walks down the sidelines wearing his western cut suit and powder blue cowboy boots, he could easily be mistaken for a guy who missed the last pickup truck back to the ranch after a Saturday night in town.

But take another look.

Underneath that country boy exterior—complete with Texas twang and a wad of chewing tobacco swelling one jaw—lies the mastermind of the Houston Oilers' three-man front defense that has been the backbone of the Oilers en route to their 6-1 National Football League record.

Furthermore, this galoot is the head coach and general manager of the surprising Oilers, who are shamelessly battling unbeaten Cincinnati and defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh for the American Conference's Central Division lead.

While Gillman whipped the Oilers back to a 7-7 record last season with tongue lashings and computer read-outs, Phillips gets the job done with man-to-man communication and country wisdom.

"You can lead me a lot farther than you can drive me, so I figure the players are the same way," Phillips said.

Phillips, who started his career in coaching as a B team coach at Nederland High School also offers contrasting opinions of many football proverbs.

"Winning football games is important but I don't think it's the only thing," Phillips said. "There's a lot more in the world a helluva lot more important."

Phillips also shuns training camp scrimmages, long workouts during regular season and doesn't time players' sprints after they're signed.

"We almost cut C.L. Whittington from our squad last year because he wasn't as fast as some of the others," Phillips said of his cornerback and specialty teams standout. "But in a game, he outruns those guys who beat him in practice."

Marcis wins pole

Marcis wheeled his Dodge around the 1.522-mile Atlanta International Raceway oval at 160.662 miles per hour, despite "a mistake" that he thought had ruined his chances. Pearson was bumped to an outside front row starting spot in the $130,000 race with his speed of 160.164 m.p.h. in a Mercury.

Occupants of the second row in the 36-car field will be Buddy Baker in a Ford at 159.117 m.p.h. and Richard Petty in a Dodge at 159.071 m.p.h.

"I honestly didn't think I had made it," Marcia explained. "Usually the people will wave and signal if you make it. But I didn't see anything like that.

"I thought, 'doggone it, I messed up.'

"On the run I knew if I went too deep into the corner before I let up, I'd get loose coming out. I was worrying about that, and I let up too early.

"On the second lap I was going to make it all up right out there in the third turn. So I drove that thing down in there as hard as I could, and she took off. I got her straightened out. But I thought I was finished.

"I figured I done the best I could, and that's it."

Marcis said some changes would be made in the car before the start of the race, because "right now the car is set up to qualify, not to race. But if we change a few things around, we should be ready to give David and everybody else a good race."

NBA's O'Brien worried about crowd control

CHICAGO (AP) — "Crowd and game control are very sensitive areas—and the potential for violence is so great we all have a responsibility not to let it happen," says Larry O'Brien, commissioner of the National Basketball Association.

O'Brien, in a Chicago visit Friday, said he made a conference call to all 18 NBA coaches Thursday and outlined a new system of handling complaints about referees. At the same time, he said, he ordered the coaches to cut down on public screams of rage about referees.

The new system will consist of an NBA officials review board designed to handle complaints about referees. The board reportedly will be made up of one coach, one general manager and John Nucatola, NBA supervisor of officials.

The board will check the facts via a conference phone hookup with those involved when disputes arise and decide if the complaints are justified. It will turn over its findings to the commissioner for action.

O'Brien said he favors three-man referee crews, and an experiment using them would have been approved this season "if we had the money."

He said, "Our legal fees are horrendous," and outlined the maze of litigation involving the Oscar Robertson suit brought by the NBA Players' Association to block merger with the American Basketball Association.

Asserting that an injunction prevents serious merger negotiations now, O'Brien said, "On advice of counsel, I can't even talk about it with Dave DeBusschere (ABA commissioner) over coffee...I told the ABA if they could resolve the legal block, we would discuss the situation.

"That basically is what I will tell the owners at our meeting Monday in New York," O'Brien added. "There's no sense of urgency for merger in the NBA, but we would review the ABA situation team by team if we could. Congress will have to act eventually to re-define its attitude toward all pro sports. The rule of reason must apply, balancing the competitive side with anti-trust factors."

Sagehens belted by Redlands

REDLANDS — Quarterback Steve Vento passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more to lead his Redlands Bulldogs past the Pomona-Pitzer Sagehens, 52-0, here Saturday night.

Vento's 13-yard run for a touchdown represented the only score of the first quarter, but Redlands blew the visiting Sagehens out of the game with 31 second-quarter points.

Roy Chien and Brian DeRoo each caught a touchdown toss in that outburst and Vento broke for a 48-yard TD scamper. Tailback Kelly Yank scored Redland's fourth six-pointer of the period on a 25-yard run, and finished the game with 15 carries for 95 yards.

CLEARING THE ROAD — La Verne fullback Curtis Frick (34) leads the way for halfback Roy VanderKallen during Leos' easy 41-19 win over visiting Whittier Saturday afternoon.

Poet defense beats Stags

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Correspondent

Whittier College's aggressive defense accounted for the first nine points and then clamped the lid on Claremont-Mudd's offense to hand the Stags a 19-7 defeat Saturday afternoon at Parents' Field.

With just four minutes gone in the game, Whittier defensive tackle grabbed a pass thrown by Stag quarterback Joe Watts, who was hit as he unloaded the ball, and rumbled 24 yards for a touchdown.

Then less than three minutes into the second quarter, Poet defensive end Bill Dober wrestled down freshman quarterback Carl Bostick in the Stag end zone for a safety and Whittier found itself ahead 9-0 without even crossing midfield offensively.

Following Keith Cunningham's free kick after the safety, the Poet offense finally got on the board. Whittier covered the 43 yards to the end zone in seven plays, with a four-yard pass from Jim Macdonald to Harry Dolen accounting for the touchdown. Dolen made a fine diving catch of a ball that slipped through the hands of C-M free safety Jon Begerow with 9:32 left in the half.

Poet placekicker Wayne Manzo added a 26-yard field goal on Whittier's next possession and the visitors owned a 19-0 lead with 4:30 left in the half.

Meanwhile, the Poet defense took all the punch out of the Stag attack. C-M netted just two yards in the first half, with nine through the air and minus seven yards on 17 rushes.

The two squads battled through 29 minutes and 50 seconds of scoreless football in the second half before Bostick connected with receiver Bill Nelson, another Stag freshman, for a 14-yard touchdown with 10 seconds left in the contest.

Bostick put on the only offensive display of the day for the Stags in that scoring drive, completing four straight passes for gains of nine, 29, eight and 14 yards, with Nelson on the other end of three of the completions.

The C-M crew finished the game with 130 offensive yards, 105 of them on passing plays, while Whittier gained 201 yards. Poet running backs Terry Howse and Ron Chappell, replacing injured starters Dan Chikami and Lionel Punchard, rushed for 89 and 68 yards, respectively, to pace Whittier's attack.

The loss leaves the Stags with a 1-2 conference record, and with just two games left, virtually eliminates them from SCIAC title contention. Whittier is now 2-1 in conference play.

C-M will visit cross-campus rival Pomona-Pitzer State Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Leos bowl over Oxy

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

Homecoming looked more like the Hula Bowl at La Verne College Saturday afternoon.

With 25 or 30 Hawaiians enrolled, a number of flower leis were flown in for the event and distributed to the faculty and coaching staff.

The Leopards kept the festive atmosphere alive by dancing to a 41-19 win over visiting Occidental. That makes the Leos 2-0-1 in the conference and 4-3-1 overall. They play at Whittier Sat., (7:30 p.m.). The Poets are 2-1 and 3-4.

La Verne dented the conference's best defense for 300 yards Saturday, about 36 above the Tigers' average yield. The Leos came up with their best defensive effort statistically by holding Oxy to a net 277 yards, most of it passing.

"Our defense shut off their running game almost completely," said defensive coach Ben Hines. "Grant Seiler and John Rome, our defensive tackles, shut off their off-tackle play while Dana Lanier, our middle linebacker was outstanding at plugging up the dive hole."

Rome was credited with 13 tackles and Seiler 12. The Leopards' defense sacked Oxy quarterback Tom Hamilton six times. The Tigers netted only 26 yards rushing in the entire game. Hamilton, under a heavy rush most of the afternoon, completed 18 of 34 passes for 223 yards and two touchdowns. But he was intercepted five times.

Newson set up the first touchdown of the game when he intercepted a Hamilton pass at the La Verne 46 and returned it to Oxy 33. It took the Leopards just two plays to score.

Roy VanderKallen gained 10 yards to the 23. Curtis Frick went the rest of the way in one bulldozing smash through Tiger defenders.

Oxy came right back and marched 74 yards in 12 plays with Hamilton passing to sophomore wide receiver Rick Fry for the score. But Frank Martin's kick was wide and the Leos held a 7-6 lead.

That was as close as Oxy came. Most of the time the ball was in Occidental territory. The only other time they got beyond their own 30 in the first half was a 70-yard drive to score their second touchdown with 1:45 left in the half after La Verne had built up a 27-6 advantage.

Randy Brown drove the Leos 65 yards in six plays plus a pass interference penalty on Oxy for the second Leopard score. The penalty moved the ball from the La Verne 40 to the Occidental 47.

VanderKallen ran for five yards and then Brown passed 29 yards to Randy Jackson for a first down at the 13. Then it was VanderKallen and Frick again. First Randy for four and then Frick pile-driving the last nine.

A short punt set up the third Leo score. Brown took them 48 yards in nine plays passing to Ted Pedvin, nine yards for the TD. Pedvin also scored the next touchdown, this time on an 11-yard pass from Brown.

Mario Torres missed his only conversion attempt and it was 27-6 and the game was really over for Oxy although they scored twice more. But so did the Leos.

"That's the best offense I've seen La Verne have," said Oxy coach Hal Lefler. We have been the best defensive team, but we didn't put it together today. You have to give La Verne credit."

Brown had his best day. The senior quarterback connected on seven of 12 passes for 86 yards and three touchdowns with no interceptions. Pedvin's touchdown receptions were his first scores of the year.

VanderKallen continued his fine work with an even 100 yards on 15 carries plus two pass receptions for 30 yards and one TD.

Nobiliary nabs International

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — The 24th Washington D.C. International, won Saturday by Nobiliary of France, was marked by some incidents as strange as the 80-degree November weather.

Then Nobiliary, a 3-year-old Kentucky-bred filly, turned in an exciting front-running victory in the $150,000 race and threw in some extra thrills by breaking loose from her groom and running away after the awards presentation, attended by U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and his wife.

Nobiliary was caught quickly and was not hurt.

Just for good measure, JeanClaude Desaint, who rode Comtesse de Loir, claimed foul against Canadian jockey Sandy Hawley and Nobiliary. The stewards wasted little time in rejecting the claim.

"Warming up after she finished galloping, when I turned her around and she stepped on herself and pulled off a shoe," said Desaint.

"Actually, I think it helped her (Nobiliary)," Hawley said of the delay while Comtesse de Loir's shoe was replaced. "She was a little upset and she cooled out while she was being walked around."

Nobiliary certainly was cool under pressure, holding Shady Character of the United States at bay for the first 1¼ miles, then withstanding Comtesse de Loir's closing rush for a three-quarter length victory in the time of 2:311-5 for 1½ miles on the grass.

"On the turn for home, the winner came out and I couldn't make my move and didn't know where to go," said Desaint. "The same thing happened right before the finish, when Nobiliary came out, and that cost me the race."

The stewards disagreed. Comtesse de Loir finished three lengths ahead of On My Way II as France scored a 1-2-3 sweep. It was France's eighth International victory and third straight.

Shady Character, owned by Dinny Phipps, faded to fourth, two lengths back of On My Way II. The 11th and last U.S. winner of this race was Droll Role in 1972.

Nelson Bunker Hunt, the Texas oilman and international sportsman who owns Nobiliary, said she would winter in Florida and probably race there. He said she might return to Europe in the spring, adding he did not know what the plans were for Nobiliary's more famous stablemate, Dahlia, the 1973 International winner who was eighth Saturday.

Nobiliary, an entry with Dahlia, paid $7, $4.20 and $3.20. Comtesse de Loir, owned by America's George Ohrstrom, returned $5.20 and $4.20, while On My Way II, owned by Xavier Beau, paid $7.40 to backers in the crowd of 26,114.

Completing the order of finish after Shady Character were Star Appeal of Germany, the Prix de L'Arc de Triomphe winner; Snow Knight of the United States; Laomedonte of Italy; Dahlia, and Tsukisamu Homare of Japan.

Connors in finals

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Jimmy Connors and Adriano Panatta each scored straight set victories Saturday and reached the final of the $100,000 Stockholm Open Tennis Tournament for the first time.

The second-seeded Connors, trying to become the sixth straight American to win the title, took the first set easily in his semifinal against Bjorn Borg of Sweden, but then had to struggle to beat the 19-year-old hometown favorite 6-2, 7-6.

Rams try to beat 49ers . . . again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams haven't lost in their past 10 meetings with the San Francisco 49ers and number 11 shouldn't be too difficult.

Favored by 11 points, the Rams go into the game at their Memorial Coliseum today with a 6-1 record at the halfway point in the National Football League race.

The 49ers are 2-5, the same as the other clubs in the NFC West—New Orleans and Atlanta. And in the luck of the draw, New Orleans faces the 52 Oakland Raiders while Atlanta draws the only undefeated team in the NFC, the Vikings of Minnesota.

San Francisco will start Steve Spurrier at quarterback in place of the veteran Norm Snead against a club whose defense is rated No. 1in the NFL.

"We won't change our thinking on defense even though Spurrier can scramble better than Snead," said Rams' Coach Chuck Knox.

He also will go all out and not rest any bruised veterans even while holding a four-game divisional lead.

"We are playing against a team that is a lot better than the record indicates," said Knox. "We will play our regulars. We never play a player unless he is physically able. But we'll play this game to win. Any of our starters, if healthy, is going to start the game and he's going to play."

Defensive end Jack Youngblood might be a player in issue. He suffered a knee injury against Philadelphia on Monday. Yet after six days, he's expected to start against San Francisco.

Spurrier will be going against the top defense in the pro league. Knox explained, "We've been playing team defense all the way. We've faced a lot of different fronts and coverages, but our defense is tied together.

"We have the secondary shutting off the receivers and a good rush against the passer," Knox declared.

But they'll have to stop an attack in which the 49ers have Del Williams who rushed for 72 yards in eight tries as his club fell to Detroit 28-17 last week after leading 17-3.

Gene Washington is a prime target for Spurrier and has caught 24 passes for 339 yards so far.

If the Rams beat San Francisco, the record goes to seven.

And if the Rams win, as expected, and New Orleans loses to Oakland the atlanta to Minnesota, as expected, the Rams will lead their division by five games.

The La Verne Bicentennial Committee has come up with a catchy name for its next golf tournament, the first annual Liberty Bell event. Proceeds will go towards La Verne's liberty bell, hence the unique name.

The bell is being purchased by La Verne citizens through donations and events.

Anyway, the tournament is scheduled for San Dimas Canyon from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Entry fee of $14 includes green fees, cart, a free drink, one dinner. Dinner alone is $4. Green fees and cart, no dinner, is $10.

NFL roundup

'Billy White Shoes' wowing 'em for Houston Oilers

By HAL BOCK
By The Associated Press

The National Football League's 1974 college draft had reached its yawning stages— the 15th of 17 rounds—when the Houston Oilers selected Billy Johnson, a wide receiver from Widener.

It's easy to get lost in the crowd when you've been drafted that low and from a school not exactly known for exporting professional football players. So, Johnson laced on a pair of white shoes to make sure people would see him, and went about the task of carving himself a place in the NFL.

As a rookie, he caught 29 passes for 388 yards and was one of the league's most exciting kick returners, running back 59 punts and kickoffs for almost 1,200 yards. He netted 1,664 yards for the 93 plays in which he was involved, an average of 17.9 yards every time he touched the football.

"Billy White Shoes" is at it again this season. In seven games, he's netted 900 yards, including a league-leading average of 31.4 for 11 kickoff returns. He's second in punt returns, averaging 15.1 yards per punt. And he's also caught 22 passes for 249 yards.

Johnson's play is one of the major reasons the Oilers are in a three-way tie for the American Football Conference's Central Division lead with Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

Part of that deadlock should evaporate today when Houston plays the Steelers in Pittsburgh while Cincinnati visits Denver.

In the rest of today's schedule, Minnesota, owner of the NFL's only perfect record, hosts Atlanta, San Francisco plays at Los Angeles, Washington meets the Giants in New York, the New York Jets are at Miami, Baltimore visits Buffalo, New Orleans plays at Oakland, St. Louis meets the Eagles in Philadelphia, Cleveland is at Detroit, San Diego entertains New England and Green Bay is at Chicago.

Kansas City plays at Dallas in Monday night's nationally televised game as the NFL starts the second half of its 14-week season.

Pittsburgh's defending Super Bowl champions carry a five-game winning streak into their AFC Central showdown against Houston. The Steelers created the three-way tie at the top by whipping previously unbeaten Cincinnati last week, while Houston, off to its best start in the club's 16-year history, kayoed Kansas City.

The Bengals try to bounce back this week against Denver. Quarterback Ken Anderson, shaken up early, came back to throw three touchdown passes against the Steelers, increasing his total for the season to 12. His 110 completions lead all AFC passers.

Minnesota goes for its eighth straight victory, this time against Atlanta. Quarterback Fran Tarkenton completed 24 of 30 passes for 285 yards against Green Bay last week and is closing in on Johnny Unitas' career records for completions and touchdowns. He is 49 completions and 10 TDs short of Unitas' marks.

Los Angeles holds a four-game lead in the National Football Conference West. The Rams have won six straight, including last Monday night's runaway against Philadelphia. Los Angeles' Lawrence McCutcheon leads all NFC rushers with 545 yards. The 49ers plan to give Steve Spurrier the start at quarterback, benching veteran Norm Snead.

Another six-game winning streak belongs to Miami, sitting atop the AFC East, one game ahead of Buffalo. The Dolphins enjoy a pleasant schedule that has them home for five of the final seven games, the first one against the Jets. New York has lost four straight, including a 43-0 romp by Miami in their first meeting.

The Jets also kept Buffalo in business, losing to the Bills last Sunday after a controversial decision to go for a first down on fourth and one instead of trying a field goal at the Bills' 20 late in the fourth quarter. Buffalo, thankful for the favor, faces improving Baltimore this week with O.J. Simpson's 1,005 rushing yards merely 436 more than the AFC's No. 2 man, Mercury Morris of Miami.

'Biofeedback' key to sports excellence?

NEW YORK (AP) — If an Oriental master of the martial arts can crush a 100-pound block of ice with his forehead— and seldom miss—why can't a field-goal kicker like Garo Yepremian connect regularly from the 50-yard line?

Is there some limit on Bob Seagren's physical potential that keeps him from clearing 20 feet in the pole vault, or is it just that Seagren doesn't think he can clear 20 feet?

If Olympic gold medalist Klaus DiBiasi can execute a dive perfectly in practice—and know why it was perfect—what makes him muff it in competition?

Richard Nideffer began wondering about questions like these when, fresh out of high school, he joined the Army for a tour of duty in Japan, where he could see the intense concentration in the faces of the martial arts experts.

He returned to the States in 1962 after three years in the Army Security Agency, stationed near Sapporo, earned a Ph.D. in psychology in 1971 from Vanderbilt, and set about the task of determining how professional and amateur athletes could make the most of their talents.

"The control the masters had...they seemed to be able to not only regulate themselves physically but also had great mental control," said Nideffer, now director of the University of Rochester's biofeedback laboratory.

"There were a lot of things I couldn't understand, like their concentration. When I came back to the States, I began relating that experience to things I was learning about psychology."

What he's confirmed in five years of research is that getting "psyched up," increasing the adrenalin flow, is not as important as focusing concentration properly and knowing when to relax, he says. And toward that end, he's developed a program of treatment and counseling for athletes.

"The Oriental masters didn't become angry before they broke a board or brick.

"In the martial arts, when you see one man fighting six, if he becomes anxious, locks (his concentration) onto himself or onto one other person, he'll be attacked by the other five.

"But if his anxiety level is down, he can shift, hear sounds to his left, right and behind him. He needs a broad focus at that point. At the point of attack, he needs to narrow his focus, then shift back instantly to a broader focus," says Nideffer.

Nideffer says he has found that an increase of adrenalin, anxiety or nervousness restricts concentration. "A football player might, theoretically, find increased strength, but then the adrenalin flow remains high and narrows his focus. He can't shift, can't adapt to the game."

Nideffer—who has treated pro football players, bowlers, golfers, world class swimmers, divers, weightlifters, and athletes at Rochester—says when he diagnoses an athlete's anxiety, "I might try biofeedback, meditation or hypnosis.

"But first, the athlete must learn to control his anxieties in normal situations...I define the situations that make him anxious...then go through them in detail—go through them visually until he ceases to become anxious."

N.L. — No load (sales charge)

'Imponderables' cloud horizon

NEW YORK (AP) — The consensus economic forecast is a bit late in taking shape this year. Too many economists, it seems, fear that the limb upon which they sit might snap and deposit them on the ground.

Many a forecaster has found himself attempting to advise clients from the embarrasing posture over the past three years. The over-all record has not been good, and both seller and buyer of forecasts are acutely aware of it.

As a result, forecasters this year are striving to make clear that "imponderables" cloud the horizon, and that, moreover, they really shouldn't be blamed if consumers or government officials act in bonehead ways.

If everyone acts according to the book, they are saying, the U.S. economy should expand by about 5 to 7 per cent, and maybe even more. They are convinced it will be a better year than 1975.

Nevertheless, economists are troubled, as this sampling more than suggests.

—Albert T. Sommers, chief economist, The Conference Board, a non-profit research organization:

"There is certainly no reason any longer to question the present state of the U.S. business cycle." It is upward, says Sommers, but not without its problems.

"The 'feel' of this expansion is thus far not as stimulative or comforting as would be associated with a broad resurgence across the whole front of activity.

"Moreover, very recent information carries the suggestion that the expansion is not accelerating even in the areas that are participating in it."

—Pierre Rinfret, of Rinfret Boston Associates, consultants:

"There is a pall hanging over the country. It is the pall of doubt, the pall of uncertainty. The optimists are optimists, with hedges. The administration is convinced the recession is past, the economy is expanding.

"However, the chief economic spokesman for the administration is sure the country is moving forward but he is not certain it will last. The word missing most noticeably from business terminology, from the economic lexicon, from the volcabulary of the financial journalists, is 'boom.'"

Rinfret believes "trepidation" may be the word best describing the business attitude. There are, he says, fears of renewed and intensified inflation, higher interest rates, the possibility of an aborted recovery and widespread bankruptcies.

"Never have we seen people so worried about an economic expansion. It used to be that the end of a recession was greeted with relief and a smile of anticipation of what was to come.

"Now the end of the recession is greeted with relief and fear. Relief because the recession is over. Fear of what economic expansion will bring as side effects."

"Next year should shape up as a very good year for the economy. Business volume and employment should be rising fairly steadily and at a brisk pace through most of the year.

"The inflationary trend will be fairly mild, at least relative to what we experienced in 1973 and 1974. In fact, I think that a year from now we will all be telling each other how well things turned out."

However, Hagerdorn says he is fearful the country might be in a long term trend in which, because of poor economic policy techniques, recoveries are accompanied by inflation and then by renewed economic decline.

"It is hard to see any program emerging for reversing this underlying trend. Am I a pessimist, or an optimist? I don't know; you tell me."

—A. George Gols, vice president and economist, Arthur D. Little, Inc., consultants:

"If all goes well, as we hope it will, the recovery's thrust will continue. But it might be more prudent to refrain from being overly optimistic."

Business briefs

NEW YORK (AP) — The government reported this week that wholesale prices in October jumped faster than they have in a year, prompting concern among administration economists over the lingering presence of inflation.

"The key question is how this type of price behavior compares with that following previous recessions," said Michael Moskow, director of the government's Council on Wage and Price Stability.

"In other words, are firms behaving differently now than you'd normally expect them to behave during a post-recession economic upturn?"

Prices in all sectors of the economy, but particularly those on new model cars, lumber and textile products, pushed the wholesale price index up 1.8 per cent — an annual rate of 21.6 per cent.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the news caused "some feeling of concern" among the President's top economic advisers, but said they want to "see evidence over a somewhat longer period of time" before making any new conclusions on the economy's direction.

The government also announced that the unemployment rate rose from 8.3 to 8.6 per cent in October, following a four-month decline.

But most of the rise was due to more people entering the labor force, apparently hoping that the business recovery would create new jobs, Labor Department officials said.

The unemployment rate is based on the size of the labor force, which is defined as those working or looking for work. Thus, while 230,000 more people were without jobs in October than in September, 250,000 more people had started looking for jobs.

"Although developments in the over-all employment situation between September and October appear to be mixed, on balance the evidence shows that the economic recovery ... continued in October," Julius Shiskin, commissioner of labor statistics, told a congressional committee.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, however, said, "No one can look at these figures with satisfaction. No one can pretend that the recession is over or that inflation is contained."

The week also brought news that automobile sales, one barometer of economic health, were 17 per cent higher in October than they were the same time a year ago.

Disney reports another record gain

BURBANK — Walt Disney Productions reported this week its eighth straight year of record revenues and net income.

Revenues for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 increased 21 per cent to $520,006,000 while net income increased 27.2 per cent to $61,741,000.

Donn B. Tatum, chairman of the board, also reported that for the fourth quarter ended Sept. 30 revenues increased 14.8 per cent to $172,908,000 while net income increased 18.9 per cent to $24,729,000.

Tatum noted that the leading contributor to the company's increased profitability was its worldwide motion picture and television distribution program.

"Film rentals, including television, increased 24.5 per cent to a total of $112,528,000. Domestic theatrical revenues were $61,224,000, up 26 per cent and foreign theatrical revenues were $37,584,000, up 25.8 per cent."

Attendance at Walt Disney World for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 totaled 12,515,000, an increase of 15.5 per cent over the prior year. In the fourth quarter, attendance increased 5.3 per cent to 3,885,000.

At Disneyland, attendance for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 increased 3.8 per cent to 10,062,000 and during the fourth quarter attendance totaled 3,953,000, 2.4 per cent ahead of the previous year.

On July 7 the company fully paid off the balance of its bank debt, which had stood at $55 million at the beginning of the 1975 fiscal year.

"The company's financial condition is such that we do not anticipate the need for any new borrowings in the period ahead," Tatum said.

Provision for income taxes for the fiscal year is 46.7 per cent compared to 45.5 per cent in fiscal 1974.

MARKET MIXED — The Dow Jones industrial average closed at 835.80 Friday, down .24 from the week prior. The Associated Press average closed at 264.5, up .4 over the same period. The market turned mixed and sluggish under the inhibiting influence of uncertainty over the eventual outcome of New York City's financial struggles.

Weekly Wall Street

Time of uncertainty

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market milled around uncertainly this past week while investors tried to peer through the clouds surrounding New York City's financial outlook.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials finished almost exactly where it started — down a token .24 at 835.80 — and the broader market measures eked out modest gains.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, for instance, edged up .29 to 89.33, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index rose .19 to 47.24.

Gainers outnumbered losers in the over-all count on the NYSE by 1,019 to 758 among the 2,022 issues traded.

Big Board volume averaged 14.98 million shares a day, compared with 14.85 million the week before.

There were several favorable developments in the week's economic news.

Interest rates continued their recent decline, which culminated Friday in the third prime rate reduction in as many weeks by New York's First National City Bank. The cut from 7½ to 7¼ per cent in the key rate on loans to top-credit businesses was expected to be matched soon by other banks.

Analysts found auguries of a further downtrend in rates in the Federal Reserve's weekly statistics, which showed a persistent lag in the nation's money supply.

The more sluggish the supply of cash and checking accounts in the economy, the logic went, the more the Fed could ease up on its credit policies and still adhere to its anti-inflation efforts.

Top government economists agreed that the pace of the economic recovery was slowing somewhat from the sharp jump in output recorded in the third quarter.

But they nevertheless were forecasting an annual growth rate of 7 per cent, after adjustment for inflation, over the next several quarters.

After a 10-point drop in the Dow on Monday, the market seemed to try to respond to that favorable picture. The average climbed 4 points Tuesday and another 6 Wednesday.

It faltered briefly Thursday morning after the Labor Department reported that its wholesale price index rose at its sharpest rate in a year last month.

But reports on a new effort by New York's Municipal Assistance Corp. to raise funds for New York City enabled it to finish that day with another 4-point gain.

By Friday, however, the market seemed to have lapsed back into a state of confusion and uncertainty over the outlook for the city and the potential effects its problems might have through the economy.

The big-name glamor stocks posted some substantial gains. IBM picked up 5¾ to 216¼; Philip Morris rose 1½ to 51⅝; Upjohn was up 2½ to 43½, and American Home Products added 1⅜ to 36⅛.

Phillips Petroleum fell 3 to 47⅞. The company said the Norwegian government's order for a North Sea oil production cutback "is going to cost us considerably."

Some hotel-motel issues gained in active trading, with brokers crediting the thesis that the industry might see a travel boom because of the bicentennial observation next year. Marriott was up 1¾ at 14⅝ and Howard Johnson rose ¼ to 14⅞.

DOG POWERED — Heidi Fisher and her pet chimp, Zonky, roll around New York's Central Park with the aid of her one-dogpower contraption, Pascha. It was a good day to try out the next thing in conserving energy.

Michigan car repair law first in nation

Carrying a "Doggie bag" home from a restaurant is common practice these days. Even if those morsels of steak or lobster aren't intended for the pet poodle, prudent people like to get their money's worth.

A form of the doggie bag will soon become common for motorists having their cars repaired in Michigan. Under that state's new "Motor Vehicle Service Repair Act," service facilities must, upon request, return any parts that have been replaced to the owner. In cases where the part is too large or otherwise impractical to return, then it must be made available for the car owner's inspection.

This provision of the Michigan act is among parts of the law intended to create an atmosphere of trust between the motorist and service industry. The first law of its type enacted in the U.S., the Michigan statute is becoming a model for legislation under consideration in several other states.

Provisions of the law include:

—Licensing of all automotive repair facilities in Michigan.

—That certification be obtained by at least one person in each repair service offered by the facility. Specialties to be included are engine repair, automatic transmission, manual transmission and rear axle, front end, brakes, electrical system, heating and air conditioning and engine tune-up. Noncertified mechanics may be employed but their work must be inspected and okayed by the certified mechanic.

(A man may supervise more than one specialty but he must have separate certification for each one he supervises.)

—Each customer must be given an estimate itemizing charges for parts and labor before the job is begun. Charges over that estimate may not be levied unless agreed to by the customer.

—Upon return of the repaired vehicle to the customer, he shall be given statement including what repairs were needed, both estimated and actual cost of the repairs and identification of any replacement parts needed, specifying whether they were new, used, rebuilt or reconditioned.

The statement must be signed by the facility owner or his designated representative and the name of persons performing diagnosis and repair must be listed.

Dramatize outfit

This fall's woman will choose her accessories well, to complete the total look or spice up her outfit.

Scarves and shawls make the most dramatic statement this season. Scarves wrap heads, become ascots, match skirts, hats, gloves. The fabrics: crochet knits, exotic crepes and silks, vibrant Oriental prints, men's fresh shirting fabrics.

Hats make headlines in brimmy felt fedoras, wool turbans, draped wool hoods. The classic beret goes everywhere, as do skinny stockingcaps fitted tight to the head. The coolie hat is an Oriental whimsey, the fur toque a luxury, the scarf hat omnipresent.

Jewelry is clean and uncluttered. Attention is on the neckline with simple strand necklaces, bold pendants, Oriental pendants, charm necklaces, and sculptured dangles. The bracelet is more often a simple tight-fitted cuff of silver, amber, cinnabar, leather or "marble."

Seoul orders death for 2 north spies

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The Seoul criminal court sentenced two men to death recently on charges of being North Korean espionage agents.

They were Park Bok-soon, 50, and Kim Duk-yong, 42, who the prosecution alleged slipped into South Korea on April 11. It said they were arrested within three weeks while operating in Pusan, South Korea's second largest city.

Car inspection system considered best

Starting with July 4, 1776, some pretty good ideas stemmed from the State of Pennsylvania.

While hardly as momentous as the Declaration of Independence, the Pennsylvania motor vehicle inspection law has been hailed by many traffic safety experts as the best in the nation.

Originally established in 1927 as a measure to check headlights, the Pennsylvania law was amended to include all safety components in 1929.

Since that time, the Keystone State has compiled one of the best safety records in the nation.

As one of the first of the 31 states that now have Periodic Motor Vehicle Inspection (PVMI) programs on their books, Pennsylvania's law is effective largely due to:

1. Inspections, conducted twice annually, are thorough and tough. With 19 items inspected, there is little chance a car with defects will escape notice.

2. Facilities inspecting cars are numerous enough that there is no need for any motorist to wait long for inspection. Some 15,000 inspection stations are in operation, conducting more than 12,000,000 examinations a year.

Also, stations are closely supervised, assuring that personnel conducting exams are qualified and equipment used is top quality.

In answer to critics from the 19 states without PMVI— who doubt compulsory inspection's value, Pennsylvania officials say "surveys prove a sharp decrease in fatalities and property damage in all states that have even token inspection programs over figures in states without such a program."

Pennsylvania inspectors also believe a vehicle periodically inspected gives better service, prevents major repair bills and earns higher trade-in or resale prices.

Removal of vehicles that are completely unsafe also is credited to the Pennsylvania program. In one year, 1966, some 200,000 junkers were taken off the road, largely due to the inspection program.

Pennsylvania will soon add emissions inspection to its safety program. In August, voluntary inspections were begun. By August 1976, emissions inspections are scheduled to become mandatory.

Tax break for small business?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee says a corporate income tax break for next year should go primarily to small businesses.

The committee approved Wednesday an extension of this year's tax cut — which benefited small firms predominantly — and rejected President Ford's proposal to cut the maximum corporate tax rate from 48 per cent to 46 per cent.

The committee also voted to increase — over a three-year period — the length of time assets such as stocks or real estate must be held before qualifying for long-term capital gains status under the tax law. The provision increases the current six-month rule to 12 months.

Generally, long-term treatment cuts the taxes due on profits from sales of assets in half; short-term treatment makes profits taxable as regular income.

This year's corporate tax reduction cut business taxes $1.5 billion for 1975. By voice vote, the committee decided to continue those temporary changes for 1976 and 1977. Congressional tax experts estimated the extension would cost the Treasury $1.9 billion for 1976 and $2.1 billion for 1977.

Ambulance chaser 'guilty'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The alleged mastermind of an ambulance-chasing ring has pleaded guilty to charges of stealing more than $100,000 from accident victims taken to County-USC Medical Center.

George Hatcher, 32, pleaded guilty Wednesday to seven counts of grand theft, conspiracy to commit grand theft and two other conspiracy counts involving illegal practice of law and illegal solicitation of legal business. Superior Court Judge Alfred Dibb set Jan. 9 for sentencing.

MARQUET WORK — Ina Penner looks over some examples of her marquetry, art works of inlaid wood, which are on exhibition this month at Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, Pomona. Mrs. Penner operates her own gallery, Marquetry Plus, in Pomona.

Marquetry on display

An exhibition of marquetry, art work in inlaid wood, by Ina Penner is on view this month in the Lobby Gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 399 N. Garey Ave., Pomona.

Mrs. Penner's pictures run the gamut from traditional still life to pastoral landscapes, from nature scenes to action-packed sporting events. The pictures exhibit the beauty of grain and rich color inherent in the wood itself — no dyes or tints are employed. The entire range of tonal value is nature's work, not the artist's.

Mrs. Penner is a graduate of Northwestern University with a liberal arts background.

Awards for her marquetry have been won by Mrs. Penner in several local competitions. Examples of her work are hung in private collections throughout the United States and in Spain. Mrs. Penner operates a year-round gallery of her own, Marquetry Plus, in Pomona.

Sculpture show now at Citrus

Three West Coast sculptors, Frank Arcuri, Leonard Heath and John Strauss, are having a three-man show at the Citrus College Art Gallery through Nov. 21.

Arcuri and Strauss have master of arts degrees in art from Cal State Los Angeles. Heath is professor of art there and holds ths B.F.A. and M.F.A. degrees and doctorate in higher education.

Heath is exhibiting a series of clay sculptures which represent commonplace objects such as a record player or a six-pack. His intent is to emphasize essential form and eliminate irrelevant detail to reveal its inherent aesthetic form.

Arcuri is exhibiting cast aluminum and carved stone sculptures. He uses anatomical detail made ambiguous by scale change or use of a repetitive pattern.

Repeal sought on real estate procedure act

Art S. Leitch, president of the National Association of Realtors, has called for repeal of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act of 1974 (RESPA).

Testifying before the housing subcommittee of the House Banking, Currency and Housing Committee, Leitch called the act one "which has not served its intended purposes and which has in many cases worked against them.

"Rather than decreasing settlement costs and increasing consumer choice," Leitch said, "RESPA has raised costs through paperwork and delay, decreased home buyer's ability to compare terms of several mortgages, driven lending institutions out of the home mortgage market, increased lenders' conservatism and, in general, burdened home buyers and sellers with delay, inconvenience, invasions of privacy and increased indirect costs."

Leitch pointed to a number of problems which he said the law was intended to correct, but which, in fact, it magnified. Among them is the advance disclosure requirement which was intended to give prospective borrowers time to "shop" for the best available mortgage deal.

In fact, Leitch contended, to process an applicant through the RESPA procedure is expensive, and the front-end time required to gather all of the RESPA information results in a serious lag between loan application and commitment.

When the buyer and seller finally receive their disclosure statement, "they are so confused by its complexities and so tired of the complications, they have lost interest in using the required 12- to 15-day waiting period to complicate matters by 'shopping around' for settlement services," he charged.

Leitch pointed to a Realtor survey on RESPA problems as evidence. When asked, "Do you find that home buyers actually use the 12- to 15-day notice period to shop around for settlement services?", seven boards of Realtors answered "yes" and 316 said "no."

Real estate

Leitch offered the following specific recommendations:

—Repeal Section 6, the advance disclosure provision. Again, he pointed to the Realtor survey, in which 85 per cent of the respondents indicated that RESPA had significantly delayed the settlement process.

—Develop a "meaningful waiver provision" if advance disclosure requirements are retained in any form. When local boards were asked whether the current waiver provision worked in their areas, Leitch said, about three quarters of the boards said "no."

The only sensible way to design a waiver, he added, is to inform the buyer and seller of their right to advance disclosure, and then permit them to waive it by mutual agreement.

—Eliminate the uniform settlement statement, because of the diversity of state and local practices. Leitch called for authority to allow local design of forms, an authority partially granted under HUD's Oct. 9 regulations.

—Repeal Section 7, requiring disclosure of the previous purchase price for certain properties, not occupied by the owner. This section was designed to reveal the amount of profit realized on the sale of such properties.

Leitch conceded that there have been abuses in connection with inner-city homes, "sold by speculators with false appraisals and deceiving, cosmetic repairs, to unsophisticated home buyers." But he pointed out that, if inner-cities are to be rejuvenated, someone has to put capital into them.

"We are kidding ourselves," he said, "if we think that people with money to invest are clamoring to put it into the central cities. The only reason that most investors will take these problems on will be to make a good profit."

He noted that substantial profits are being realized on the sale of owner-occupied homes in today's market, the disclosure of which is not required by RESPA.

"It is not so hard to understand that the honest inner-city housing investor needs a little more than an average profit to make his involvement worth while," Leitch said, "and that this disclosure requirement works against the intent of Congress to encourage his involvement."

Observing that all of these desirable practices could, under Section 8, bring on treble damage law suits by requiring a definition of earned fees based on costs expended. Letich said: "The division of the commission between cooperating brokers is, and must be, a flat percentage based on results rather than costs."

Pre-sale prices offered

Prices for the North Pointe Homes in Upland have been set and a grand opening is set for later this month.

With six floor plans and 18 different exteriors available, the prices will range from $55,300 to $69,900, said Roni Armstrong, marketing director for Armstrong Development Corp.

"We feel our prices are not only competitive but also represent an outstanding value on today's housing market," she added. "The size of the homes, the quality of construction and the full range of built-in features put these homes above anything else available at comparable prices."

Buyers have a choice of three and four bedroom models, with many exceeding 2,500 square feet of floor space. These are built on "oversize" lots.

While construction isn't yet complete, an advance sales program is currently underway. "The early homebuyers, of course, will enjoy the widest choice of design and location within the neighborhood and the opportunity to virtually customize their homes," she said.

"Until we reach the stage where interior furnishings are installed, we will be happy to work with families in coordinating the patterns and colors of their choice."

North Pointe is being developed in two separate tracts. One is on 20th Street and the second on 22nd Street. Both are near San Antonio Avenue.

Homes in both projects feature large living rooms, formal dining rooms, fireplaces, built-in kitchen food centers and spacious master bedroom suites.

Nation's building recovery blunted

Weakness in several types of non-residential construction during September blunted the recent recovery of the Dodge Index, considered the construction industry's advance indicator of future work.

September contracts for future construction were valued at $7,691,780,000, six per cent below the year-ago total, reported the F.W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Co.

The seasonally adjusted Dodge Index, which uses 1967 at its 100 base, slipped to 157—the lowest reading of the past six months. In August, the index had reached 208, its all time high.

Construction contract statistics issued by the Dodge Division usually lead the on-site demand for building materials and labor by six months to a year.

"September's contracting statistics lacked the two or three exceptionally large projects that have been swelling totals during most of the spring and summer months," explained George A. Christie, vice president and chief economist for F.W. Dodge.

"Since these large and unusually expensive jobs — electric generating facilities and chemical processing plants costing hundreds of millions of dollars each —have been having such a strong influence on construction activity in 1975, it actually is more helpful to examine averages for the quarter, rather than the erratic monthly indexes, to gain a better perspective of what is happening this year."

Christie reported that quarterly averages of monthly contract data through 1975 show a very weak first quarter, at 143, followed by a solid recovery in the second, to 185, and a plateau in the third quarter, at 177.

Residential building contract value in September showed a "rare" 21 per cent increase over last September and totaled $2,965,992,000. "It was the first time in more than two years," Christie noted, "that any month's residential building value actually exceeded the value for the same month a year earlier. All of September's housing gain was confined to single-family units but the still-depressed apartment market is finally beginning to close the gap," he added.

The nonbuilding construction category, which reflects the impact of exceptionally big projects, was down 12 per cent in September, to $2,199,514,000. By contrast, the value of nonbuilding construction in August was more than double the same month in 1974. In the latest month, highway work held even with last year, electric utility projects were down sharply, and sewer contracting showed a strong gain.

"September brought a worsening of the current weakness in nonresidential building, where industrial and commercial construction have not yet shaken off the effects of the recent recession," said Christie. Contracts for all nonresidential buildings — industrial, commercial, and institutional — amounted to $2,526,274,000, a decline of 21 per cent from the same month of 1974.

At the end of nine months, the total value of construction contracts was $71.6 billion, "exactly even" with 1974's cumulative amount.

Prices are set for North Pointe homes

Builders of Mountain Villas, an adult townhouse community in Upland, are offering pre-sale prices of $26,995 for two bedroom homes and from $29,995 to $30,995 for three bedroom homes.

The townhomes are offered with down payments as low as five per cent.

Two furnished homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. for preview showings. These are located at 13th Street and Mountain Avenue. Sales representatives are on duty.

Buyers have their choice of one and two story designs with 1½ and 2 bathrooms and a selection of 13 exteriors. Most plans have enclosed double garages with laundry areas or inside laundry service areas.

The homes also have large family rooms with dining areas or living and dining areas in various plans. The kitchens have ceramic tile counter tops, built-in gas ranges and ovens, dishwashers and disposals.

The homes are surrounded by landscaped greenbelts with a private swimming pool and cabana area for residents.

Low interest rate aids Fairway sales

Pete Peterson, sales manager for Herbert Hawkins Realtors at Fairway Hills in Walnut, reports a 7½ per cent interest rate is responsible for brisk sales at that development's second phase.

The price range from $54,995 to $68,995 for the 46 homes in the group. Conventional financing is offered. Buyers can move in on Feb. 1.

The initial phase of 25 homes was quickly sold and construction on a third phase is planned for January, said Peterson.

Fairway Hills is a development of LaSolana Corp. and features single, split-level and two story homes with up to 2,318 square feet of floor space.

Some lots overlook the Pomona National Golf Course. The area is served by the Walnut School District.

A sales office is open daily from 11 a.m. until dusk. It is located on Colima Road a half mile east of the Pomona National Country Club.

To reach it, persons may drive west on the Pomona Freeway to the Brea Canyon turnoff, go south to Colima Road, and then drive west to Fairway Hills signs.

Homes almost ready

A number of families will celebrate Christmas in the new Lewis Homes-Upland development located near San Antonio Avenue and 15th Street.

The homes feature fireplaces — focal points for holiday gatherings — plus shag carpeting and kitchens with ceramic tile counters, luminous ceilings, ranges, double ovens and garbage disposals.

Prices for the three and four bedroom homes start at $46,550. VA, FHA and conventional financing are available.

The one and two story homes have from 2,474 to 2,801 square feet of floor space.

Lewis Homes also has its Prestige Series new unit at San Antonio Avenue and 22nd Street, Upland, under construction.

These homes are priced from $67,000. The four and five bedroom plans feature Italian ceramic tile entries, wet bars, fireplaces and microwave and regular self-cleaning ovens. All are air conditioned.

Claraboya offers built-in features

Because families are seeking ways to stretch their home-buying dollars, built-in features weigh heavily in their decision to buy one home over another, said Roni Armstrong, marketing director for Armstrong Development Corp.

She reported the Claraboya homes in the hillsides of Claremont have many such built-in features. These include sunken living rooms, wet bars, indoor planters, intercom systems, ceramic tile entries and counters, woodburning fireplaces and sunken Roman tubs.

They also have refrigerated air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting, formal dining rooms, separate family rooms and eating areas in the kitchens.

Buyers have their choice of three floor plans, all with three car garages and separate laundry facilities.

The final unit of 15 homes is nearly complete and the development's sales office is open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk.

Persons may reach the homes by taking the San Bernardino Freeway to the Indian Hill Boulevard exit, go north to Base Line Road, left to Mountain Avenue, right to Via Espiritos Santos and again right to San Angelo Drive and the homes.

Don't delay to get tax credit

Time is running out for buyers who wish to qualify for a $1,500 income tax credit at North Towne Park, according to a spokesman for Herbert Hawkins Realtors.

Sales manager Bob Omohundro said that due to the recently enacted Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act, about 45 days is now required to close an escrow. Escrows must be closed on or before Dec. 31 to qualify for the tax credit on new homes and buyers must therefore make their purchases by Nov. 15.

Sales now total $750,000 and only 23 townhouses remain at North Towne Park, located in the Claremont School District north of Foothill Boulevard.

Most units qualify for the tax credit and 8¾ per cent conventional financing still prevails with a minimum 5 per cent down. Prices range from $29,950 to $36,000.

A good selection of two and three-bedroom, 1½ or 2½ bath plans remain and children are welcome. The development is noted for wide green belt areas, large heated pool and recreation facilities.

To reach North Towne Park from Foothill Boulevard or the San Bernardino Freeway, drive north on Towne Avenue to furnished models at 3600 N. Towne. They are open daily from 10 to dusk.

3 guests set for meeting

Three guests will speak at the Apartment Association program Wednesday night in Claremont.

The program, starting at 7:30 p.m., will be held at the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association building at Foothill and Indian Hill Boulevards.

— Roy Leventhal of Crowell-Leventhal building firm, "Rental Housing in the West End."

Also on the program will be Vic Tessier, association attorney, who will conduct the "problem clinic."

Entertaining area is increased by stairs

Idle rooms and unimproved floor space are fast disappearing in homes as families beat the high cost of moving by remodeling attics, basements or garages into new bedrooms or leisure areas.

Originally, the only way to the unfinished room was down the back stairs behind the kitchen and through the basement laundry room. This was all right for the family but not too good for entertaining.

So one couple has cut a round hole 5½ feet across in the middle of the floor between the new living room and family room-dining area. The husband and wife then dug a rectangular hole alongside the basement room so they wouldn't lose any floor space.

The stairs were brought in by sections and welded in place. The steps are iron frames with wood pieces cut to fit and then set in. The treads are covered with carpeting that is removable for cleaning and replacing.

Carpeting, white paint and cedar paneling add brightness and color hardly imaginable before the renovation began. And the new stairs make it easy for an overflow of friends to move downstairs into the new party room.

FMC has record earnings

FMC Corp. of Chicago, Ill., which operates the FMC Wayne sweeper plant in Pomona, has reported record high sales and earnings for the third quarter of the year and first nine months of 1975.

Net income for the quarter totals $23.5 million, or 70 cents per share, an increase of 38 per cent over net earnings of $17 million and 50 cents per share last year.

For the ninemonth period, net income totaled $83.4 million, or $2.50 per share, up 31 per cent from $63.7 million and $1.89 per share for the first nine months of 1974.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Audits of gasoline stations in California, Arizona, Nevada and Hawaii turned up 917 dealers in violation of price ceilings between November 1973 and May 1975, a federal official says.

The mood of Angola is captured in photography

They built Ft. Sao Miguel on Luanda Bay while America was still an endless wilderness, and the Portugese flag has flown over the fort ever since.

Seldom has an independence day approached with so much foreboding. Three guerrilla groups are engaged in a civil war for control of the nation to be. Each holds bits and pieces of territory and their fighting has destroyed commerce. There's no gasoline, little food, no longer public transportation.

The highways and railroads which cross Angola, normally carrying the minerals and agricultural output of a rich and productive economy, have been cut or rendered useless.

There were 500,000 whites here once; families that had lived in Angola for decades. Most have left now on the daily flights of an international airlift run by the United States, Portugal and France. Many blacks also are going. Portugal's decision to grant independence, and the spread of the fighting to Luanda, the capital, prompted the exodus.

The whole country is marked by it. Thousands of refugees wait at airports for planes. Some have camped for days on tarmacs. Tens of thousands of pieces of baggage lie about, left behind. At the port, docks are jammed with mountains of crated personal belongings. The loading and unloading of ships is hampered because white foremen walk off the docks when seats become available to them on the airlift.

Civil war is a way of life for 5.5 million Angolans. Hope is gone for a peaceful settlement. The factories remain closed, farms cease to produce because markets are closed, and those who can, leave. The rest join the fight or wait on the sidelines for someone to win and patch Angola together again.

FDA orders microwave inspections

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration said that it has ordered General Electric Co. to inspect 36,000 more microwave ovens for radiation leakage and make free repairs where necessary.

But the firm, which was earlier directed to recall about 17,800 older models of its GE Versatronic and Hotpoint Cook Center microwave-thermal ranges, is resisting the new order.

The FDA's Bureau of Radiological Health said recent testing found 17 ovens manufactured after November, 1973, exceeded the federal radiation emission limit of five milliwatts per square centimeter.

A bureau document said GE was directed "to submit a plan for repairing the ovens at no cost to consumers or to provide evidence that the noncompliance does not exist or that an exemption from the notification and repair requirements of the Radiation Control for Health and Safety Act should be granted."

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — To keep track of safety pins, slip your supply on one big pin by threading the point of the big pin through the spring holes of all the others. — BESSIE.

© 1975 by NEA, Inc.

DEAR POLLY — When rushed for time and I find no hard-cooked eggs in the refrigerator for a salad I simply poach the eggs. When done, I place them on a paper towel to absorb excess water and they work just fine. — SUSAN.

DEAR POLLY — When my good vinyl tablecloth became stained and marked, I cut flowers from some adhesive-backed scraps from shelf liners and applied these flowers over the stains. The flowers stick securely and wiping the cloth does not disturb them. — JAN.

DEAR POLLY — To more easily remove adhesive-backed shelf paper I run a warm iron over the top surface and then peel it off. To protect the iron plate from any of the glue substance it could be covered with a pressing cloth. — MRS. M.

DEAR POLLY — I make my own tinted cream foundation make-up by mixing my favorite cream and face powder. They are mixed in a jar with my fingers. A little of each is added until I get the desired consistency and color. I wait about five minutes after applying this, and then powder as usual. — JOAN.

DEAR POLLY — I cut many food coupons from the newspaper and, as I do, I check to see if there is an expiration date. I immediately encircle the date with a red felt tip pen (kept with my scissors) so the date stands out. This makes it easier to check to insure I do not miss out on one. — J.W.

DEAR POLLY — Old pantyhose make wonderful liners for hanging baskets. Turn hose wrong side out, tie legs in a double knot up to the crotch, cut legs off beneath the knot and line a basket with this upper part of the pantyhose. With knots inside the basket, fold the elastic waistband over the rim, press down inside and fill basket with well packed dirt. — A. B. Y.

●

DEAR POLLY — When using an opaque plastic container for juice, remove the label from the can and tape to the container for at-a-glance identification. — EMMA.

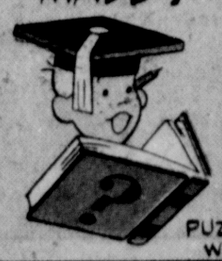
THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

STACI WESTPHALEN OF TURLOCK, CA, ASKS:
"HOW ARE BRICKS MADE?"



COMMON BRICKS ARE MADE OF BAKED CLAY. TO MAKE BRICKS, THE CLAY IS MIXED WITH WATER. SOME SAND IS ADDED, TOO. THE SOFT CLAY IS PRESSED INTO A LONG RIBBON AND THEN CUT INTO BRICKS. AFTER THE BRICKS HAVE DRIED, THEY ARE BAKED IN A SPECIAL OVEN CALLED A "KILN." THIS MAKES THEM HARD AND STRONG SO THEY WON'T CRUMBLE IF THEY GET WET.

A NASHVILLE CELEBRATION!

The 50th Anniversary of a musical institution that helped shape the course of entertainment in America is commemorated Tuesday (at 8:30PM) when ABC presents "The Grand Ole Opry at 50—A Nashville Celebration." Hal Holbrook is host of the salute which stars most of the royalty of country music including Minnie Pearl and Roy Acuff (pictured here). Other guests will include Chet Atkins, Bill Anderson, the Carter Family, Johnny Cash, Roy Clark, Freddy Fender, Grandpa Jones, Loretta Lynn, Barbara Mandrell, Bill Monroe, Dolly Parton, Charlie Pride, Marty Robbins, Hank Snow, Ernest Tubb and Porter Wagoner. In addition to live performances, the Special will include vintage and current film spanning the Opry's half-century.

ERIC

"Eric," a two-hour drama based on a true story of courage, which stars John Savage, Patricia Neal and Claude Akins, opens the Hallmark Hall of Fame season on NBC, Monday at 8PM. The Special, adapted from the best-selling book of the same title and written by Doris Lund, tells of her son, terminally ill with cancer, and how he lives his last years to the fullest despite his affliction. Also appearing are Sian Barbara Allen as Mary Lou, a nurse who falls in love with Eric; Mark Hamill as Mark, Eric's younger brother; and Nehemiah Persoff as a specialist and one of Eric's doctors.

MOVIE 'KILLER' PLAYS 'MR. NICE GUY'

For a man constantly typecast as a psychotic killer, Perry King finds normal "Mr. Nice Guy" roles more challenging to portray. Ironically, the role demanding more of King than other parts he has played is an average person with an added dimension. King plays Rocco Laurie, one half of the title role in "Foster and Laurie" on Thursday, at 9PM on CBS.

It's the story of two New York policemen and what happened to them during one memorable evening in 1972. Foster is played by Dorian Harewood, an actor more at home on the Broadway stage than in front of a Hollywood movie camera. In explaining the difference between his usual killer roles and that of Laurie, King says, "The guy is fascinating because Rocco Laurie was a real person. It was a strange sensation for me to act out someone's life," he went on to say, "It was a challenge. All of the other characters I have portrayed were fictional, or they lived so long ago that the person was completely removed from my comprehension. When Dorian and I were doing the ambush scene, I felt strange and frightened. This had actually happened to Foster and Laurie." Drawing a deep breath he added, "But after completing the scene, I knew how lucky and safe I was because I had just been acting out their horror."

'CLOSED MYSTERY'

On television there are two kinds of mystery series — open and closed. An open series is one in which the viewer knows at the outset who committed the crime, then watches the detective find the culprit. A good example — Columbo.

A closed mystery is one in which neither viewer nor detective knows at the outset who the criminal is. Both are equally exposed to all the clues and at the end can match wits in solving the crime. A closed mystery, in other words is a "who done it?"

A good example, and the only one of its kind on television this season, is Ellery Queen, on NBC, Thursdays at 9PM.

Starring as Ellery Queen, writer of mystery novels, is Jim Hutton. Starring as Inspector Queen of the New York Police Department, and as Ellery's father, is David Wayne.

It is Inspector Queen who, in the line of duty, gets the cases to solve. But it is Ellery who usually solves them. Ellery wants nothing more than to work on his novels. But the inspector, appreciative of his son's uncanny deductive talents, manages to motivate his son into tackling the case.

Inspiration for the new Ellery Queen series is the long popular series of "Ellery Queen" mystery novels. Beginning with "The Roman Hat Mystery" (in 1929), 31 of these novels were written by Ellery Queen, the pen name of New York authors Frederic Dannay and his cousin, Manfred B. Lee.

Translation of the novels to other media is old hat. Ellery Queen has been done on radio, in motion pictures and in TV. On radio, Ellery was played by Donald Chase and Hugh Marlowe. On TV by Lee Phillips, Lee Bowman, George Nader and Peter Lawford. Ralph Bellamy portrayed the character in three motion pictures.

"Ellery was written as a know-it-all type of guy who patronizes his father. Frankly, he's a bore. When I researched the books at the library, I found that, basically, the character was very humorless and square.

"Well, I decided to change him. I laid a good deal of Jim Hutton over him. I made him more human, with a sense of humor.

"I have made him fallible and vulnerable. He is absent-minded because he's so wound up over writing his mystery novels. He's the kind of fellow who puts a letter in his pocket and his car keys in the mailbox."

Hutton's Hollywood career began, oddly enough, in Nuremberg, Germany. He was a soldier there in the U.S. Army. Having done little-theater work at college in upstate New York, he was acting in a play for an audience of servicemen plus a Hollywood director, who was shooting a war movie there. The director signed Hutton for the movie, then urged him to try Hollywood when he was free. Hutton did.

David Wayne, an actor for 55 of his 61 years, must have been the original "star of stage, screen and television." He has a Tony Award for his role as the singing leprechaun in the Broadway production of "Finian's Rainbow." He has another Tony for his performance in "Teahouse of the August Moon" and a stack of rave reviews for his portrayal of Ensign Pulver in "Mister Roberts."

In addition to series stars Hutton and Wayne there are guest stars, who play the victims and suspects in the various episodes. Among them Guy Lombardo, Ann Francis, Craig Stevens, Ida Lupino, Don Ameche, Susan Strasberg, Jim Backus, Rhonda Fleming, Larry Hagman, Farley Granger, Joan Collins, Ray Walston, Barbara Rush, June Lockhart, Ross Martin, Eve Arden, Bert Parks, Donald O'Connor and Betty White.

'ACTRESS AND PILOT'

Susan Oliver, actress and pilot, has been signed after a four-month search, to take over the role of Dr. Laura Horton on "Days of Our Lives," daytime serial drama on the NBC Television Network (Mondays through Fridays, 12:30PM).

Oliver replaces Susan Flannery, who left the series last May after winning an Emmy for her portrayal of the role, a psychiatrist with plenty of her own romantic problems. "This is one of the most important and long-running roles in the show," said Bolen. "We have been testing for several months because we were not prepared to settle for anything less than a superb actress who could bring something important to the role. Susan Oliver is a talented actress whom we We are happy to have her as part of the NBC family."

In the search for the new Laura, 134 other actresses, including name stars of movies and TV were tested by the "Days" top echelon — executive producer Betty Corday, producers Jack Herzberg and Al Rabin.

The signing marks Oliver's debut in daytime television and a new turn in a full career embracing stage, movies and nighttime TV.

Among Susan's recent appearances were guest-starring roles in "Petrocelli" and "Police Story" on NBC-TV. Earlier, she played Ann Howard in another serial drama, "Peyton Place," a prime time series. She also guest-starred on "The Rogues," "Man from U.N.C.L.E.," "The Defenders," "Dr. Kildare," "Ben Casey" and "The Fugitive."

Motion picture credits include starring roles in "Your Cheatin' Heart," "The Disorderly Orderly" and "Butterfield 8." Among her Broadway credits are "Look Back in Anger" and "Patate."

Susan was born in New York City on a February 13, educated at a progressive school there, at a convent in Tokyo and at Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania. It was at the progressive school (Manumit) that she got her first taste of theater.

Susan's big hobby is flying her own plane. Long a licensed pilot, she is a winner of the Powder Puff Derby, annual cross-country race for femme flyers.

"Days of Our Lives," which began on NBC-TV almost 10 years ago, weaves the story of the day-to-day lives of Dr. Tom Horton (series star Macdonald Carey), his family, friends and neighbors in the mythical town of Salem, U.S.A.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR RICHARD THOMAS, star of "The Waltons"*

If you hadn't taken up acting, what would you have done?—Mrs. Alfred Thompson, Danielsville, Ga.

● I probably would have spent the rest of my life wondering which hobby I should turn into a career. I write (poetry and screenplays), study languages (after I've mastered Chinese I'm going to tackle Persian), and am interested in photography and politics. I also like to breed and raise dogs. And there was always the possibility of my becoming a ballet dancer (both my parents are). Look what a headache I saved myself by becoming an actor!

FOR LEON JAWORSKI, Watergate prosecutor*

What did Watergate cost the taxpayers?—Larry Strozewski, La Salle, Ill.

● I can't estimate in dollars and cents, but it's certainly a small one compared to the respect citizens of our country now have for the judicial process. Had the institutions of our government not discharged their responsibilities, that result could not have been measured in dollars and cents, either.

FOR TAWNY ELAINE GODIN, Miss America 1976*

What did you say to the newswoman who referred to you as "just a chunk of meat"?—J.L. Connors, Austin, Texas

● That was during a press conference on the Monday after I won the title. I said, "If I were just a chunk of meat, you wouldn't be here interviewing me."

FOR GORDIE HOWE, hockey star*

You've felt a lot of pain in your 48 years. How did you feel about Bill Walton's refusal to play while hurt in Portland last season?—Richard Ryan, North Tonawanda, N.Y.

● Like any other athlete my age, I hurt every day. Jack Adams, my first coach at Detroit, used to say, "I don't ask you to play with injuries, just with pain." Walton is lucky he's been treated as well as he has by Portland's management.

Does working in the series make you tense? If so, how do you calm yourself down?—N.S., Green Bay, Wis.

● Yes, there's a pressure in all jobs. If I ever feel really rattled, I tour my house to see what needs to be done. Some people might not agree, but I find it relaxing to get down on my hands and knees and scrub the kitchen floor at 1 A.M.

FOR BARBARA BAIN, star of "Space: 1999"*

● If I get into a clinch with another man, Susie and Julie don't bat an eyelid. But if Marty (husband Martin Landau) goes into a passionate embrace with another woman, the first thing the girls ask him is "Was that really in the script?"

You seem to spend more time in this country than you do in your own. Why?—R.J., Huntington, W. Va.

● Two reasons: my husband and my work. John (he's an American citizen) doesn't like living in England. I grew to love America when I first came here about 10 years ago to be on Broadway. We both miss the U.S. when we're away, so we compromised and bought a home overlooking the Irish Sea, nine miles from Dublin. We're gradually making our way westward! And I'll be back on Broadway at the end of the year.

FOR JOHN WAYNE

I saw your footprints in the cement at Grauman's Chinese Theater in Hollywood, and was surprised—they seem so small! Are they really yours?—A.S., Sacramento, Calif.

● Those sure are my marks in the cement. People don't realize that Western boots have heels that slant forward. That's what makes the imprint seem so small. I take a size 10½D shoe.

FOR MORLEY SAFER of "60 Minutes"*

Wasn't it unfair for you to question Mrs. Gerald Ford on such a controversial matter as the possibility of Susan's having an affair?—Mrs. J.B., Amherst, N.Y.

● The interview was just a conversation between two adults concerning subjects that adults, particularly parents, talk about. Mrs. Ford didn't feel the questions were unfair. Indeed, even after the controversy broke out, nobody at the White House complained about the questions.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Why are all those beauty contest queens so stuck up? —J.B., Los Angeles, Calif.

● According to Karen Margaret Petersen, the outgoing Miss Teenage America, you've got it wrong. She says, "Guys think there's no use asking you out. 'She's too good for me,' they say and they don't try to make a pitch." She claims this impression is all wrong. It didn't bother her, though, since she has a steady boyfriend. But she did pass on this tip to this year's contestants (Miss Teenage America will be crowned November 15 on NBC-TV): "We're not goddesses. We want to be brought down to earth, not held high on a pedestal." And there are sides to these winners that people don't know about. Karen said: "I love tear-jerkers, I'm a romanticist at heart. . . . I always go to Mom for advice, she has the best answers. . . . Celebrities aren't that fascinating, they're just normal people with household names."

Really Useful, Practical Advice:

By Shirley Sloan Fader

How to Keep a Job When the Going Is Tough

You are not alone if you sometimes worry about keeping your job. A certain amount of low-level "job anxiety" is probably normal for most people. "Is my boss really satisfied with my work?" "Is anything going on in the company that might threaten my position?" These are thoughts that flit through people's minds even in good times. When unemployment climbs, worries increase.

To help you strengthen your hold on your job, FAMILY WEEKLY has questioned three experts who are leaders in understanding "boss psychology." We asked these men:

(1) What can people do to make themselves and their jobs look "necessary" when business is bad and job cutbacks are contemplated?

(2) How can you protect your job when you have a new boss?

(3) Even when things appear to be all right, how do you maintain and strengthen your position in your boss's eyes?

Dr. Ernest Dichter, consulting psychologist, told us, "There are two keys. If you use them, there won't be any need to worry about who is going to take your job.

"Psychologically, it is well known that tactful flattery, which is never refused by anyone, is best transmitted by imitation. What are some of the special ways that your boss organizes his or her desk, work station or office? What is his or her approach when tackling a problem? Have you ever really paid attention? Does your boss have some special phrases, approaches, business methods? If you know how to reflect almost a duplicate image of some unique aspects of your boss's way of doing things, you have a good start toward presenting yourself in a way that will get your boss to like you and your work. This is how it works: Suppose you're a salesperson. Tomorrow your supervisor will be traveling with you. What are some approaches, phrases, key selling points that he uses about your product? If you use his selling points and his key phrases, he's got to feel good about you because you're using his approach. Even if you don't land the order, his reaction will be, 'Ah, it was a lousy prospect, anyway.'

"The second necessity is learning how to get feedback from your boss. Only through listening carefully to feedback can you keep track of what your boss is thinking. Then you can constantly adjust your performance. Without feedback, you're only guessing. Again, let's take the salesperson who's just completed a call, whether it's a sale or not. Instead of waiting anxiously for direct comments, get feedback by coming right out and asking, 'Okay, how did I do?' Even if you got the order say, 'Glad we got it. But what part of the visit should I look more closely at?' Whatever your work, by actively asking for feedback, you're finding out what your boss wants. At the same time you're demonstrating a desire to constantly improve, which is also bound to please."

Charles C. Vance, our second expert, told us that when a new boss appears, it's job suicide to start stabbing your old boss in the back; or to tell the new boss—or in any way make him feel—that you hoped to get the job and you're disappointed it went to her or him. It is also dangerous to give the new

Is your cigarette less than More?

If it isn't More, it's less than More. Because More is the first 120mm cigarette. It's More in every way except price.

More has more style. It has more flavor. It has more. Over 50% more puffs than most 100mm cigarettes. Yet More doesn't cost more.

And what's more, More comes in both regular and menthol. They're both long, lean and burnished brown. Regular More delivers rich tobacco flavor while More Menthol packs a cooling blast. Puff after puff after puff.

You'll find that More and More Menthol smoke slower and draw easy for more enjoyment. They're more flavorful. Yet they're surprisingly mild.

More and More Menthol. They sit neat in your hand like they were made for it and fit your face like they found a home.

The FREE HOME TRIAL COUPON below entitles you to wear and enjoy any or all of the golden beauties shown — without risking 1¢. Take your pick, then clip the pictures of your favorites and rush them with coupon below. Each ring has a grand total of 100 points or better of famous KRYSTAGEMS — amazing man-made stones that rival nature-made diamonds costing up to $1250 or more!

AMAZE YOUR FRIENDS

We'll gladly rush all the rings you choose right to your door, so you can compare them with costly diamond rings. But please do us a favor. When they arrive, let your friends look. See how surprised they'll be and maybe a little envious too! Practically anyone seeing Krystagems wishes he could afford one too. Little does he know it isn't a genuine diamond! That's because Krystagems aren't phoney looking plastic stones. Now you can prove the difference with the following test:

(A) Drop Krystagem and any plastic "diamond" in a cupful of acetone. (B) Next day remove both stones. The fake plastic "diamond" has become mushy and worthless. But Krystagem comes out gleaming — without a scratch. (C) Study the facets on Krystagem. How precisely they're cut! Virtually like costliest diamonds! That's why Krystagems sparkle even in dim moonlight. You're sure to love this creation of the crafty jewel simulator. It's so hard, so dense, so free from specks and flaws!

NOW LESS THAN 1¢ ON DOLLAR!

Just because Krystagem now costs only $5 — don't mistake it for dull, plastic fakes. Of course, Krystagem is different from a nature-made diamond. But the nicest difference is that you can get it for $5 — not $1250 or more!

WHY DO MILLIONAIRES WEAR SIMULATED DIAMONDS?

Many millionaires and movie stars wear simulated diamonds — but keep the secret from the public. Think of this: those "genuine" diamonds your neighbors show off at parties may not be so genuine after all! Krystagems look so realistic, only an expert can tell them from diamonds. Many wealthy persons keep expensive diamonds in a bank safe and wear simulations to avoid burglary or loss.

GREAT GIFT FOR A SPECIAL PERSON

Can you think of a greater gift for that Someone Special — a gift that costs less than a fine box of chocolates or bottle of perfume? Krystagems really make lovely presents. Ideal for Christmas, anniversary or graduation . . . or just an expression of your love. He or she will probably never know that Krystagem is not a natural diamond — unless you tell!

Satisfaction Guaranteed or Money Back!

You don't risk a single penny! Test it. Wear it 30 days. If not 100% satisfied, return and get your $5 back by return mail! Stocks definitely limited. To avoid disappointment, please tear out coupon and rush today — by AIR MAIL if possible.

Keeping A Job

people "an earful of gossip" about other members of your group, or to stay away from the new people and wait for them to make the first move toward friendliness.

"Actions such as these," says Vance, "set you up in your superior's mind as a troublemaker. But there are positive things you should be doing.

"Hand the new boss your job description, complete with an updating of your assignments for the last six months. How can bosses judge your competence if they don't know what

"All businesses have sweet and sour times. When your area is facing the job crunch, a jittery management wants visual reassurance that its people are working hard. The key words here are visual reassurance."

"Prepare a brief biography of yourself. In less than a page, tell how long you've been with the company and the positions you've held, responsibilities, previous work experience, education, membership in business groups. Include the selling points that show the boss you're active, involved and competent.

"Help the new boss 'learn the ropes' by saying, 'If I can be of any help in showing you where things are or the procedures that have been followed, please let me know.' But give the boss time—don't push yourself into his territory. When he does ask for help, be brief and businesslike.

"Remember you're a question mark to the new boss," says Vance. "You must sell yourself and your capability. But not too hard or too fast. Trying to be an 'instant buddy' to your new supervisor can backfire!

"All businesses have sweet and sour times. When your area is facing the job crunch, a jittery management wants visual reassurance that its people are working hard. The key words here are visual reassurance. Report to work early. Stay at your work station instead of visiting around. Be busy all day. If you don't have enough work, make some. If you feel it can be done within the frame of your job, ask your boss for more assignments. Cut out coffee breaks, or take coffee to your desk and drink it while you work. Put in some overtime. A half hour every other evening will help. Take work home once or twice a week—and let your boss know it. Take a shorter lunch break. Brown-bag at your desk when you can. All this is 'visual reassurance' to your boss. Also, for all businesses, the name of the game is still profit. Show your boss you are cost-and-profit-conscious!"

Eli Djeddah, our third employment expert, makes a point so simple, yet so fundamental, that many of us may overlook it: "The best way to get any boss to realize you're a competent worker is simply to be one. If you hate your job, can't stand the people you work with and don't want to tackle the problems the job produces, why should a boss value you? And why should you struggle to stay?

"With a new boss, don't fight changes. The new superior is feeling pressured by new responsibilities. He will be highly sensitive to criticism almost to the point of paranoia.

"When a problem arises that should be brought to your supervisor's attention, never discuss the problem unless you have solutions. Dumping problems on bosses without solutions makes them wonder what use you are to them. Go to your boss and say, 'A problem has developed that I think you would want to know about. Here are some possible solutions that I've evaluated according to their strengths and weaknesses. Could I have your advice?' When you let the boss choose, you've accomplished your end. Unless you've been utterly stupid with your solutions, the boss will like you because you're allowing his superior judgment to save the day. Now if the chosen solution turns out wrong, your boss must share the responsibility. But if it works, you've done your job well."

Djeddah explains that understanding the real power lines of your place of employment is essential. Sometimes a person who carries no title has more influence on your job future than a vice president. This is a long process of listening and observing.

When business is bad, Djeddah cautions against pushing for egocentric gains. Don't ask for a salary increase, an extended vacation, more help to do your job or even for a new desk blotter. And strive always to make yourself a pleasant co-worker. "American Harvest"
An Original Work of Art by Thomas Rubel Chief Medallic Designer The Hamilton Mint

THE HAMILTON MINT MINT OFFERS FOR THE FIRST TIME—AN EXCLUSIVE THANKSGIVING COMMEMORATIVE PLATE IN SOLID AMERICAN PEWTER

This is the first of what should become a much sought after limited edition collector's series, dedicated to the spirit of Thanksgiving.

THANKSGIVING...the first great American holiday. In honor of this proud tradition, The Hamilton Mint will issue its First Annual Thanksgiving Day Plate, an exclusive work of original art in gleaming Solid Pewter.

This exquisite minted masterpiece was designed by the distinguished medallic artist Thomas Rubel. The plate magnificently captures the spirit of the Pilgrim's first Thanksgiving in a strikingly beautiful combination of bas-relief sculpture and fine etching. The plate will measure a full 9 inches in diameter, and will be struck in Solid Fine American Pewter for only $40.00. The Hamilton Mint will pay postal charges on all orders.

A FIRST ANNUAL LIMITED EDITION

There will be only one minting of the 1975 Thanksgiving Day Plate, and only enough plates will be struck to fill orders postmarked by November 30, 1975. Upon completion of the issue, the minting dies will be destroyed and the edition will be forever closed.

Each plate will be hallmarked and inscribed with your own personal serial number. Subscribers will also receive a Certificate of Authenticity, verifying the limited edition status of the issue, and a handsome case to display and protect the plate.

AN EXCEPTIONAL COLLECTOR'S VALUE

As in the case of any limited edition work of art, the first annual of any series assumes the greatest value. Collectors wishing to own what will undoubtedly become an important first edition will find The Hamilton Mint's Thanksgiving Day Plate just that.

Also available: Thanksgiving Day Ingot

This stunning 2nd Annual proof ingot contains a full ounce of precious .999 Fine Silver, the purest available, and depicts American Wild Turkeys in frosted bas-relief set against a brilliant mirror-like background. Each will be individually serially numbered, hallmarked and accompanied by a Certificate of Authenticity. Just $18.00 in solid .999 Fine Silver and only $23.00 in 24 Kt. Gold on .999 Fine Silver.

THE HAMILTON MINT IS THE WORLD'S SECOND LARGEST PRIVATE MINT.

Smart Cooking Day Before Payday

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a substantial soup the basis of a family supper. "This recipe is easy to make," says Marilyn. "It contains an appealing mixture of vegetables with pimiento added for color. A bit of bacon provides the salty-smoky just-right chowder flavor."

A Thick Chowder With the Smoky Taste of Bacon

Liller-Neal-Battle-Lindsay

HEARTY VEGETABLE CHOWDER

- ¼ lb. bacon, coarsely chopped
- 2 cups boiling water
- ½ cup thinly sliced onion
- 1 cup diagonally sliced celery
- 1 cup diced potatoes
- 1 cup thinly sliced carrots
- 1 cup cut green beans
- 1 can (17 ozs.) whole kernel corn, drained
- ½ teaspoon garlic powder
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 cups evaporated milk, undiluted, or light cream
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ cup water
- 1 jar (4 ozs.) or can pimientos, undrained, coarsely chopped

1. In 3- to 4-qt. saucepan, fry bacon until crisp. Scoop out bacon with slotted spoon and drain on paper towels.

2. Add boiling water, onion, celery, potatoes, carrots, beans, corn, garlic powder, salt and bay leaf to bacon drippings. Stir; heat to boiling, reduce heat, cover and boil slowly about 20 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

3. Stir in evaporated milk. Blend flour and water smoothly, stir into soup.

4. Add pimientos. Return to boiling, reduce heat, cover and simmer for 5 minutes. Makes about 2 qts.

CORNY ONION MUFFINS

- 1 cup yellow corn meal
- 1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- ¼ cup shortening
- 1 egg

1. Heat oven to 425°F. Grease an 8 x 8 x 2-inch or 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Or grease 12 medium muffin cups.

2. In medium bowl, blend all ingredients about 20 seconds. Beat hard one minute. Pour into prepared pan. If using muffin pans, fill two-thirds full.

3. Bake corn bread about 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Bake corn muffins about 15 minutes or until golden. Makes 1 square corn bread or 12 muffins

FALL FRUIT SALAD

- Crisp lettuce leaves
- 1 can (30 ozs.) cling peach halves, drained
- 1 can (30 ozs.) pear halves, drained
- 2 Delicious apples, cored and cut into eighths
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 lb. Tokay grapes, cut in clusters
- 1 pkg. (3 ozs.) cream cheese, room temperature
- 1 cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
- ½ cup peach syrup
- dash salt
- 1 teaspoon poppy seeds, optional

1. Arrange crisp lettuce leaves in serving bowl. Alternate peach halves and pear halves in a circle on greens. Reserve ½ cup peach syrup.

2. Dip apple slices in lemon juice and tuck here and there between peaches and pears. Place grapes in center.

3. In small bowl, beat cream cheese until soft and creamy. Blend in salad dressing smoothly. Gradually add peach syrup. Stir until blended. Add salt and poppy seeds. Refrigerate both salad and cream cheese dressing if not serving immediately. Makes 6 servings

What's Smart: You can save money two ways by preparing this main-dish soup. First, you get flavor at low cost by using just a small amount of bacon. Second, canned evaporated milk is cheaper than fresh milk. The Fall Fruit Salad uses canned peaches and pears, which are in good supply now, plus autumn-fresh apples and grapes. This dish combines both salad and dessert in one.

Leaf of Life

Amazing! Mystical!

The Leaf of Life is so amazing the Yogis of India believe that these mystical leaves possess the Secret of Life.

Wherever a leaf falls, a new plant starts to grow . . . on air, water, or soil.

Yes, the Leaf of Life can start to grow on air alone. New plants grow from the edges of each leaf.

After it starts, put the leaf in a pot. The bigger the pot, the bigger the plant will grow — from one to six feet tall. You can have the size you want and it grows in sun or shade.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Hidden Reasons Why People Get Headaches

True or False? Some people get a headache every time they eat a chocolate bar. (See number 3.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Most headaches are caused by the people around you—or your reaction to them.
2. Most common headaches go hand in hand with a sense of insecurity and feelings of anxiety.
3. Some people get a headache every time they eat a chocolate bar.
4. Women have more headaches than men.
5. People who suffer from migraine headaches tend to have specific personality traits in common.
6. It's possible to ward off a migraine headache if you catch it in time.

ANSWERS

1. True. As a Mayo Clinic expert observes, the vast majority of headaches fall into two categories: the muscle-contraction or tension headache and the vascular or migraine variety, or a combination of these two types. Emotional conflicts triggered by friends, relatives or co-workers have been found to be significant factors in headaches of both types. Of course, when headaches persist, a physical examination is in order, for it could be a symptom of a more serious disorder.

2. True. Studies show that anxiety and insecurity often lead to "increased contraction of skeletal muscles in the head and neck and produce the condition referred to as muscle-contraction or tension headache." These headaches gradually diminish as the individual appreciates what causes them and is able to relax.

3. True—but chocolate itself is rarely the villain. A team of investigators in England, at London Hospital's Section of Neurological Sciences, made a study of a sample of hundreds of subjects who stated they were "unable to eat even small quantities of chocolate without suffering from headache." In the study, subjects were given samples of chocolate and "fake" chocolate to eat. Many reported headaches after eating the fake chocolate as well as the real chocolate. Many experienced no headache at all after eating each of the samples. Only two subjects consistent experienced headaches each time th ate the real chocolate. The inves gators concluded that chocolate on own is rarely the cause of headach The causes are more apt to be stre and various dietary factors.

4. True. A survey of the general pop lation has shown that women definite do have more headaches than me Also, research at the University Kansas Medical Center has shown th in addition to a higher incidence headaches, women tend to have mo severe headaches than men.

5. True. Dr. Charles D. Aring, cha man of the department of neurology University of Cincinnati's College Medicine, who has made a study of t matter, reports that "Persons wi migraine, almost without exceptio are intelligent. Generally they are tens striving, orderly, overly conscientiou and meticulous in performance and their requirements of others. And th tend to become immersed in detail It is also interesting to note in th connection that a personality profil taken from the medical histories over 1,400 headache sufferers, showe a higher-than-average intellectual lev and a strong ego.

6. True—according to U.S. Publ Health studies, which reported th people frequently "experience a warn ing of the impending migraine hea ache, such as streaks of light or othe 'fireworks' of vision, numbness, ti gling and perhaps nausea." This warn ing allows the individual to lie down soon as possible in a dark room or t take the medicine his doctor has pre scribed. Also, people may be able t avoid migraine headaches by changin their behavior. Studies show that th tendency to overreact to the stresse and strains of everyday life is a chie factor in predisposing a person to mi graine. This evidence suggests tha efforts to control and modify one' reaction to things would help to avoid migraine.

JIM PLUNKETT:

He's Given the Lie to the "Heisman Hex"

The New England Patriots' Jim Plunkett has given the lie to the legend that winners of the Heisman Trophy fall on their faces in the pro game. Plunkett, a former Stanford All-American, has been the key in the transformation of the Patriots from N.F.L. doormat to championship contender. . . . A 6-foot-2 Mexican-American, Plunkett's success story reads like a Hollywood script. His parents were both blind. While growing up in San Jose, Calif., Plunkett worked long hours delivering papers and pumping gas in a service station to help support the family. But he was a natural athlete. At age 14, he could throw a football 65 yards. . . . After his first year in college, Plunkett was sidelined by a thyroid operation that threatened to end his athletic career. His coach suggested he give up quarterbacking. To build his strength, Plunkett began throwing 500 to 1,000 passes a day. Finally regaining his quarterback slot, he went on to break a long string of college, conference and national passing records. . . . Plunkett was the Number-1 draft choice for New England in 1971, but his performance during the first few years as a pro was mixed, lending some credence to the theory of a "Heisman hex." "Things went bad particularly in my second year and I got down on myself mentally," he recalls. "But then I learned not to worry and brood about past failures and to concentrate on the day's performance. I learned how to take things calmly and it made a great deal of difference to me."—By Barry Abramson

Johnny Nash: My Ten Favorite Records

Johnny Nash didn't rush into show business—he waited until he was four. He made his debut in Houston, his hometown, in a Christmas pageant, earning "adequate reviews." This is what has happened since that debut: At age 16, he responded to a Houston newspaper ad seeking contestants for the "Arthur Godfrey Talent Scouts" program. He quickly became the youngest member of the show and earned a seven-year engagement, Johnny's career took a significant turn when he toured the Caribbean after his movie debut in "Take a Giant Step." He fell in love with Jamaican music and began making records there. His first, "Hold Me Tight," was a smash hit. In 1971 he signed with Epic Records, and his new album, "Tears on My Pillow," looks like another hit.

Medical, Nutrition, and Fitness Experts Warn You

BEWARE

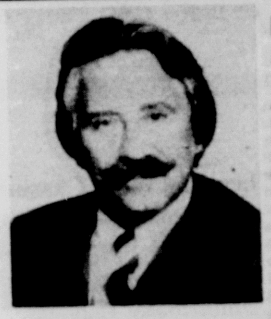
Now, there's an easy, safe, natural way to lose pounds and inches fast—and keep them off—with our simple '5' Minute Body Shaper Plan. In just 14 days, you can have a firmer, trimmer figure, and start looking years younger—without the use of dangerous drugs, pills, rigid dieting, or complicated exercises.

Our Plan has been proven effective in 3 scientific tests. It works. In fact, it's guaranteed to work—even without giving up any of the foods you like. Just one simple and pleasant '5' Minute procedure, twice daily, lying comfortably on your back, will quickly start you toward a slimmer, firmer figure. And, as you cut down 20% of the food you eat, while following the '5' Minute procedure, ugly pounds and inches will melt away much faster than they would with diuretics or amphetamines.

We guarantee these amazing results in 14 days — or it costs you nothing!

Now, read what Joe Weider, America's leading expert in building beautiful bodies, has to say about the '5' Minute Body Shaper Plan.



Meet the Legendary JOE WEIDER,
Trainer of Champions Since 1936.

Joe Weider, even at the age of 55, still maintains a remarkable 48" chest and 34" waist. He can lift 300 lbs. overhead and 450 lbs. off the floor. Since 1936, he has been training champions and beauty queens for "perfect figure" titles the world over. He has also published numerous highly respected magazines, including MUSCLE BUILDER, SHAPE UP, FIGURE BEAUTY, and AMERICAN BEAUTY, in addition to writing numerous books & hundreds of articles on health and fitness, many of which have been printed in almost every language in the world. Joe Weider is a Patron Founder of the International Federation of Body Builders, in which over 80 nations regularly participate in symposiums for building fitness and strength. His teachings, which span four decades, have been used by coaches, athletes and beauty queens the world over. That's why today he is called THE LEGENDARY JOE WEIDER, TRAINER OF CHAMPIONS.

Q. Why do you say the '5' Minute Body Shaping Plan produces better results for the average man or woman than most other exercise plans?

A. It's different from other plans because the Body Shaper works all the muscles gently and gracefully at one time...in a simple, rhythmic manner. It firms and slims where you need exercise the most: your waistline, bustline, chest, hips, legs, and arms. These are the places where fat collects quickest, giving you an aged look. Our one '5' Minute procedure creates greater aerobic activity, thereby burning off calories, stimulating circulation, and releasing excess water, helping you to lose weight. By performing this one, simple, '5' Minute procedure before breakfast and dinner, you can help control your appetite without the use of drugs or pills. The '5' Minute Body Shaper makes the procedure so pleasant and enjoyable that it gets you easily into the habit of daily exercise. And regular, daily exercise is what slims you and keeps you looking your best at all times.

Q. Must one follow a rigid diet on your plan?

A. Absolutely not! We believe crash diets can be self-defeating, and even dangerous. Under our plan, you eat what you like — even foods high in calories and carbohydrates, like pasta and rich desserts. All we ask is that you simply cut down about 20 percent on everything you eat. (It's all in the guide.) No calorie-counting, no starvation pangs, no "forbidden foods."

What's more, our unique '5' Minute Body Shaper trims down your appetite naturally as it slims your body, firming and toning your muscles to give you a more attractive appearance. You don't get the haggard, wrinkled look that so often comes from crash diets (and even diuretic or amphetamine use) that burn off too much needed tissue.

Q. What kind of results can I expect from following your scientifically tested plan for 14 days?

A. Our customers report losses of up to 5 inches from the waistline alone. Some have lost as much as 18 pounds in 14 days. But more important, they have felt an increase in vitality, firmness, and beauty. Naturally, results will vary. An average weight loss is about 7 pounds, with a waistline loss of about 2½ inches. Of course, those who stay with the plan more than 14 days report much better results.

Q. What can I expect from your '5' Minute Body Shaper Plan beyond firming up and losing weight?

A. Regular exercise can strengthen your heart. The heart is a muscle and can be developed with regular exercise. Our '5' Minute Body Shaper helps you develop more energy while it calms and relaxes you after each use. So, you feel more vital and fresher all day long. It can also help reduce tension and stress, strengthen the lungs, and help reduce slight aches and pains.

Q. How else can your plan make me look better?

A. We also show you how to maintain good posture (it's all in the Plan). Good posture automatically draws in your waistline, making you look slimmer. So, you stand taller, with a more commanding presence. Because you are losing weight naturally and firming up your body at the same time, you look and feel better. This new vitality and brisk appearance can help you look more attractive.

Q. Why do you say that diuretics, amphetamines, and other pills are dangerous and useless in losing weight and inches, over the long run?

A. First, we proved it in a carefully documented, 14-day test. Thirty women were divided into three groups of ten each. One group followed an amphetamine plan, another the diuretic plan. The third group, using only our '5' Minute Body Shaping Plan, lost more weight and inches than either of the other two groups.

Yet, while they were reducing their waistlines, most reported increases in their bustlines (chest), proving our plan also helps build tissue where you need it!

Furthermore, it is an established fact that diuretics and drugs can have unpleasant side effects: nervousness, restlessness, tremors, insomnia, hypertension, dehydration, nausea, and drowsiness. They can be very dangerous to diabetics. And, at best, their results are only temporary. Because once you stop them, your weight usually climbs right back to where it was. Our plan is the natural, medically accepted way to keep your weight and figure beauty under control for as long as you want.

Q. Is it true that "effortless exercises" are useless?

A. Exercise cannot be completely effortless. It requires movement. Also, many of the weight belts, sweat pants, etc., do little good on their own. Water lost in this way is replaced later by water you drink. Your muscles respond to work and stimulation. Nothing else. The Rich Mr. Rich on What He's Learned And How He's Lived

"I grew up on a farm, the greatest place in the world to grow up, and it did something to me. Space to roam around. Privacy. Field hands singing. It's romantic and the best thing that ever happened to me. I took it for granted as a kid, but I don't any more."

Star Chat

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

When you meet Charlie Rich, a big man—6-feet-2 when he stands up straight—with sleepy-looking, baby-blue eyes and a white mane that has earned him the nickname, "The Silver Fox," you notice he appears older than his 43 years, and a little weary. No wonder. He's been pounding the keyboard and trying to sell himself and his songs ever since he got out of the Air Force in 1955, and it's taken this long for the outside world to pay any attention. Now, at last, he's found his sound and his fame.

He played host to FAMILY WEEKLY in the plush split-level apartment Bill Harrah furnishes his top attractions when they appear at his Lake Tahoe casino. "Not bad for an ole country boy, is it?" Charlie said as we settled down to a dinner of shrimp, crabmeat, tossed green salad, filet mignon, baked potatoes, corn on the cob, broccoli, cheesecake and Pommard French wine. Charlie talked in a slow, low voice, and constantly stroked his long gray hair.

FAMILY WEEKLY: This must be quite a change from some of the places you've played before . . .

FW: Any rough stuff?

RICH: Sure. People would get likkered up, and it wasn't unusual for someone to get killed. There was a battle of some kind at least every other night.

FW: I understand you had quite a drinking problem at one time. How did it get started?

RICH: I had my first drink when I was about 15. I think it was some kind of wine. When I was in the Air Force, I started drinking Scotch and water, nothin' else. And, of course, when I played in all those joints, I drank whenever I performed.

RICH: Well, I suppose I did drink more than she liked. But I still think it's better than drugs, and believe me, I've seen it all. I once had a guitar player who was hooked on heroin, and I didn't even know it. I don't care a thing for grass, and I would never put a needle in my arm! But in those days, I thought the drunker I got, the better I was. You almost had to get stoned to play in some of those joints.

FW: But did your wife leave you because of your drinking?

RICH: Well, she certainly didn't like it. But it wasn't just that. You see, after the Air Force I went into the "family farm," but I decided I didn't like it. By that time we had three children (we have four now), and it was hard to get work. When I was in the service, I was stationed at Enid, Okla., and played in a jazz band. At night I'd play with a small combo in town. My wife, Margaret Ann, was the featured vocalist, so we were doing all right. We had a nice duplex to live in and had plenty to eat. Only on rare occasions did we have to borrow money. After I got out of the service, I went to Memphis to do my music. Margaret Ann decided it wasn't cool. I know it wasn't, but it was the best I could do. So she packed up the kids and went to live with her parents. I had to stay in Memphis. At least, until I decided to go to Vegas to better myself.

FW: You just went—without a job?

RICH: A guy told me he had some connections out there. But I never got that far. I took off in one of those deals where you drive a car for someone else, and got as far as Little Rock. Margaret Ann had been gone two or three weeks by then, and I decided I'd gone far enough. I called Margaret Ann and told her I was so broke, I didn't even have enough money to pay my bill at the Y.M.C.A. She came for me and had to help sneak me out. We've been together ever since.

FW: Have you licked your drinking problem?

RICH: Sure.

FW: How?

RICH: I went to a hospital in Memphis for two weeks and talked to a psychiatrist a lot, then I stopped totally.

FW: How did you and Margaret Ann meet in the first place?

RICH: In the seventh grade. We were in the same class. I always did like brunette girls.

FW: From what I've read you must have had a tough time as a boy.

RICH: I was born in the Depression, but it never really was that hard. Dad worked for the Highway Department, and then had a chance to get into farming when I was six, and he took it. He bought a small farm and had two farm hands. It taught me one thing—believe in land! If you buy in the right place, it can't be beat. I grew up on a farm, the greatest place in the world to grow up, and it did something to me. Space to roam around. Privacy. Field hands singing. It's romantic and the best thing that ever happened to me. I took it for granted as a kid, but I don't any more. I have some farm land now, with cattle on it, outside Memphis. I wanted to get into cotton and soybeans, things I knew. But I'm out of touch with it now. I don't want to be a farmer any more. I want to lie back and relax.

Claude Vignec, physical training expert says:

Fitness is my business

I RECOMMEND BULLWORKER® BECAUSE IT'S FAST, IT'S EASY AND IT REALLY WORKS!

Most men know they're not getting enough exercise to keep their bodies in good shape.

My experience as a fitness coach has taught me that most men will not continue with a regular training program long enough for it to do them any good unless the training is fast, easy and shows results right away.

—it's fast: each exercise takes only 7 seconds and the complete workout can be done in about 5 minutes

—it's easy: almost any man between 15 and 65 in good general health can run through the full program without getting tired

—you see your improvement right from the very first day on the built-in Powermeter. After about two or three weeks of regular training, most men can measure an extra inch or two of muscle on the shoulders, the chest, the biceps—and an inch or two less flab around the waistline.

And that's just the beginning: there are specialized exercises for building-up or trimming down any part of your body you want to: arms, back, shoulders, chest, waist and legs. What's more, since Bullworker training is progressive, you perform better each time. Yet the training always seems easy since with every work out your strength increases by about 1%—that's an increase of up to 50% in just three months, and I've seen many men go on to double and even triple their strength. In my opinion, Bullworker is the most advanced home trainer on the market today. I use it and recommend it to every man who wants to get back into shape fast.

By Tom Kennedy

She sang for her supper in those early years. Today Cher owns over a thousand gowns, 500 pairs of shoes and at her breakup with Sonny, she was given an allowance of $25,000 a week!

Astrologers looking at Cher's chart knew this would happen. Why? They saw the favorable Pluto sextile Venus which indicates a rise to prosperity. In addition, Jupiter in her 5th house predicted luck through romance. This came about through Sonny who molded her career, pushed her to stardom. Though divorced, she and Sonny remain good friends and Jupiter's luck will keep her in lovers. Recently, she's had sizzling romances with recording executive, David Geffen, and rock superstar, Gregg Allman.

As a newly married 17 year old just embarking on her career, Cher had a dream. Often she would insist that Sonny drive her past Tony Curtis's 31 room mansion. She'd say, "God, Son, I want to live there." Unbelievably, she lives in that mansion today. Saturn's placement in her chart made Cher shrewd and ambitious and able to make her dreams come true.

Another interesting placement in Cher's chart is Neptune in Libra in the 7th house. People with this Neptune placement are far out and kooky; part of the flower child generation. And while Cher may be a fashion plate today, it wasn't too long ago that she was a barefoot, jean-clad hippy-type. And even decked out in her $5,000 creations, she's far from everyday and ordinary.

ASTROLOGY AFFECTS US ALL

Cher Bono is not the only person affected by astrology. Because you were born, you yourself have a unique natal horoscope, different from all others. I'll show you what it can mean to you by using celebrities for my examples.

Your natal horoscope can help you discover your hidden talents and give you the confidence to use them. If you have the notion that you're too old to begin a new career or develop a talent, remember that Phyllis Diller was almost 40 when she began her career in comedy. Her Cancerian sign carries a strong maternal instinct which probably kept her in the home while her children were growing up. But the success spelled out in her horoscope and the touch of Moon madness in her nature urged her on to stardom.

Your horoscope can advance your career and bring you wealth. The natal chart of Burt Reynolds is as unusual as he. It said that an unorthodox event in his life would catapult him to success and fame. What could be more bizarre than posing nude – on a fur rug – in a leading woman's magazine? But his Cosmo venture was that bit of magic that made him over $1,000,000 to date!

Frank Sinatra's horoscope uses such adjectives as: wild, lucky, outspoken, impulsive, restless and independent. (Typical of Jupiter's influence.) These characteristics plus an exceptional talent, drove him to success. The same aspects that made him a star went to work again and lured him out of retirement. On the other hand, the movement of the planets and the timing of his trip to Australia were in conflict. Despite astrological warnings against traveling into the Tropic of Capricorn, Frank went to Australia where he encountered some real problems and nearly did not get out of that country.

Your horoscope can bring you love, romance and improve your life. Ann Margret's Venus placement indicates a deep and abiding capacity for love. Her horoscope predicted her marriage in 1967 to Roger Smith. At that time she was a naive, young starlet with a need for stability in her life. She credits her husband with changing her life by giving her the confidence she needed to attain success as well as great happiness.

Your horoscope can help you stay in good health. The Miami Herald printed a story of Mary Kelly who was scheduled for an operation on her legs on a Monday. In the meantime she consulted her astrologer who advised her to postpone the operation until Wednesday. It was later found that a blood clot was causing the trouble and had the operation been performed as scheduled, Mary would probably never have walked again.

THE TRUTH ABOUT ASTROLOGY

How does your natal horoscope work? An astrologer will chart the positions of the sun, moon, and eight planets as they appear above your place of birth at your exact time of birth. The placements and angular relationships of these bodies make up your natal chart. This means that someone born at the exact time as you, but in a different city, will have a different chart.

The written interpretation and analysis of your natal chart is called your natal horoscope. Astrology is not fortune telling and your horoscope does not cause things to happen to you. Your horoscope analyzes your personality, and then tells you what things are most likely to happen to you. But remember your free will can override events in your life, if you put your mind to it. In Cher's case, she wisely chose to let fate run its course.

As you've seen from the examples I've given you, some of the most famous people used their horoscope to reach success; but in other cases ignored it and faced problems. There are thousands of different ways to achieve wealth, love, success and happiness.

A good example is Euell Gibbons, the naturalist, whose interest is plants. He has published several books and appeared on the Johnny Carson Show. Many people consider him odd. But his career has brought him happiness and wealth.

Each and everyone of us is good at something no matter how odd one's talents may seem to others. Your horoscope will tell you what you're good at. So why beat your brains out on an area that you're not talented in, when an equal amount of time spent on something you're good at would put you much further ahead. Not only will you get ahead, but you'll be relaxed and happy while you're doing it.

Your horoscope will give you an in depth analysis of your personality. It will point out your strengths and show you how to utilize them. It will also discuss your weaker areas, and allow you to compensate for them.

Because your natal horoscope is such a sophisticated analysis of your personality, it will probe your subconscious mind and seek out your hidden talents. These are the areas where you thought you had talent (writing, E.S.P., sex appeal, public relations, athletics, etc.) but were afraid to try. If you've been waiting for someone to give you a little push, let your horsocope be that someone. It will give you the confidence to start using your hidden talents.

Summed up, your natal horoscope will discuss your personality, lovelife, career, finances, and health. It will help you understand and accept yourself for what you are. It will then show you where your talents lie and set you on a course of self-improvement, self-fulfillment, and true happiness.

THE AMERICAN ASTROLOGICAL ASSOCIATION
"The Nation's Largest Astrological Society"

As a child, Cher was so poor she even spent time in a home for the needy. You won't know the real truth behind her rags to riches rise until you've read about her horoscope.

As the old saying goes, "You only live once." Will you miss your success opportunities? Will you stumble into pitfalls you could have avoided, like Frank Sinatra did? Don't you owe it to yourself and to your loved ones to seize every precious moment of your life and make the best of it. Why not give yourself every advantage with the added edge of your personal natal horoscope.

For a limited time, during this special research project, you can get your personal natal horoscope for only a copying cost. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process - FREE. And you can use your horoscope for a full year on an absolutely no risk guarantee. The article below will tell you how to order your horoscope. For your own sake, please don't pass up this once in a lifetime opportunity.

Limited Time Only Research Project

How to get your Personal Natal Horoscope for only a copying cost

Send me your exact time and place of birth. I'll cast and analyze your natal horoscope for research purposes. You may have a duplicate copy of your horoscope for only $3.00 to cover the cost to make your copy plus 50¢ postage and handling. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process FREE - because of the fact we must produce your horoscope for research anyhow.

Your natal horoscope will consist of 9 pages, and 3,000 words and will provide you all of the following benefits: (Note: This is our new improved horoscope.)

- Your horoscope will help you understand and accept yourself. It will analyze your personality and explain your strengths and talents in detail. It will also point out your shortcomings and advise you on how to improve.
- Everyone of us has hidden talents just waiting to be tapped. Your horoscope will discuss your hidden talents (sex appeal, E.S.P., writing, athletics, public relations, etc.) and show you how to cash in on them.
- Your horoscope will give you an indepth analysis of your love life. Personally tailored advice on how to enjoy a more fulfilling sex life will be offered. You'll be told who you're compatible with and why and shown how to find romance. Once you find it, your horoscope will help you keep it burning hot.
- Your horoscope will instill confidence in you by showing you what you're good at. It will place you in the proper frame of mind to begin a program of all around self-improvement.
- The types of jobs and careers that you are best suited for will be listed. You'll be told which careers will bring you success and happiness and which jobs to avoid.
- Your financial future will be covered. Your attitude towards money and the best ways for you to make money will be discussed.
- Areas of your body which may pose health problems are pointed out. Tips on dieting are also offered.
- Your marital and family relationships are analyzed with emphasis on getting along with your mate, your children and your relatives.

There's no need to worry about finding out about an unavoidable coming disaster through your chart. As mentioned, astrology deals in potentials. Your free will can override potentials if you know about them. In any case, the policy of qualified astrologers is positive astrology. If there is something negative in your chart, you are told what you can do to make it positive.

When casting your horoscope, we conform to the strictest scientific principles. First the longitude and latitude of your place of birth will be charted down to the hundredth of a degree. Then any time changes due to World War II will be taken into consideration. Finally your longitude and latitude and exact time of birth will be key punched into our gigantic IBM 370 computer, which contains over 24 million bits of authenticated astrological information. No two horoscopes produced by our computer are ever alike. Your horoscope will carry your name on every page and will be cast from your exact time and place of birth for you and you alone. So you can be sure that your horoscope will not be the worthless type found in paperbacks.

A similar horoscope could cost up to $250 if done by an astrologer. But THERE'S ABSOLUTELY NO CATCH to this offer. I need this information for my astrological research. I'm looking for certain planet configurations from the people who mail in birth information. (People who fit this group can receive extra bonuses by filling out a research questionnaire.)

This research project has appeared in BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS, PARADE, FAMILY WEEKLY, SUNDAY MAGAZINE, LADY'S HOME JOURNAL, REDBOOK, McCALLS, WOMAN'S DAY, and other publications. The response has been tremendous with over 500,000 people now enjoying their natal horoscope. But that's what's so frustrating. We may never be able to run this article again. Inflation has pushed our computer, advertising, postage, and printing costs almost to the point of no return.

So for a limited time, we're gathering all the names we possibly can to finish our research project. If you'd like to help us with our research and take advantage of this special offer by ordering natal horoscopes for yourself, for your family or your friends, simply do this: Send me the name, address, time, date, month, year and place of birth for each person on a piece of paper along with the $3.00 copying cost and 50¢ postage for each horoscope. (If you don't know your exact time of birth we'll use 12:00 noon.) If you have Master Charge, BankAmericard, or American Express, you may charge your purchase by sending the following information: A. Name of your credit card B. Credit card number C. Card expiration date.

Mail your orders to the AMERICAN ASTROLOGICAL ASSOCIATION, Research Division, Dept. D-6, 401 Market Ave., N., Canton, Ohio 44702.

Your natal horoscope is covered by a one year - 365 day - full money back guarantee. If you have any questions, call me, John F. Ford, President, the American Astrological Association. Telephone me at (216) 455-1390. To avoid disappointment, why not order your horoscope right now, before you forget. Thanks.

The Rich Mr. Rich

Continued

FW: Have you seen much of the world?

RICH: There are people who love to travel, but I take after my father. He's dead now . . . died ten years ago. He had been to only three states in his whole life: Ohio, Tennessee and Arkansas. Maybe Texas. But he was always in a hurry to get home to his little white house and sit in a comfortable chair under one of his apple trees, and look out over the land. He didn't care a bit about the rest of the world. Oh, he wished them well, but he just didn't care to see it. And that's me. To some degree, I've been forced to travel. Like coming here to Harrah's at Lake Tahoe. I guess this is the most beautiful place I've ever seen, but I'm not sure I'd ever come here on my own. I'll take the "National Geographic" and read all about Australia, but I don't want to go there. Besides, I'm not that crazy about flying.

FW: Have you ever had any close calls flying?

RICH: Last December I did! I first knew we were in trouble when the stewardess came out of the pilot's compartment crying. When I get scared, I get mad, and I demanded to know what was the matter. She said the air speed indicator was out and the pilot had no idea how fast we were flying. Then the plane began vibrating like mad and we all knew something was wrong. When the pilot got on the intercom, I knew he was scared, too. He said in 38 years of flying, nothing like that had ever happened to him.

FW: How was he able to land?

RICH: A navy jet came up and our pilot controlled our speed by adjusting to it. We just followed it in. As soon as we landed, I said I wasn't going to get on another plane. I was going to drive back to Memphis!

FW: Did you?

RICH: Naw, I got back on the jet.

FW: Which of your records has been the most successful?

RICH: "Lonely Weekends"—it was the turning point in my career—and, of course, "The Most Beautiful Girl." But to get a hit song is the toughest part of all. Billy Sherrill, my producer, has a talent for picking songs I might not pick. I look for musical quality, but he knows what's commercial.

FW: Was your family very religious?

RICH: Yes, my father sang in the Baptist church choir. He had an enormous influence on my early life. Gave me quite a complex.

FW: In what way?

RICH: Well, being raised in the church the way I was, I had this guilty feeling when I was playing in all those dives.

FW: Have you any brothers and sisters?

RICH: Two sisters, and I also had a brother. He was killed when he was 12. I had a terrible feeling of guilt about his death.

FW: Why?

RICH: A whole bunch of us were in the yard when he started across the street. A car hit him. I was no more responsible than any of the others, but I always thought I should have done something. It's taken me most of my life to get over it. . . . I'm not so sure I have.

People and You

Are White Lies Really Necessary?

At the same time parents try teaching honesty to their children, they also teach them to tell white lies. Dad cautions, "Don't ever tell the neighbor again that he looks like a very old man." Mother scolds her four-year-old, "Don't tell ladies that their babies are funny-looking." Three sociologists recently investigated the practice of telling white lies. They asked 130 people to write down a conversation with another person soon after it took place. After analyzing the answers, the researchers discovered that every person had admitted leaving out part of the truth at least once during the conversation. Altogether they reported telling the complete truth only 38 percent of the time. During the other 62 percent of their conversations, they were busy trying to save their friends' feelings or save themselves embarrassment. Sometimes they told a white lie. Sometimes they changed the subject to avoid an unpleasant admission. And often they told half a truth where they either hid or played down the real story. Apparently the sociologists have officially proved what people already suspect—that even basically honest folks will often resort to truth-evasion to make and keep friends.

AMPUTEE FOOTBALL STAR

"In spite of his disability, Gary Bush of Australia has proven himself a great competitor in junior varsity football," said Gary's coach. "I place him in a different position each week so he can become familiar with all types of play." Gary, 11, lost his left leg at age two in a car accident, but he remains undaunted. Said Gary: "Having an artificial leg hasn't hampered me in the least. Some day I hope to play center."

MINNIE PEARL
No more foolishness

Country-Western veteran Minnie Pearl gave FAMILY WEEKLY her version of the Nashville scene: "I've been in Nashville for 40 years. I joined the Grand Ole Opry with such old-timers as Roy Acuff and Hank Williams. I've seen this city change from a carefree, informal society into a bustling business center, and of course I saw it grow into the mother city of country music. We used to talk foolishness here, but now everything is business. And why not? We've got the recognition now. Once we were a city of transients. We were considered a minority group. Now we're one big happy family. Sure we have our differences—that's true in any family; but we also have that marvelous, fierce loyalty to one another." Does she miss the old Opry house? (A new one was constructed last spring.) "It was hard at first, like giving up some old comfortable shoes." Minnie will be on ABC-TV's special, "The Grand Ole Opry at 50—A Nashville Celebration" on Tuesday, November 11 at 8:30 P.M. (E.S.T.).

In 95-percent white Santa Monica, Calif., the appointment of a black man to the office of mayor last April might seem an extraordinary achievement, but Nat Trives disagrees: "When I ran for mayor, I had been a postman and a police officer for many years. These highly visible occupations were a great asset. Also Santa Monica and, to a great extent, most of California are 'colorless' parts of the country. There are many black public officials in the state, so I was no threat. Santa Monica is singularly free of the crime, urban blight and racial tensions that afflict so many municipalities, so people didn't concern themselves with the color of my skin." Now Trives, 40, an associate professor of criminal justice at California State, finds his job as mayor "very exciting," but it's not a full-time job, nor does it pay well ($150 a month). What does he hope to accomplish? "We have a sizable senior-citizen population (22 percent) and they are anxious for Santa Monica to maintain its small-town character, even with a population of 90,000." Trives has his work cut out for him
